Dedication

The 1943 RAZORBACK is dedicated to a man who has become the symbol of the spirit of Americanism and the ideal of every United States fighting man, whether in the malaria-infested jungles of the South Pacific, the hot sands of Africa, or the fox holes of Europe—General Douglas A. MacArthur.

It is altogether fitting and proper that a book published by the students of the University of Arkansas should be dedicated to one of the most illustrious sons of Arkansas, Douglas MacArthur, who was born at Fort Little Rock, site of the present Camp Robinson.

We believe that the dedication of this book to General MacArthur will receive the hearty approval of the many students of the University who are in the armed forces and of the thousands of men of the state who are every day risking their lives as "Fighters of Freedom" and who, by their sacrifices and heroism on the field of battle, make the sacrifices on the home front seem trivial. Through General MacArthur we are honoring them as well.

The students of the University of Arkansas are proud to dedicate this book to a man with the caliber of leadership and ability of General MacArthur, who, as a leader of thousands of other native Arkansans, will ultimately lead us over the hard and bitter road to victory.

Foreword

No yearbook in the history of the University was ever published under more trying conditions. Shortages of film, photographers, metal, manpower, and funds, in addition to the general confusion of the times have made the publication of this book sometimes seem impossible. The job is finally done.

In its small way this yearbook, with all its trials and tribulations, is perhaps a symbol of the spirit of the average American of today, the spirit of determination that, no matter what the odds, he will complete, with head up, the task before him and then advance to overcome the next obstacle in the path to victory. Today the ability and the willingness of each American to sacrifice his ordinary routine way of life is being tested and not found wanting. The will to succeed prevails, no matter what the cost.

The beautiful foliage-covered north tower of Old Main that can be seen for miles around. Right—Snow covers the shrubs before the home of the future doctors, chemists, and geologists.

CHEMISTRY

Clouds and the field house, now army barracks, form the background for the Home Economics building. Right—Scene of graduation exercises and football rallies is the picturesque Greek amphitheatre given by Chi Omegas.

The ever visible towers of Old Main remain in view as the sun sinks in the west. Right—A blanket of snow makes the buildings more prominent in contrast with the white covering.

The Student Union entrance at night. It is here that the social life of the campus revolves. It was built for the students and is being paid for by them.

Administration

The painting by Metcalf on the opposite page shows General MacArthur reviewing the cadets at West Point at the time he was commandant of that institution from 1919 to 1922.

General MacArthur was appointed commandant in 1919 to rejuvenate the academy, which had become disorganized and depleted by the first World War. He assumed his administrative duties as a military educator with the same enthusiasm and ability that he had displayed on the field of battle. His aim for the future officers who were training at the academy was to prepare them for the "next possible future war." Under his supervision the curriculum was revised to include courses that trained the cadets for the type of war in which we are now engaged.

General MacArthur had the vision to see that West Point, in common with other colleges and universities, should prepare the student to live in the changing world of the future; and he displayed his administrative skill by applying that principle to the academy.

THE GOVERNOR

HOMER M. ADKINS

Governor Homer M. Adkins, who went into office on January 14, 1941, is a native of Arkansas. Credit is given him for bringing defense industries to Arkansas, improving Arkansas roads, and refunding the state's bond debt. He is no longer an ex-officio member of the University Board of Trustees. Governor Adkin's political career began when he was elected sheriff of Pulaski county. He was collector of internal revenue in the state prior to becoming the State's chief executive.

THE PRESIDENT

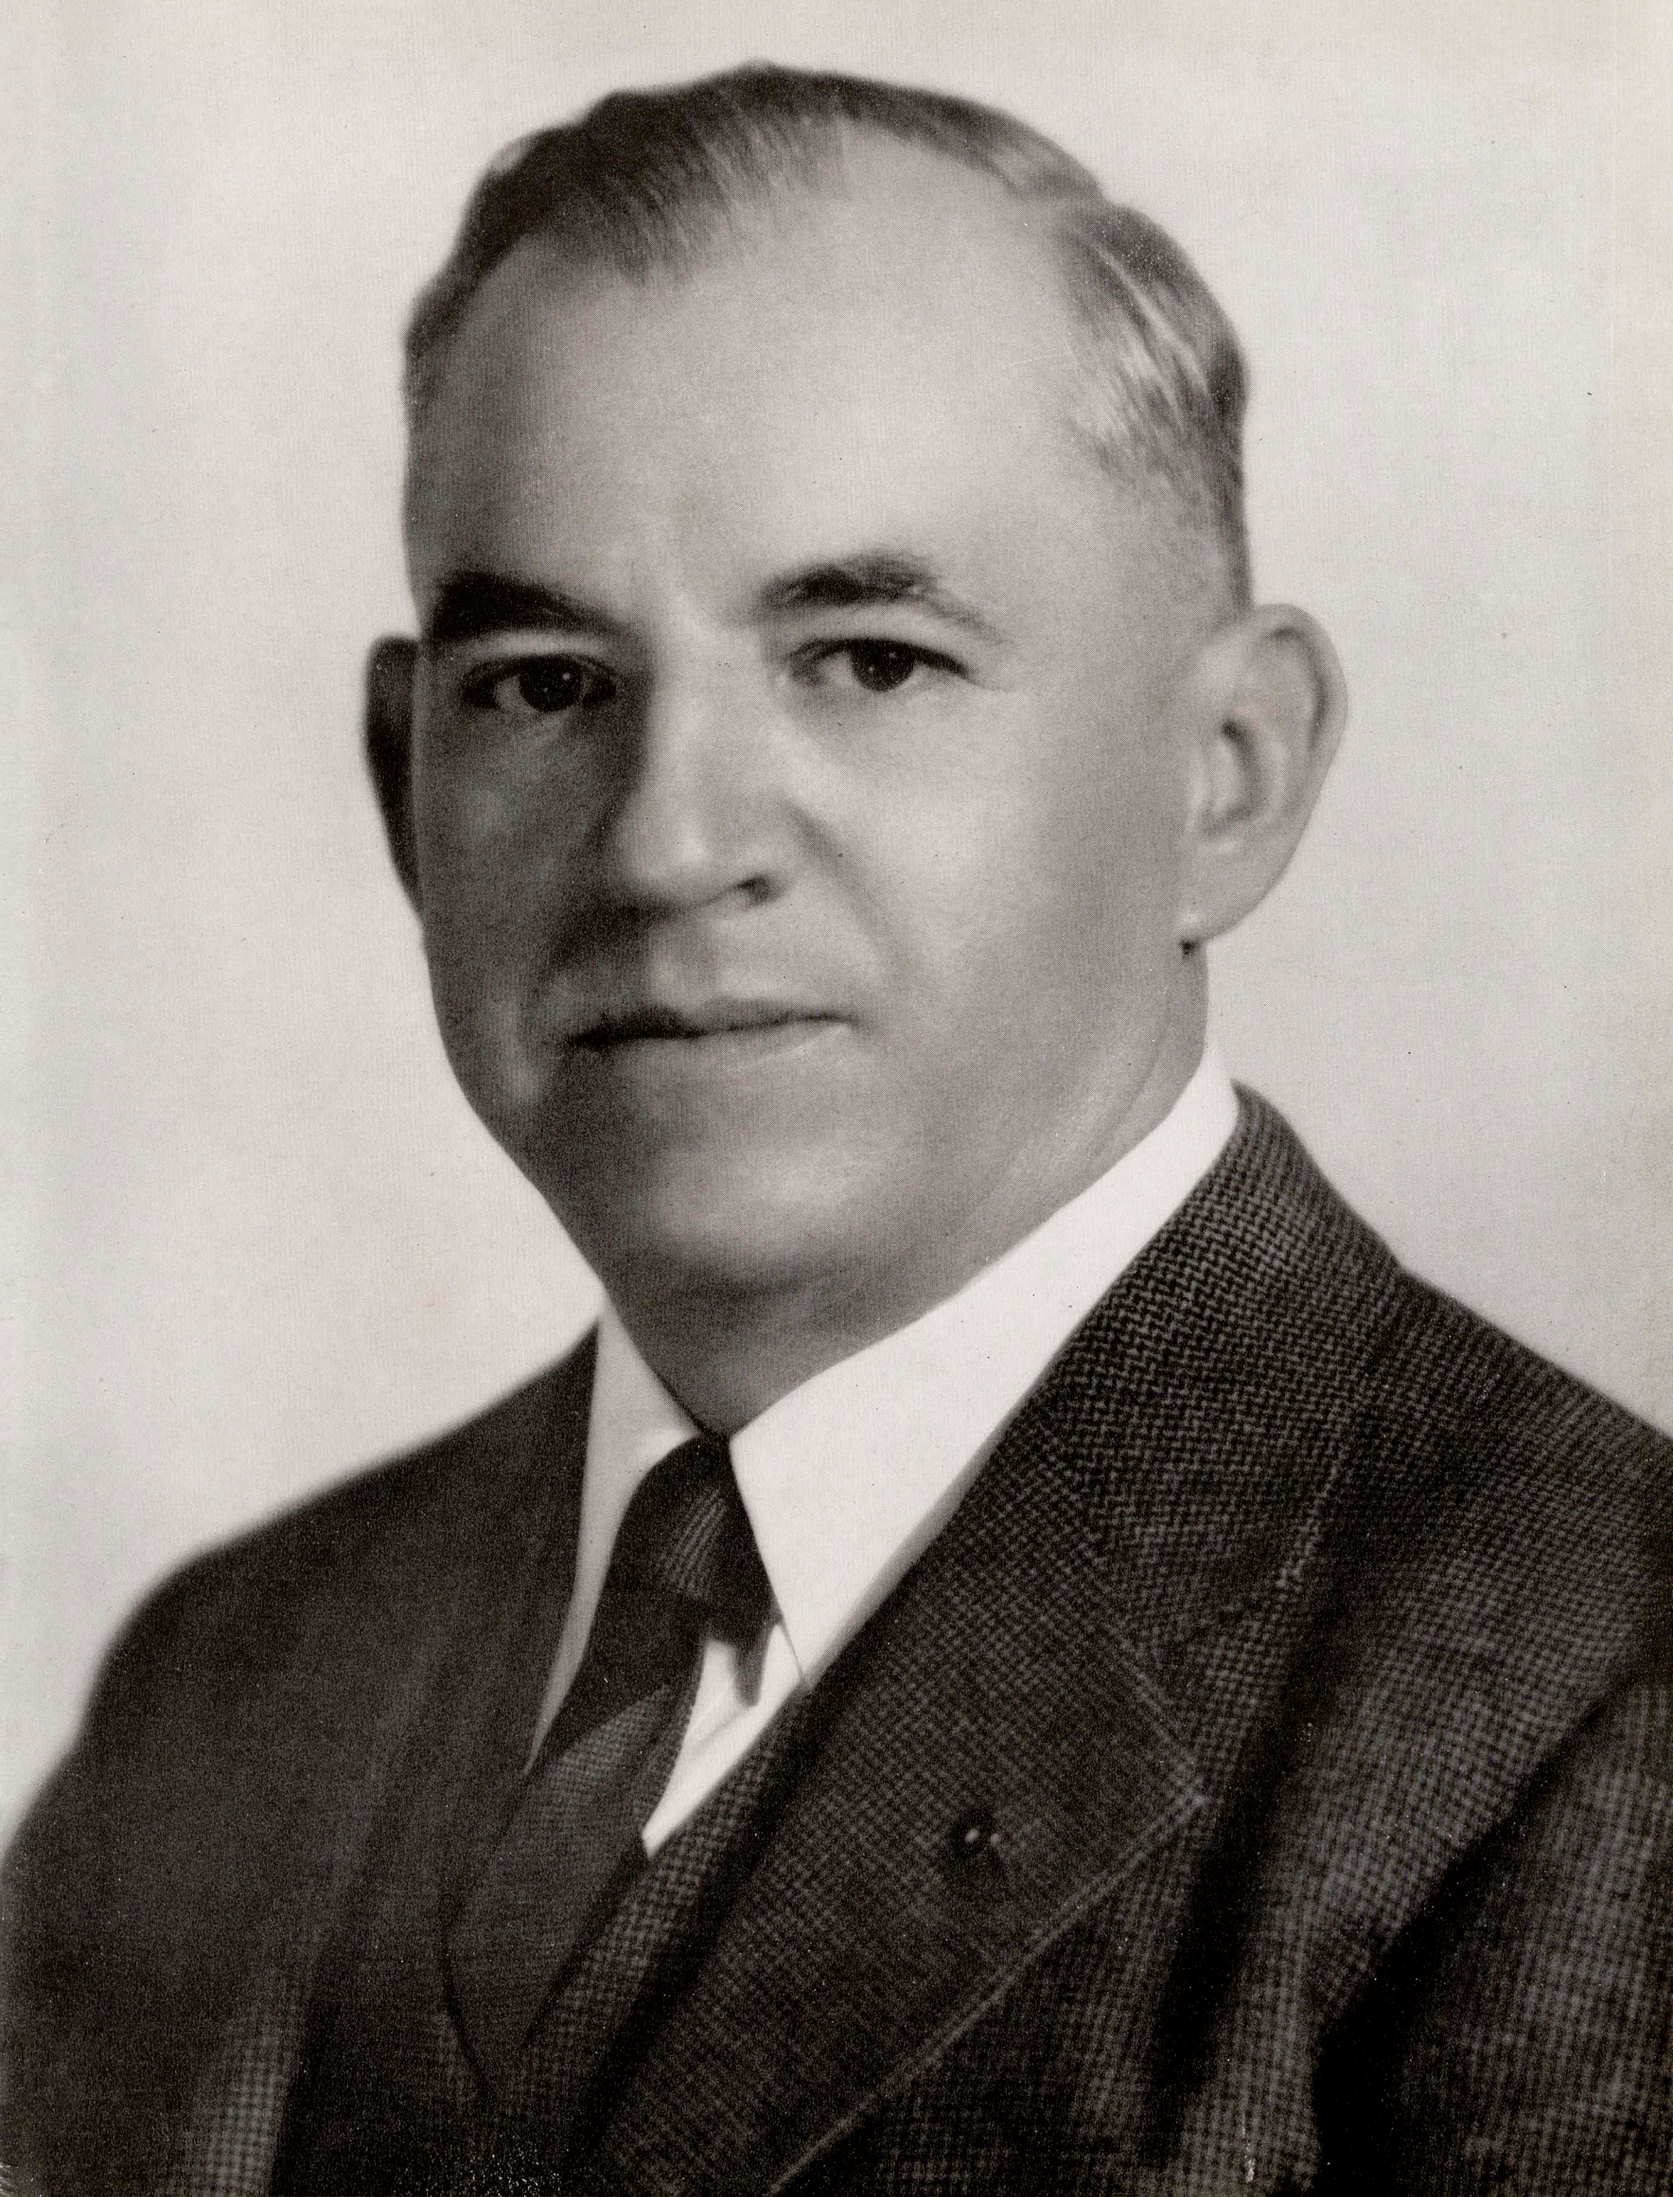
Dr. Arthur M. Harding

"When Pearl Harbor was bombed, the University of Arkansas enlisted for the duration," President Harding said in regard to the University's war training program. Dr. Harding has made many trips to Washington, New York, Chicago, and Omaha, and has kept telephone and telegraph wires busy in his efforts to put the University on a war-time schedule. During World War I, the President served as Registrar of the University.

Popular astronomy is the hobby of the President. Before he became President and the demands of his office occupied all his time, he was in demand all over the nation as a lecturer on the subject. In the course of delivering 2,000 lectures he has traveled in the forty-eight states and in several provinces of Canada. His biggest achievement prior to becoming President was his work in the Extension department. Becoming head of the department in 1919 he enlarged its scope until it has students doing work in every state and in Alaska, Mexico and Puerto Rico. Only a year after his graduation from the University, Dr. Harding joined the faculty as math instructor.



BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Smith, Dickey, Carlson, Parks, Ragsdale, Brown, Hathcoat, McDaniel, Harding

Those who actually decide the policies and problems of the University of Arkansas are an august body of men prominent in various fields of endeavor in the state. The Board is a ten-man body appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Arkansas Senate.

On November 3, 1942, Constitutional Amendment Number 33 was adopted by the Arkansas Legislature. It fixed the length of term as ten years and the number of members on the board as ten. It also arranged the expiration dates so that one member's term expired each year. The bill stated that neither the terms nor the members could be increasd or decreased and that the powers of the board could not be transferred.

Chairman of the Board is Judge J. C. Ragsdale, '19, a lawyer from El Dorado whose term expires in 1953. The only doctor on the board is Dr. Euclid Smith, '29, Hot Springs. His term expires in 1952.

Serving his second term on the board is Fred I. Brown '02 from Little Rock. He started the Arkansas Foundry Company. His term expires in 1951. J. H. Snapp, Fitzhugh, attended the University in 1892. He is a prominent planter and civic leader whose term expires in 1950.

The term of Henry Yocum '11 of El Dorado, whose son Henry, Jr., is in the Law School, expires in 1949.

Youngest member is Jay Dickey '34, Pine Bluff lawyer, whose term expires in 1948. Louis McDaniel, Forrest City auto dealer, attended the University in 1910. His term expires in 1947.

Another lawyer is Harry Ponder of Walnut Ridge who has served longer on the Board than any other member. His term expires in 1946. Harrison's contribution is M. A. Hathcoat '08. He is a lawyer, and his term expires in 1945. Publisher of the Van Buren Press Argus and a member of the class of 1927, Hugh Park's term expires in 1944.

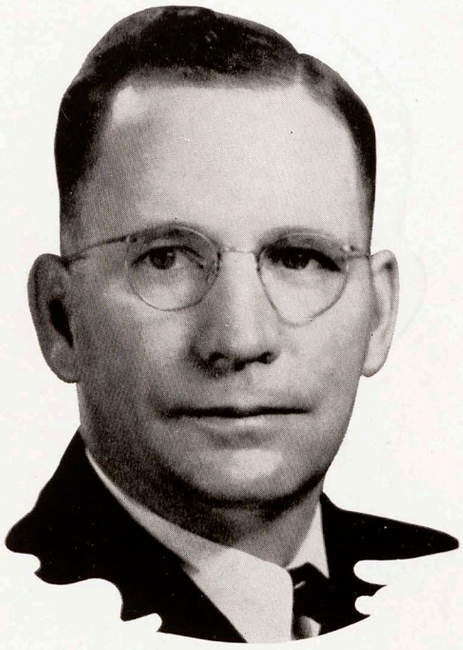
AGRICULTURE

Accredited with turning out more graduates who remain directly connected with the school than any other college on the campus, the College of Agriculture is constantly in touch with the agricultural interests of the state through its Extension Service.

The college is doing its part in the national effort for an all-out war. It is continuing a campaign started in 1942 to get farmers to raise necessary crops, and is directing a campaign in machinery repair, fertilizer, and seed.

Dating its beginning from the founding of the University in 1872, the College of Agriculture is the only school on the campus with two buildings exclusively its own—one for agriculture and one for home economics. The University farm, two miles northwest of Fayetteville, serves as a lab for agri experiments.

The Extension Service for the college carries results of agricultural experiments to farmers throughout the state.



Dean Walter Horlacher of the College of Agriculture is also director of the Agriculture Experimental Stations and the Agricultural Extension Service . . . Came to Arkansas as head of animal industry department . . . Made Dean three years later . . . Pet peeve: farm boys who come to college to study for city jobs.

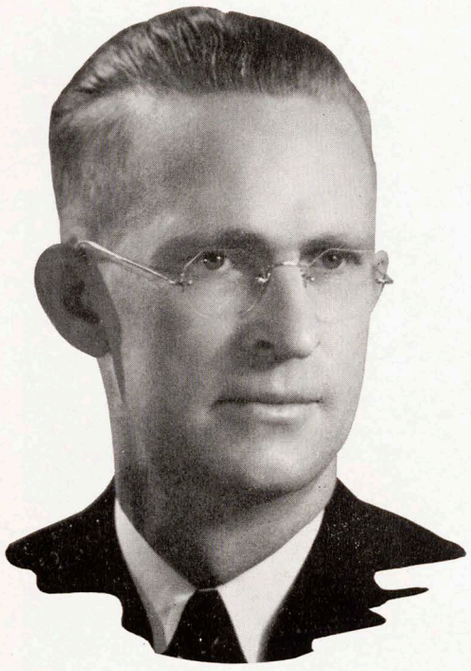
Dean Hosford hails from Waxahachie, "deep in the heart of Texas" . . . He entered SMU first year of its existence . . . Floated over Atlantic in dirigible in World War I . . . Came to University as math instructor . . . Made dean four years ago . . . Serves as chairman of local draft board.

ARTS AND SCIENCES

Center of arts and science activities is Old Main . . . boasts twenty percent of enrollment in its school . . . has about eighty instructors . . . physicists and budding journalists dominate the basement . . . administrative offices on first . . . future statesmen and politicians wrangle at opposite ends of second floor . . . on third nasal phonetics and Teutonic grunts from the language department mingle with chuckles about an English theme . . . Art department headquarters on third.

The college gives students pre-professional curricula and the resources of a liberal education. Great interest now is centered on war courses . . . enrollment in physics department has jumped from two hundred to over a thousand since Pearl Harbor. The college has opened its doors to Army Air Cadets and teaches them everything from English to navigation.

Mrs. Fred F. Borden, secretary to the dean, has been with the University fifteen years, enjoys music, wishes she could take CAA.



Newest Dean Karl M. Scott began his higher education at the University in 1921. Taught at Universities of Illinois, North Carolina and Duke . . . Before coming back to alma mater as Dean, Dr. Scott was special representative of Bureau of Unemployment Compensation and Social Security Board.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Organized in 1926 by the late President Futrall and Dr. C. C. Fichtner as a two year School of Business Administration, this division of the University grew rapidly until, in 1936, it became a four year college.

Students now delve into the fundamentals of accounting, commercial law, economics, finance, insurance, typewriting, and shorthand. They attend classes in a new Classroom building and study in the College's own library in the Commerce building.

Dean Karl Scott is managing to keep the College in step with the nation's war effort. Drastic revisions have been made in the curriculum. Offerings in less vital lines of work were minimized so that war finance, specialized accounting, and other courses geared to war economy could be emphasized.

The College holds membership in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, an organization composed of the leading universities in North America.

EDUCATION

The College of Education started back in 1898 with the imposing title Department of Pedagogy. In 1918 it assumed the less pretentious name of Department of Education and three years later became the College of Education.

In the traditional red brick schoolhouse, Peabody Hall, future wielders of the rod get book larnin' and theory from Education intelligentsia, Drs. Bent, Cross, Kronenberg, and Reinoehl. In the University training school, student practice teachers discover why teachers turn gray as they forget their theory and struggle with practice. Annually the Teachers' Placement Bureau helps find schools for the graduates.

The war has caused a drop in enrollment, but there is still an appreciable number of potential abecedarians to carry on in noble form the triple R curriculum.

Prominent Arkansas educator, Dean H. G. Hotz's first tutelage was in form of enlightening students in a one room country school house. Was made Dean in 1933. Is a chess player incurable. Belongs to practically every committee on the campus. Intended to be a minister. Doesn't know just how he changed to teaching.

ENGINEERING

The College of Engineering is the one school on the campus keeping its enrollment near the peace time peak . . . during World War I the enrollment actually increased.

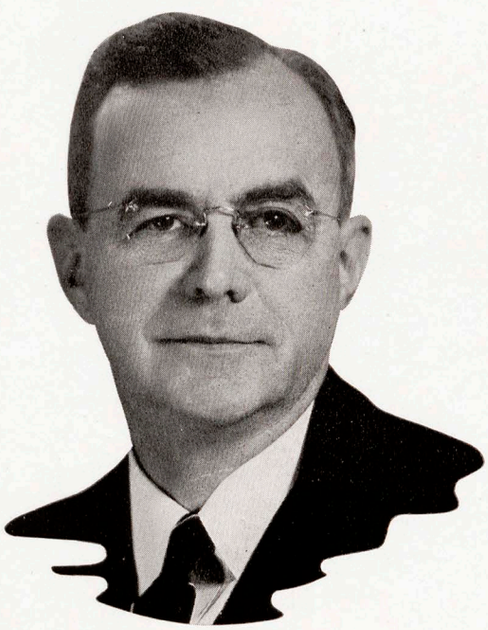
Doing its part in the war, the College has charge of many of the defense courses being offered . . . will teach four hundred army students specialized training courses, because the University is one of the six schools in Eighth Corps Area selected for advanced engineering training.

Since establishment in 1872 the University has housed some kind of engineering department. First training was in civil and mining . . . later mechanical replaced mining, and 1895 electrical engineering was added. Newest phase is chemical engineering. All phases were welded in 1912 into the College of Engineering.

Highlight of the year is traditional St. Pat's Day . . . classes are forgotten for the day and it's "Erin Go Braugh!"

Dean of the men of the slide rule is George Patrick Stocker, serving his seventh year as dean of one of the most outstanding engineering colleges in the country . . . Is chairman of the Discipline Committee . . . Is too busy for hobbies . . . Constantly alters his curriculum to fit war needs.

In addition to being dean of the Graduate School, Dr. John Clark Jordan is head of the English department and teaches a full time schedule . . . Is a Democrat . . . Dangles a Phi Beta Kappa Key . . . Is national prexy of Blue Key . . . Has written one book . . . Thinks language requirements should be abolished . . . Enjoys his rock cabin, even with its mosquitos.



GRADUATE

The youngest school on the campus, the Graduate School was established in 1927 under the direction of the late President J. C. Futrall and Dean J. C. Jordan, then Dean of Arts and Sciences.

Prior to that time, any stray graduate was handled by a committee. Now there is a council and a dean to aid students struggling for their higher degree sheepskins.

From an enrollment of forty in '34 the graduate student body jumped to over three hundred in 1941. Enrollment has decreased this year. Most grads, males anyway, are now serving their country first—higher education second.

Requirements are thirty weeks residence, an oral examination, and in most cases, a thesis. The University offers advanced degrees of master of arts or science, and professional degrees in four branches of engineering.

Dean Julian S. Waterman is the only University dean who is a native of Arkansas . . . Started his teaching career in 1914 as an instructor in economics and sociology . . . Became dean of Law School in 1924 . . . Is vice-president of the University and president of Southwest Athletic Conference.

LAW

The University Law School maintains its class A rating by following the rules set up by the Association of American Law Schools. The Association has given law schools the right to grant diplomas to men when they enter the Armed Services, if they have completed successfully all but one semester of work.

In 1924 fourteen future men of the bar assembled in the basement of Old Main for their first session, with Julian S. Waterman at the head of the new division.

Twelve years later the Law School moved out of the basement and into the building formerly occupied by chemistry. Here they found room for their 17,000 volume library.

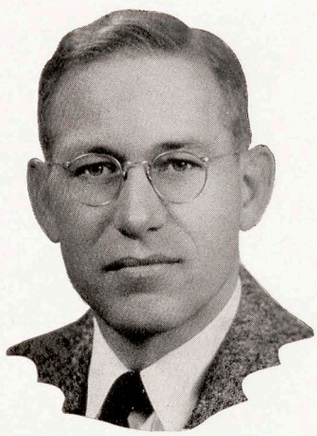
The lawyers have a "day" of their own. They carry canes, wear dark suits, derbies, bow ties, hold moot court, elect a queen, and climax the day with a ball.

PERSONNEL

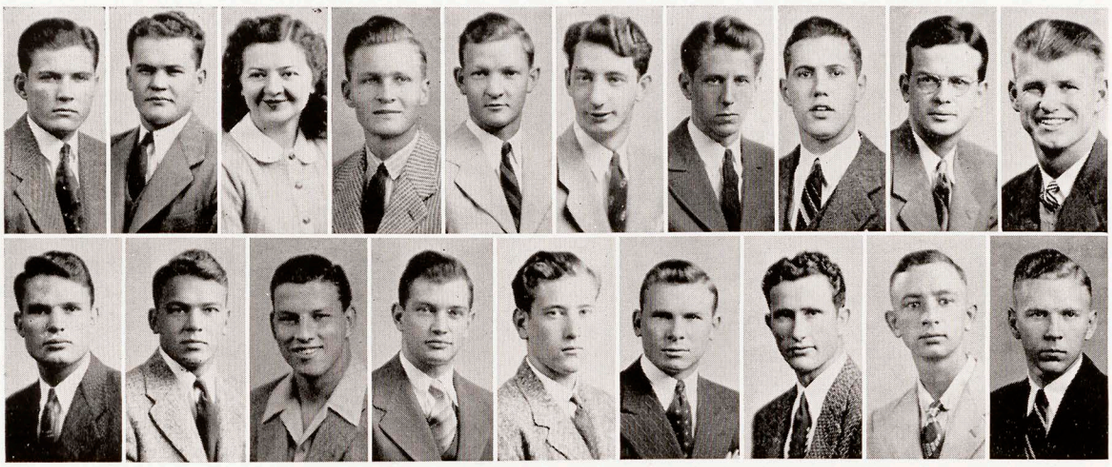
The personnel office of the University where advice and help to students is given has this year become the center of student war activities in addition to its regular duties.

Allan S. Humphreys, who doubles as a chemistry professor, serves as Dean of Men, and this year has had charge of all reservists and has kept them advised as to their status.

Jeannette Scudder, Dean of Women, supervises housing of all girls on the campus and enforces all women's regulations with a firm hand. Dean Scudder has been very active this year in getting the girls of the campus to do war work and advocating the learning of useful vocations. Pet peeve of Miss Scudder is campus queens.



STUDENT SENATE



First row—Lloyd, McCollum, Swearingen, Bishop, Andrews, Clay, Coleman, Conditt, Jones.
Second row—McCoy, McDonald, Martin, Miller, Pond, Shelton, Stewart, Strabala, Trawick.

Led by Buck "I'm Just a Farm Boy" Lloyd, the Student Senate this year vied with the war Selective Service to keep student government alive. Coöperation between senators was somewhat handicapped, since many were called to service and had to be replaced by newcomers. But the Senate did manage to break into print regularly.

First activity of the year, instigated by Senator Rayford Shelton, was to start a movement for a University service flag. Then Senator George Lusk proposed that money in the Publications loan fund should be put to some good use, such as purchasing $5,000 in war bonds and donating $3,000 to sending Travelers to former students in the armed forces. The book store came in for its first investigation since it moved into the Union, and the publications and social committees were advised on some of their affairs.

Biggest worry of the season: Finding enough 4-Fs and eligibles for next year's Senate.

"Buck" in a pensive mood.

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN STUDENTS

This has been a successful year for the Association of Women Students, which last year supplanted the Women's League. The association is sponsored by Dean Scudder and it is a member of the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students.

The purpose of the organization is to coördinate all women's organizations. It functions democratically with an executive-judicial-legislative government.

AWS has sponsored several informal get-togethers honoring women students who were freshmen or transfers. At one of these, Thoma Kanis, Kappa, was awarded a $25 war bond for making the highest grade point of any freshman girl.

"Around the Clock," a fashion show, was given in the fall, and at Christmas there was a St. Nick's dance at which Al Kopert, Sig Alph, was named St. Nick. Under the capable leadership of President Mary Noice Moore, AWS closed the year with the annual spring festival the last of April.

Activities

A man of numerous activities was General Douglas MacArthur. He did not confine himself to one field but became a leader in many.

MacArthur was an educator at West Point, a field general in France and in World War II, an executive as Chief-of-Staff, and an organizer as the creator of the highly trained Filipino army among his many activities.

The painting on the opposite page by Metcalf shows MacArthur being honored by Manuel Quezon, the first president of the Philippines, who asked the United States to have MacArthur organize their army, that army which did credit to the genius of its organizer in the defense of Bataan. As this is being written MacArthur is covering himself with more glory as commander of the South Pacific theater of war, where his forces are slowly but surely driving the Nipponese back. General MacArthur will be one of the first to march down the streets of Tokyo. That will be his greatest achievement.

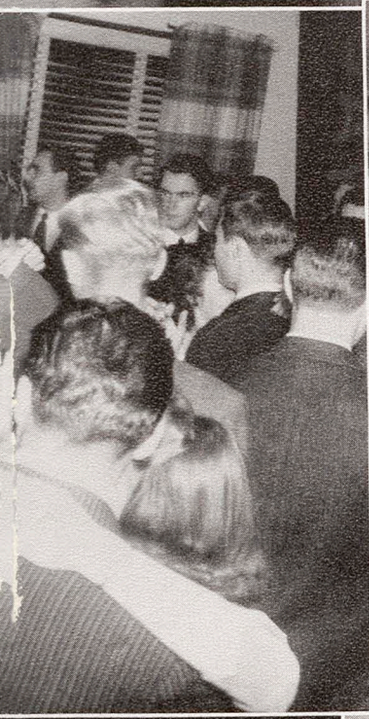
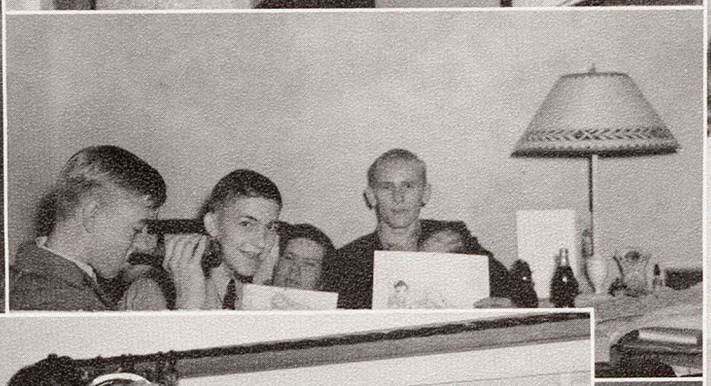
Center—Jackie Gentry pins—a carnation—on Bart Conditt at Chio's fall dinner dance.

Right — Super-drummer Sammy Smith beats it out.

Ray Wood and Mary Ella Cook smile for the cameraman at Sigma Nu's Sadie Hawkins dance.

Garbed only in burlap Nancy Hill presents an unusual spectacle at the Sadie Hawkins dance.





Top—Kappa Sigs swing out in their fall dinner dance . . . The boys haven't gotten to the Chio dinner dance yet . . . Razorback Hall Boss Trawick and Cissy sneak a snack in the kitchen.

Center—Just dancing . . . The governor greets students at Homecoming reception . . . Spivey and Stephens at Sadie Hawkins dance . . . Razorback Hall boys study "art" over their cokes . . . Food followed the treasure hunt given by the Razorback Hall boys.

Bottom—Charlie Cook and Mary Martha Browning don Indian costumes at Sadie Hawkins . . . Eloise Stuckey in the days before Shipley (Note—she is standing on chair) . . . Startled faces stare at cameraman at Kappa Sig football party.

THE CAMPUS IN THE FALL

Reba Gray presents Thoma Kanis with a $25 War Bond for freshman girl with highest grade point . . . Imogene Caldwell and Sara Housley listen attentively over tea cups to Lynn Graham . . . Louise Powell models the latest style at AWS style show.

Dear Jack Lewis:

All of your candidates belong in the beauty section. Every one shows the spark of character and personality---"must" ingredients in the makeup of a really attractive woman.

After considerable vaccillation I narrowed the choice down to four, but only with longing backward glances at the others.

Thank heaven our selecting these four doesn't detract from the glory of the rest of Arkansas' campus lovelies!

Cordially yours,

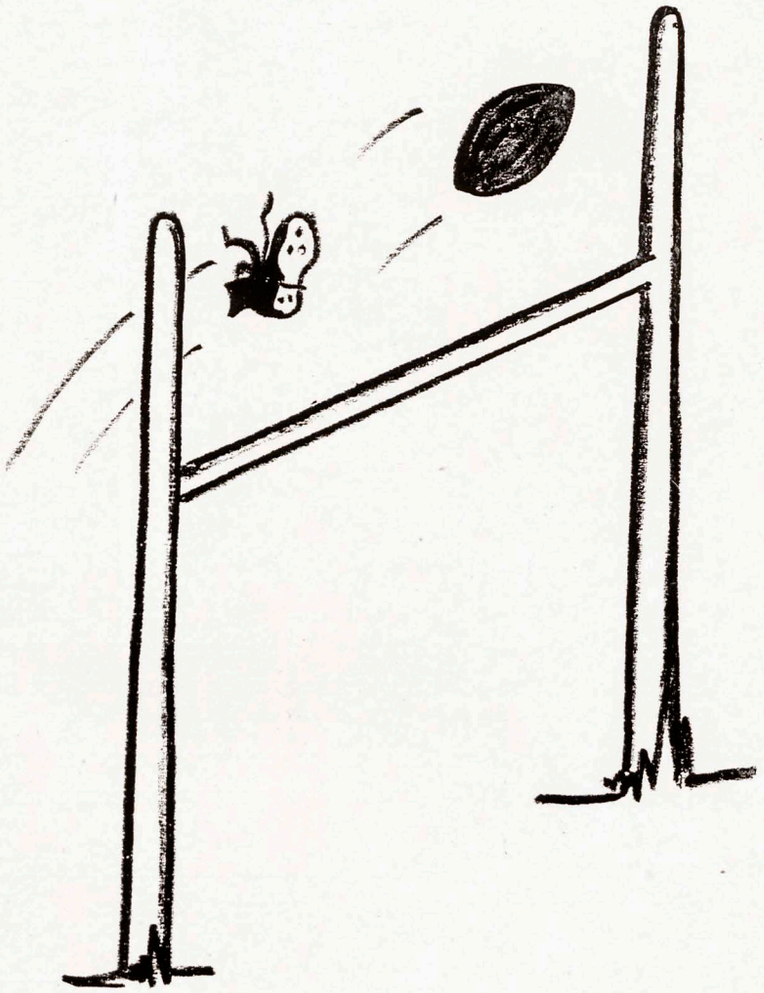
Athletics and Military

General MacArthur, who in his student days himself won considerable acclaim as an athlete, has always been a champion of athletics. "Nothing more quickly than competitive athletics brings out the qualities of leadership, quickness of decision, promptness of action, mental and muscular coördination, aggressiveness, and courage. And nothing so firmly establishes that indefinable spirit of group interest and pride which we know as morale."

The painting on the opposite page is of General MacArthur throwing the first ball of the 1922 World Series.

As a cadet at West Point, MacArthur played on the baseball team and took part in intramural activities with unparalleled zest. While attending military school in Texas, he captained an undefeated football team.



ATHLETICS

Coach Cole manages a smile in spite of a tough season

Stepping up from his former position as assistant football coach, George Cole advanced to head coach succeeding Fred Thomsen, who now flies a bomber in China for Uncle Sam.

Cole, who served in the assistant's spot for several years, usually played one of his leading roles in his scouting trips, keeping the Razorbacks in touch with the strategies of opposing teams.

Cole is one of our home-grown coaches, receiving his football training under Francis Schmidt in 1924–28. Cole was an all conference player, best known for his educated toe, with which he won several games for the Porkers.

One season as head coach is all that Cole will have at Arkansas at least for the duration, because he has now joined Uncle Sam's armed forces, and is serving in the Navy.

COACHES

Coach Cole was ably assisted by a capable but small staff this year. Dr. Eugene Lambert, athletic director, acted as assistant coach with special training being given to the ends by him. Dr. Lambert returned after a year's leave of absence during which time he got his Doctor's degree at Columbia.

Clyde Van Sickle, former Little Rock High School coach, graduated from freshman football coach to line coach. Coach Van Sickle was an outstanding lineman at the University several years ago.

Newcomer to the coaching staff was John "Bud" Tomlin, former Oregon State star, who had made a great record coaching Eastern Oklahoma Teachers College. "Bud" coached the frosh and had charge of the intramural program.

Dr. Lambert, Van Sickle and Tomlin have charge of the physical training program for the aviation cadets now at the University.

Leading the Porkers in almost every department of the game, the Texas Longhorns ran and passed to a 47 to 6 victory over the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Little Rock High School stadium. The Longhorns, who began their drive at the opening whistle, crossed the Hog goal line seven times during the sixty minute period, while allowing the Porkers to reach pay-dirt only once. Arkansas' only score came in the last few minutes of play, after Jay Lawhon recovered a Steer fumble on the Texas 15. David Paul Jones fired a pass to Wayne Marshall, who caught it in the end zone for the Porkers' lone touchdown. Outstanding for the Porkers was Bill Dick McNair, who played his best game of the season.

Playing before a crowd of approximately 4,000 fans, Arkansas' Razorbacks dropped their twelfth straight Southwest Conference game, as they bowed to the Baylor Bears here Saturday afternoon by a 20 to 7 score. Baylor received the opening kickoff, but couldn't gain, Milton Crain kicking to Arkansas' 30. From there it looked as if Arkansas were going to carry the ball over the Baylor goal. After driving to the Baylor 31, however, Arkansas' drive was stopped and Baylor took over. Arkansas' only touchdown came following David Paul Jones' kick which rolled out of bounds on the Baylor 5 yard line. After a fluke return which gave the Porkers the ball on the Baylor 20, Jones flipped a pass to Herman Lubker in the end zone.

The Arkansas Razorbacks dropped their fourteenth straight conference game, when they were defeated by Texas A. and M. by a score of 41 to 0. Living up to its tradition as a passing outfit, Arkansas attempted 27 tosses, completing 7 of them for a total of 101 yards. The Aggies were only slightly behind the Porkers in that division, however, as they completed 4 of their 15 tries for a total of 82 yards. Although the Porkers never threatened seriously, a steady drive toward the end of the game was engineered by Meredith Jones, Wayne Marshall, Max Sallings, and Joe Tibbetts, which carried the Porkers from midfield to the Aggie 20. The final gun, however, ended that threat.

Fighting hard to hold back a last quarter TCU attack, the Arkansas Razorbacks gave way to a Horned Frog touchdown in the last four and a half minutes of play, thus dropping their conference opener. The Frogs scored as soon as they got the ball, but the Razorbacks quickly evened it up. David Paul Jones kicked 77 yards to the Frog 17 yard line, midway in the opening quarter. Van Halls, TCU back, returned the kick to the Porkers, Sallings sprinting to the TCU 30. Cotton Jones then placed a punt on the one foot line. On the next play Joe Tibbetts blocked a TCU punt, falling on it as it rolled behind the goal line. In the last four minutes of play, Nix led the Frogs to their winning touchdown.

Marshall leaves three would-be tacklers behind and heads for the promised land in the opener against Wichita.

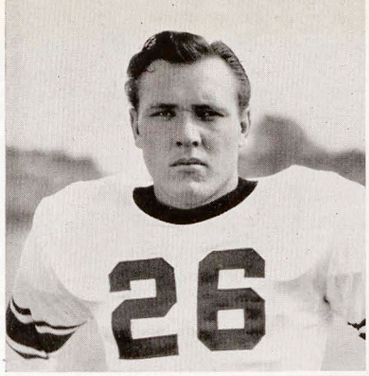
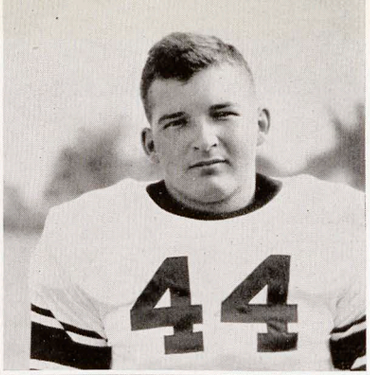
WILSON MATTHEWS, junior blocking back from Atkins, transferred from Tech and was in the starting slot most of the time.

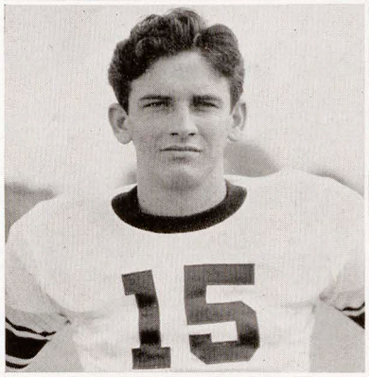
DAVID PAUL JONES, junior tailback from Fort Smith, did much of the team's punting and passing.

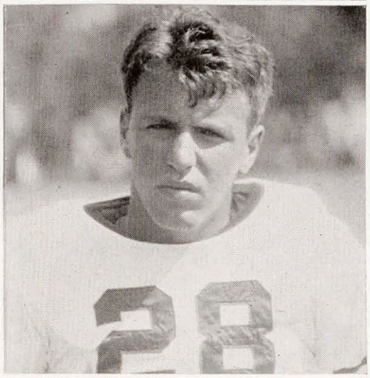




BILL MUNCY, sophomore end from Waldron, was a valuable reserve at end and should have a bright future.

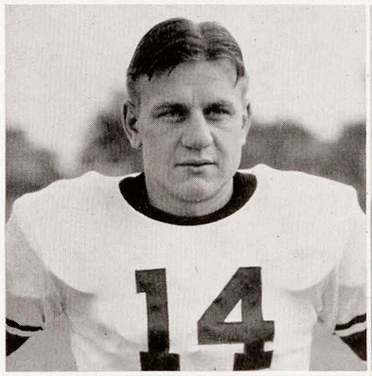
BILLY DICK McNAIR, blocking back from Fayetteville, started out slowly but by the season's end was outstanding.





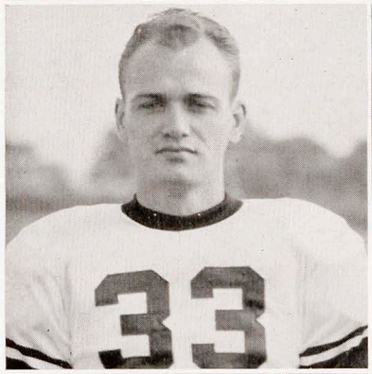
FELICE "BABE" CIALONE, senior back from Fort Smith, is a three-year letter-man whose extra-point kicking was superb.

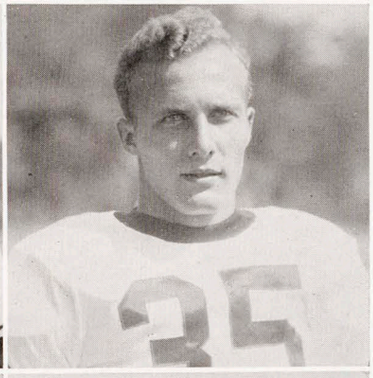
HERMAN LUBKER, junior end from North Little Rock, transferred from Tech and served steadily as a starting end.



WAYNE MARSHALL, "scat" back from Little Rock, is a junior and should really come into his own next year.

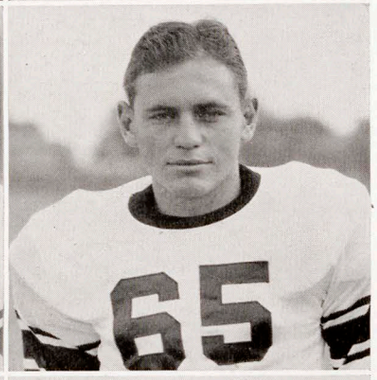
BRATTON HAYNES, back from Texarkana, lettered for his second year and saw plenty of action.





PAUL PALADINO, junior guard from Little Rock, is so-captain-elect for next year. Paul was outstanding all year.

DAVE SCARBOROUGH, junior guard from Clarksville, was a reserve guard and did part of the place kicking.



CLAYTON "FOOTSIE" WYNNE, senior end from West Memphis, was one of the co-captains and principal pass receiver.

MAX SALLINGS, senior tailback from Walnut Ridge, was smallest man on squad but nevertheless was one of the leading gainers.

Three Ole Miss tacklers finally drag Forte down after a long gain in the nite struggle at Memphis.

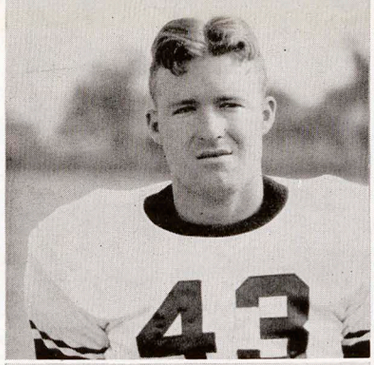
The Porkers showed surprising strength in Dallas when they played Southern Methodist, and scored the first touchdown of the game — in the third period — but in doing it, they stiffened SMU's fight and the Mustangs promptly made two tallies and buried Arkansas in the cellar. Arkansas' touchdown came when End Virgil Johnson intercepted a Mustang pass by Abel Gonzales early in the third period and ran 28 yards and across the SMU goal. David Scarborough failed in his try for the point. Tackle Jay Lawhon was again the outstanding defensive man of the day, making a habit of rushing through the line and breaking up Pony plays.

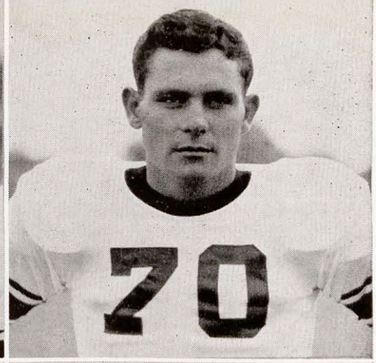
Dominating the play in all but the first quarter, the Rice Owls handed Arkansas a 40 to 9 defeat before 4,000 Homecoming onlookers. Starting the game with ground plays, it looked in the beginning as if the Razorbacks might come out ahead, but two second quarter touchdowns spoiled all hopes of victory, and the Razorbacks were helpless in the hands of the Owls. Arkansas' first score was made by Joe Tibbitts, when he rushed behind the Owl goal line and tackled Edgar Cain, who was trying to circle left end. The Porkers' touchdown came in the third quarter, when Chick Forte fumbled and recovered a bad pass from center on the 7 and rushed across the Owl goal line. For Arkansas it was Jay Lawhon who was outstanding on defense, and who broke through the Owl line time and time again to throw Rice backfield men for losses.

Captain Forte displays the drive that always made him good for a gain of two or three yards against Baylor.

JIMMIE DANIELS, junior back from Eastland, Texas, is expected to be one of the mainstays on next year's team.

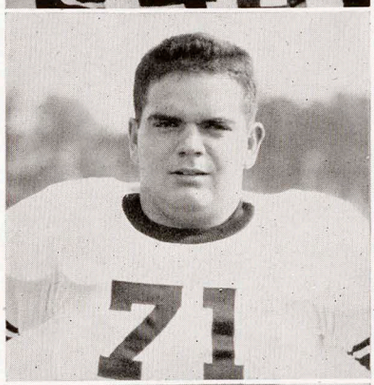
CHARLES LIVELY, sophomore tackle from Des Arc, was a starter in several games and will be starter next year.

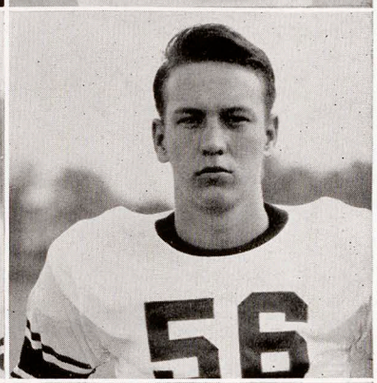




ROBERT BOOZER, sophomore tackle from El Dorado, was a valuable reserve.

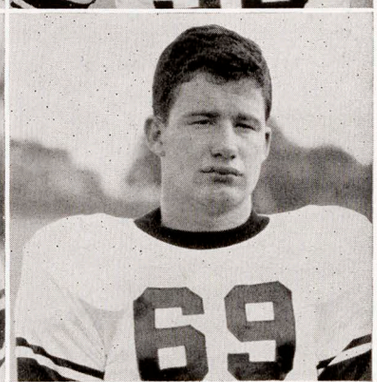
FLOYD THOMAS, center from McGehee, shared the center duties with Carter. He is a sophomore.





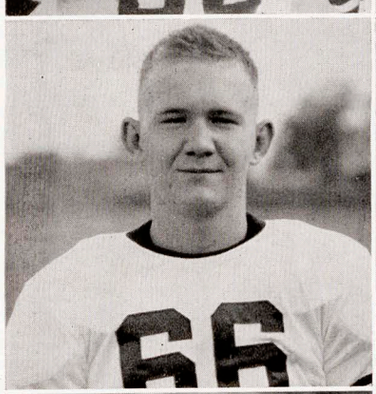
BEN JONES, fleet end from Wattensaw, lettered and saw plenty of action all season.

RICHARD MARTIN, sophomore guard from Bentonville, injured his neck and saw very little service.



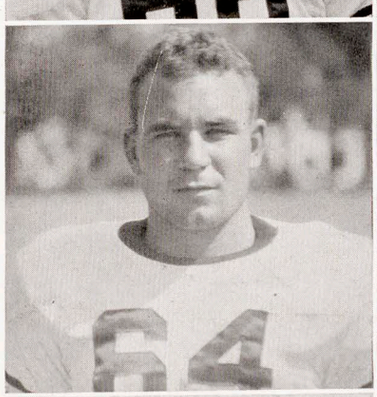
BILLY ARNOLD, sophomore guard from Texarkana, saw little action due to injuries.

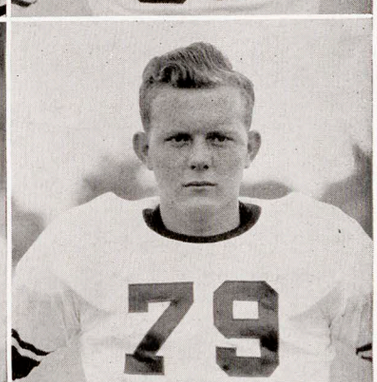
ALAN CARTER, sophomore end from Hazen, is expected to be a starting end next year.



EUGENE GOLDEN, junior guard from Lexington, Nebr., saw plenty of action and should be valuable next year.

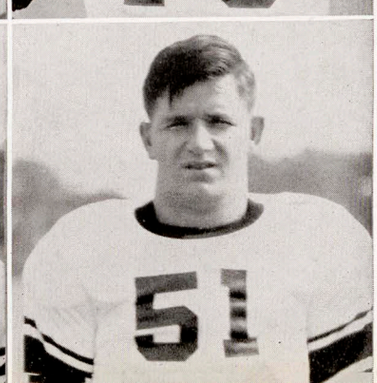
DAN CLARK, junior tackle from Heavener, Okla., was injured early in the season and saw no action.





BOB GARDNER, sophomore back from Paragould, is expected to be a candidate for a starting position next year.

HARRY DONALDSON, sophomore center from Little Rock, was called to the army early in the season.



Non-Conference

David Paul Jones snags a pass at full speed from "Cotton" Jones and sprints goalward.

The Razorbacks had a very successful non-conference schedule by winning three games and losing only one.

In the opening game of the season the Hogs defeated Wichita University 27–0. Forte, Matthews, and D. P. Jones were outstanding ball handlers and Lawhon and Lively were the line stalwarts.

The Porkers were successful in their next non-conference game when they edged out their traditional rivals, Ole Miss, in the annual Memphis game 7–6. The game was rough and filled with thrills in the muddy night encounter. "Babe" Cialone, who played a fine running game, provided the margin of victory by his perfectly aimed point after touchdown.

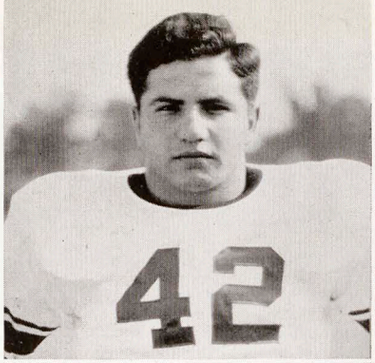
The Red and White clad Razorbacks invaded Yankeeland and defeated the highly-favored Detroit Titans 14–7 for the second straight year. Sparked by Captain Forte and Wayne Marshall the Hogs stuck exclusively to a ground game and rallied in the second half to overcome a one touchdown lead. Paladino and Lawhon stopped the Titan star, Madarik, cold.

Tulsa's high flying Hurricanes finally broke the jinx and crushed the Porkers in the annual Thanksgiving Day classic at Tulsa. All-American Glen Dobbs, N. A. Keithley, and Sax Judd displayed one of the greatest scoring machines in the country as they scored almost at will against the scrappy Arkansans. The final score was 40–7 with the Razorbacks scoring on a deceptive screen pass play with Matthews running 68 yards to score behind perfect blocking.

Ball, ball, who's got the ball, might well be the caption for this picture in the Texas-Arkansas game at Little Rock.

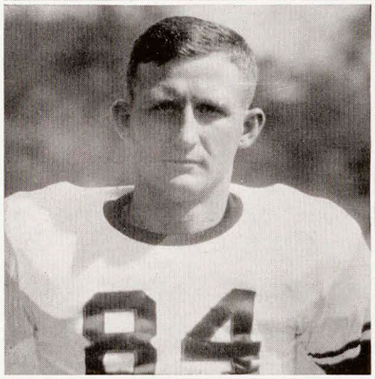
ROBERT "CHICK" FORTE, senior tailback from Lake Village, was co-captain, leading ground gainer and spark plug of the team.

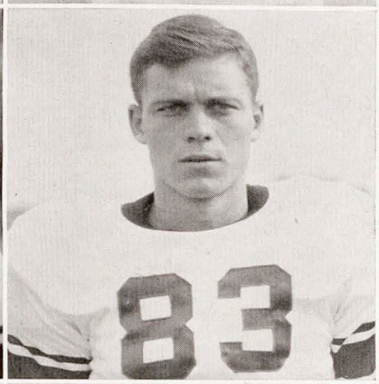
HARRY "THE HORSE" CARTER, junior center from Little Rock, had to play nearly full time due to lack of reserves.



VIRGIL JOHNSON, junior end from Malvern, was starting end all season and one of the leading pass receivers and scorers.

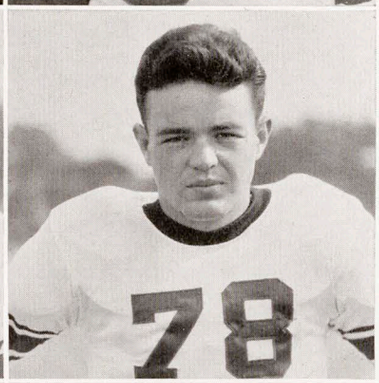
JOE TIBBITTS, junior end from Fort Smith, and co-captain-elect, shone all season as a great defensive man.





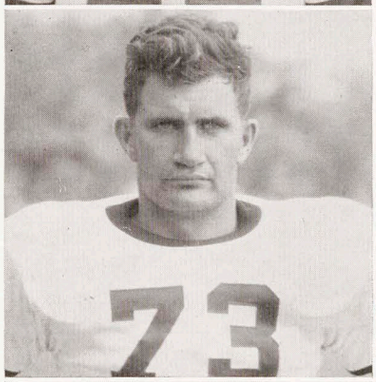
JAMES CIALONE, sophomore from Fort Smith, alternated at the guard and fullback positions.

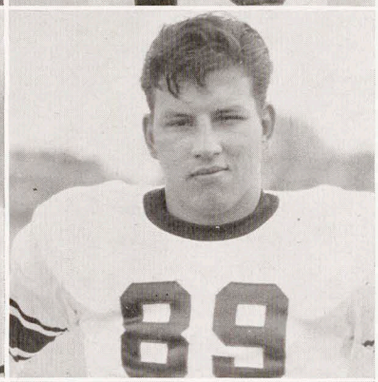
FRANK SAIN, sophomore tackle from McGehee, was called to the army before the season was well under way.



JAY LAWHON, senior tackle from Monarch, was the most consistent lineman on the team and rated on all the all-opponent teams.

WALLACE MARTIN, sophomore reserve lineman from Hughes, saw action in several positions.



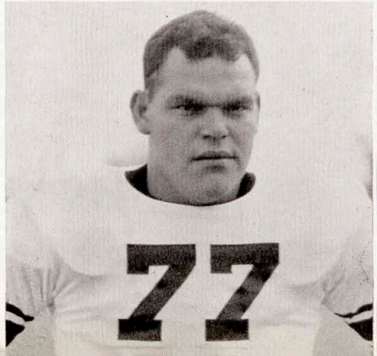


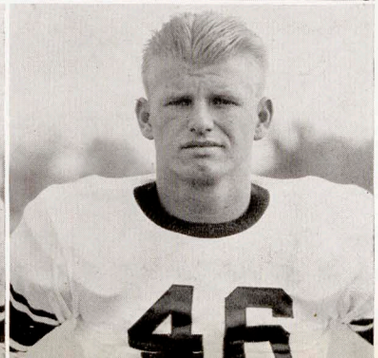
FRANK DELMONEGO, junior blocking back from Clarksville, was a regular starter and was a steady, consistent defensive pillar.

MADISON RUCKER, junior guard from Dyersburg, Tenn., held down one of the guard positions regularly and efficiently.

ROBERT "DADDY" GREEN, giant junior tackle from Warren, was a first string tackle and ably handled his side of the line.

MEREDITH "COTTON" JONES, senior punter de luxe from Helena, played brilliant ball on several occasions.





FROSH FOOTBALL

Forty-one prospective gridsters answered the first call for freshman football players when school began last fall, but a large number of those men were called into the armed services before the grid season ended.

Two games made up the schedule for the Shoats, the freshmen winning their opener over Camp Gruber and dropping the second to Ouchita College, giving them a 50% average.

Led by Harry Ledbetter, rangy fullback, the Porker freshmen easily shackled Camp Gruber's 173rd field artillery 30 to 12 at Indian Bowl in Muskogee. After a weird first quarter which saw the ball pass back and forth via fumbles and interceptions, the Razorbacks struck pay-dirt early in the second quarter and held their lead from then on. A second quarter field goal was kicked by Dick McAffee. The next two touchdowns were the work of Ledbetter, while the last was made by Billy Troxell.

The second game for the Shoats, however, was a completely different story, the Shoats being completely outclassed by the more experienced Ouchita Tigers, who defeated them by a score of 40 to 9. Passes by Ledbetter, which brought the Shoats to the Tigers' 37 stripe in the first period and the 29 in the fourth, constituted the only threats made by the yearlings all day. The running attack of Coach Bud Tomlin's hopefuls was limited to 61 yards gained from scrimmage.

Among the backs who served on the freshman squad were Clarence Becker, Billy Betzner, James Black, Sam Bohe, Billy Bowen, Buddy Davis, Clint Fuller, Fred Hunt, Harry Ledbetter, Edmond Lilly, Vance Mills, James Mosley, Faye O'Dell, Henry Patton, Willis Ricketts, Myrl Smith, Bill Stovall, Billy Troxell, Billy Joe Waits, and Jimmy Zinn.

Ends on the squad were Earl Bowman, Bob Hall, Haroldean Hewitt, Edgar Norris, Jimmy Mac Sawyer, and Gene Sellers.

Tackles were John Carpenter, Gregg LeMaster, Donald McCrary, Bill Watson, and Haskell Wolff.

Among the guards were Everette Croslow, Charles Eddleman, James Kaufman, Dick McAffee, Theron Roberts, Paul Sims, and Billy Stancil.

The centers were Ray Fortune, Eldred Rogers, Harding Taylor, and J. M. Thrap.

BASKETBALL

Captain Rose, "Maker of Champions," and Lambert watch the Porkers win.

Returning from Columbia University, where he received his Doctor's degree, Eugene Lambert took over the position as head of the Athletic Department and coach of the basketball team.

Tuning the department up to the present situation, Coach Lambert inaugurated for the first time a physical education training program which was carried out in coöperation with the military department. This program was administered by the junior and senior cadet officers, under the direction of Coach Lambert.

Graduating from Augusta High School, Coach Lambert entered the University of Arkansas in 1927, where he played two years of football and three years of basketball. Finishing his work at the University, Lambert coached at Texarkana High School for two years. He then moved to Taylor, Texas, where he coached for three years, winning two district championships.

Lambert coached next at North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington, Texas, moving from there to Kenyon College, where he coached before coming here in 1937. After serving four years as assistant head of the physical education department, Lambert was made director last year.

THE CAPTAINS

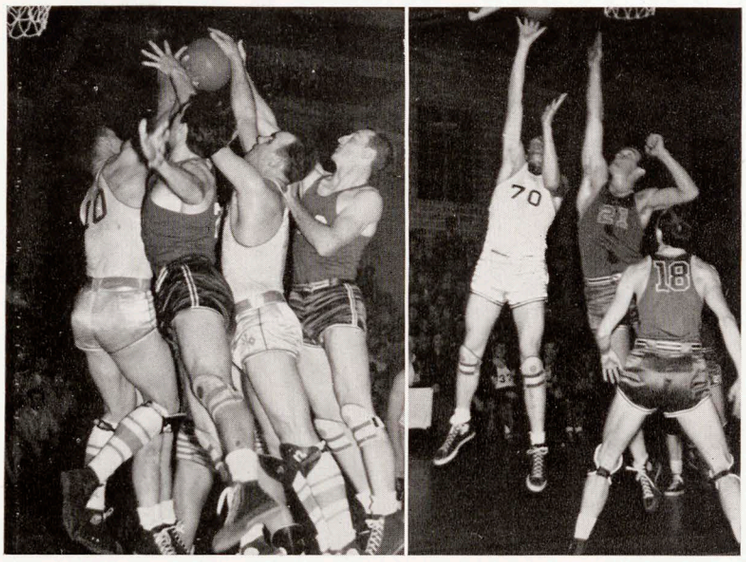
Two All-Conference first team men, Gordon Carpenter and Clayton Wynne, served as co-captains of the 1943 Razorback basketball squad.

Wynne, a guard, was the star basket-hitter of the squad, leading all the Porkers in that division.

Carpenter, who ranked second in the basket-hitting division, was especially outstanding in his floor-work.

Both captains are three year cage veterans.

WYNNE, CARPENTER



Left—Five men all off the floor at once.

When the pre-season prognosticators were sizing up the basketball teams of the nation, Arkansas was a "dark horse." The team was made up largely of sophomores, with the exception of four returning squadmen, only two of which were regulars the year before. Also lost was Coach Glen Rose, the "maker of champions" at Arkansas for several years. The team broke all expectations, however, and came through its season with 19 wins and seven losses, placing third in the Southwest Conference, and reaching the finals in the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City.

The team was well balanced, and strong in every department. There were plenty of able reserves as well as a strong first team. Two of its members, Gordon Carpenter and Clayton Wynne, were selected on the all-conference first team by both the Associated and United Press. Jesse Wilson was given honorable mention. Wynne was a member of one of the All-America third teams.

In non-conference games the Porkers scored 614 points to 528 for their opponents. In the conference, Arkansas scored 551 to 474. The most points in a single game were 74, against Texas Aggies on February 19. The most points by a player in a single game were 26 by Wynne, against Baylor on February 5. T. C. U. scored the least points against Arkansas in a single game, making only 23 on February 26.

Opening their season, the Razorbacks marked up an easy victory over the Camp Crowder quintet. East Central Teachers was the next team on the Razorback menu, and the next team to fall to the Hogs. While the other students were at home on their Christmas holidays, the Porkers were traveling, defeating Springfield Teachers College, Drury College, Ouchita College, before disbanding for the Christmas holidays. But they were back on the road again long before school reopened, playing in the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City, in which they reached the finals before being defeated by TCU. New Year's Day, the Porkers defeated Pittsburg Teachers College at Pitts-

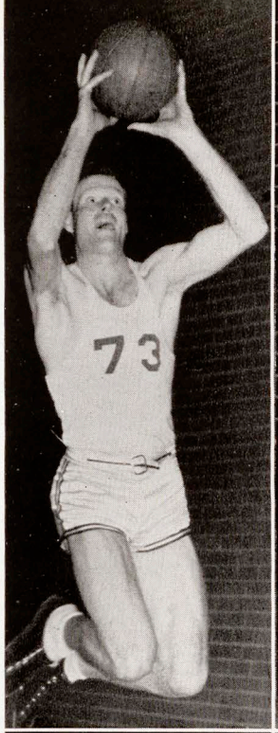
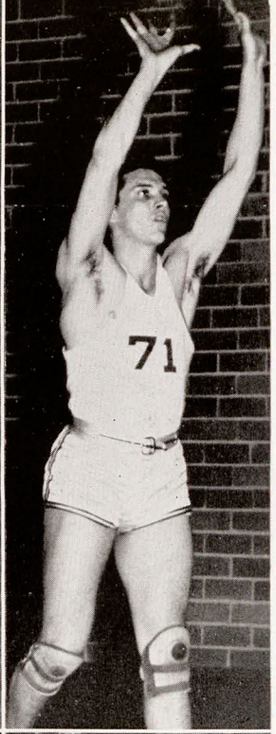
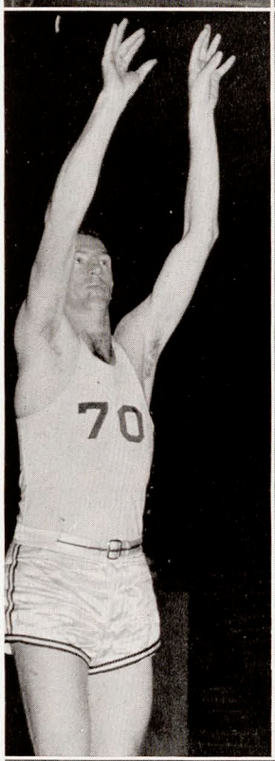
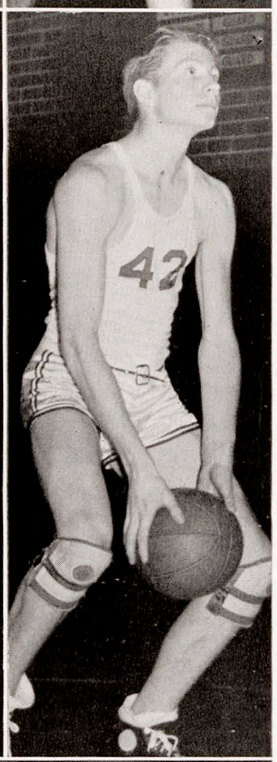
JESSE "RED" WILSON was the fastest man on the squad and he never stopped fighting. Picture shows "Red" and his favorite jump shot.





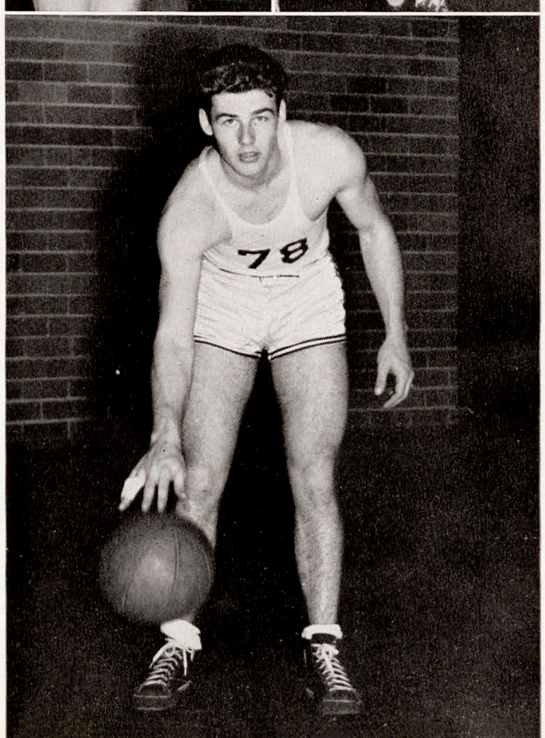
BILL MUNCY, sophomore, saw plenty of action and was a very effective defensive and rebound man.



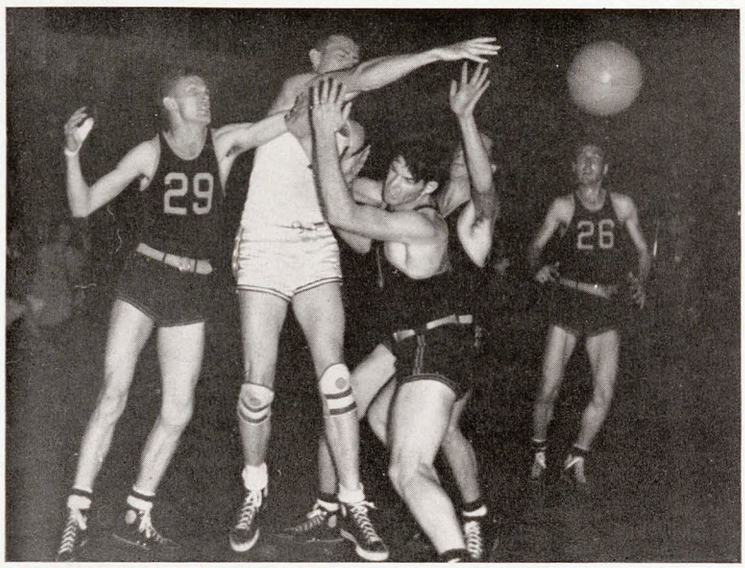


CLAYTON "FOOTSIE" WYNNE made all-conference guard, was mentioned on several All-American teams and led the team in scoring.

ALAN "BUGGER" CARTER started the season slowly but later on saw lots of service and scored consistently when in the game.



JOHN NANCE was a starter for part of the season and in all games was a major factor. He was most effective on rebounds.



Three Oklahoma boys vainly try to stop Wynne's pass.

burg, but lost the next two games of their barnstorming tour, the first to Phillips "66", and the second to St. Louis University. Their pre-conference schedule was thus ended.

The undefeated SMU Mustangs received their first two defeats in the hand of the Razorbacks, as the Hogs opened their 1943 Conference season. Both games were relatively close, the scoring being lower than average. Clayton Wynne was the leader in both games, scoring over half of Arkansas' points in the second.

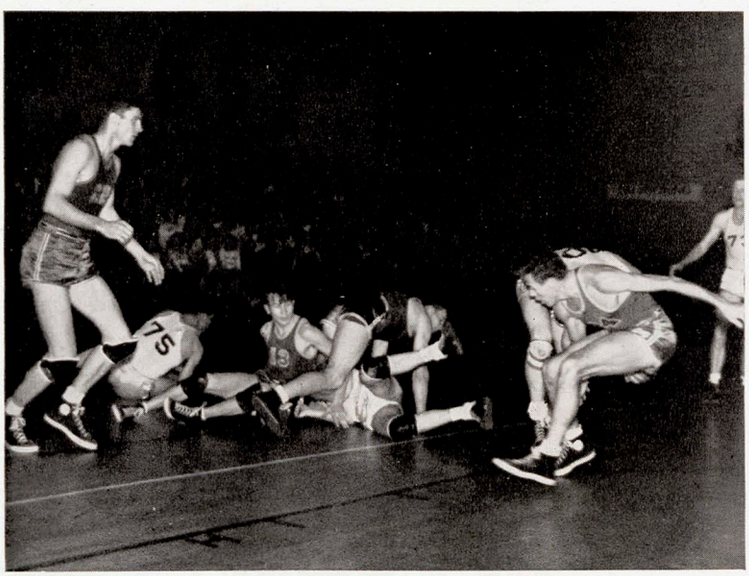
A two-game series with Rice was split, and the Razorbacks dropped out of the undefeated column in conference competition. The first game was Arkansas' all of the way, but Rice reversed the situation in the second, and the Razorbacks trailed throughout the tilt.

Overcoming what looked like a possible defeat in the second game, the Porkers edged by both Baylor games, running their record up to five games won, with only one loss.

Almost all hopes for a conference victory, however, were dispelled at Austin, when the Razorbacks suffered a pair of defeats in the hands of the Texas Longhorns. The first game was hard and furious—the second, almost a fight; but Texas cleaned up, and the Razorbacks returned home with two more losses.

A split with Texas A. and M. definitely ruined all hopes of championship. The Porkers cleaned up the first night, nearly setting a new conference record for scoring, but the second night was a different story, and the Porkers had added another defeat.

A pair of victories over TCU at Fort Worth ended the conference season, and the Razorbacks finished third in the conference with eight wins and four losses.

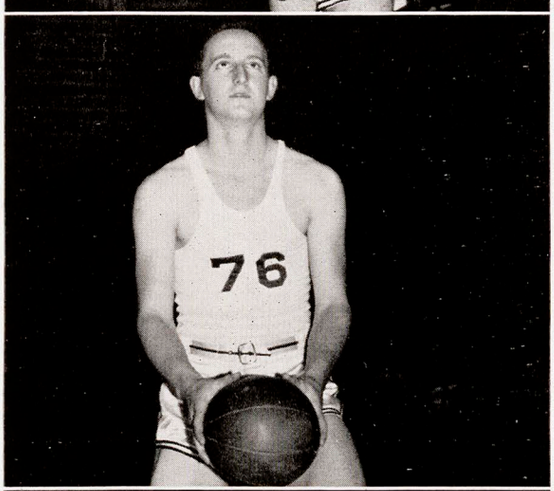


Basketball can get rough. Witness more men on the floor than off.

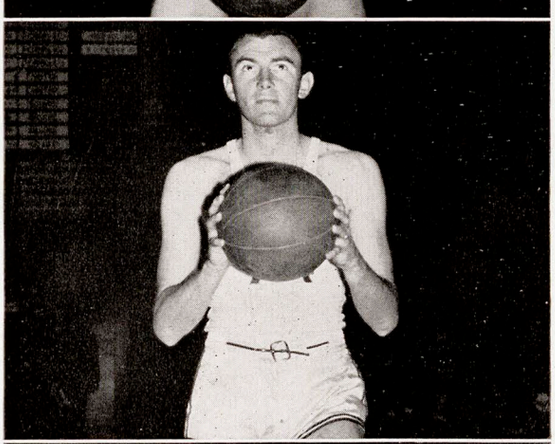
BEN JONES alternated with Nance as a starter. He too got his stride later on in the season and hit the mesh for many points.

CHARLES "CHUCK" LIVELY was a scrappy reserve whose greatest joy was to beat an opponent to a loose ball.

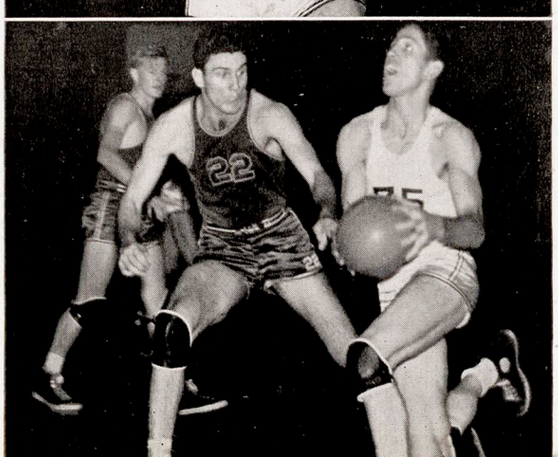
PAUL COLEMAN was the first freshman in history to break into the traveling squad of the basketball team. He has a great future in basketball.



A. B. BRADLEY was a regular all season and was the most consistent player on the squad. A great rebound artist and a deadly eye under the basket.



GORDON "SHORTY" CARPENTER, 6 ft. 8 in. center, made all-conference and was outstanding all year. "Shorty" specialized in follow shots.



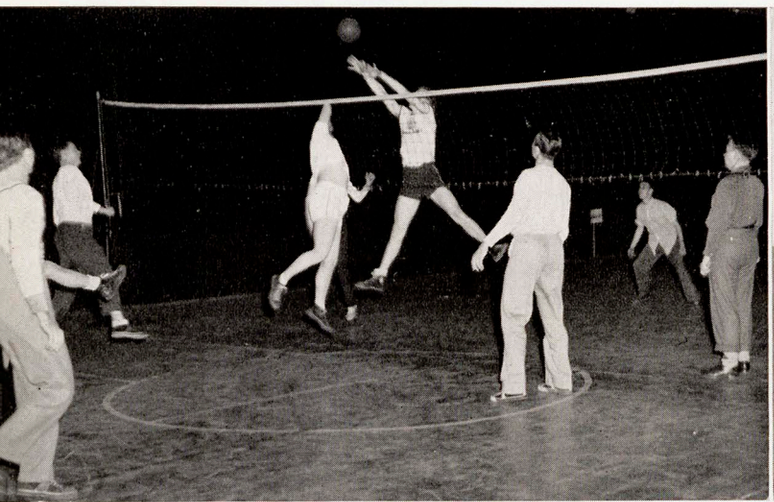
GENE BAILEY started second year as manager until air corps called.

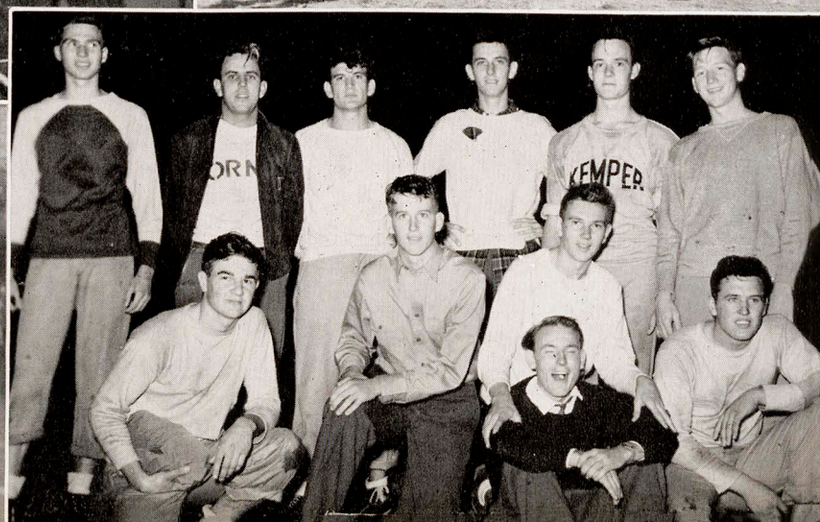
INTRAMURALS

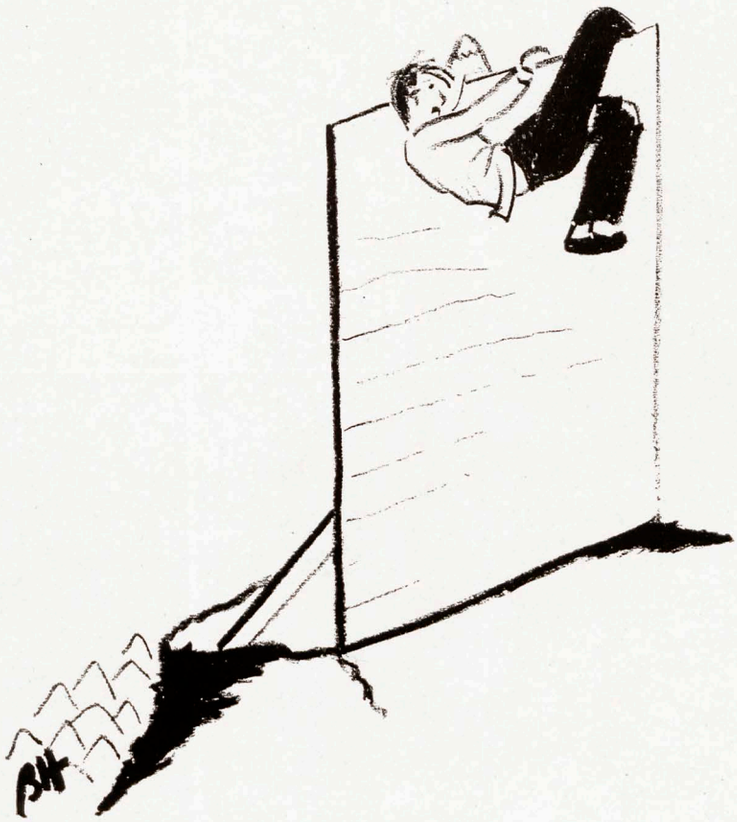
Despite the smaller number of boys and the increased army activity on the campus, intramurals under the able direction of Gene Bailey and Gus Blass proceeded as usual with an even greater interest shown by participants and spectators.

Chief contenders for the intramural crown were Sigma Chi and the Dorm. These two rivals met for the touch football crown with the Dorm emerging victorious and they also fought it out for the basketball title but here the tables were turned and the Skis won. The Sigma Chis also took the volleyball title by defeating the Dorm. Sig Alphs and Kappa Sigs tied for the boxing championship and the Sigma Chis repeated last year's performance by winning the wrestling crown. Kenneth Theis, Dorm, won the ping pong singles title and the Swift-Hardy combination won the doubles. Bill Mahan, Sig Alph, was the first intramural snooker champion. "Bubba" Smart, SAE, won the tennis singles. With only the intramural track meet left on the calendar for intramurals the Sigma Chis seemed destined to recapture the crown they won for the first time last year.

Top—KA's Baker scores in volleyball. Theis, Dorm, awaits opponent's service. Girls too had intramurals.
Bottom—Sigma Chi's get a charity toss in championship tussle with Dorm. The Dorm touchball team right after they beat the Sigma Chis for the championship.







MILITARY

Col. J. M. White made military tough this year

MILITARY STAFF

Directing the University's military department, now more important than ever, is Colonel James M. White, P.M.S.&T. A member of the Philippine Scouts, he participated in the Philippine campaign in 1902. Colonel White headed the Military department here from 1932 to 1938. In '35 he was promoted from Major to Lieutenant Colonel. In New Haven, Conn., in 1939 he was made Colonel, having worked up the hard way. He retired the following year, returning to Fayetteville to live. He was recalled to active duty last spring, and detailed here.

The University's military staff this year increased in importance and size. Five men were added to the staff, bringing the total to twelve. Captain Thomas F. Butt, Phi Eta Sigma, Blue Key, Pershing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade, and captain of the rifle team, was an honor graduate from Law school in '38. Captain Barton Groom, honor graduate in Business Administration in 1940, was a member of Blue Key, Pershing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade, and Beta Gamma Sigma, as well as being cadet colonel. Captain Jack Greathouse, appointed adjutant of the department this year, has been here since 1919, the longest record in the department. Captain Greathouse was retired from the regular army and then given a Captain's commission in the reserve. He held the rank of sergeant previous to his promotion. Lieutenants W. S. Hardie and W. G. Mohrhusen were detailed here this year to instruct the newly-formed Signal Corps. Lieutenant C. G. Brown, Scabbard and Blade, and Psi Chi, graduated from Arts and Sciences in 1934. Lieutenant J. C. Wilder, instructor of all freshman military students, rifle team coach, and bayonet instructor, was transferred here from Texas Military Institute. Sergeant Wayne Condon, Sergeant Marion Hill, Sergeant Millard Stevens, and Corporal Patrick J. Moran complete the military personnel.

Cadet Colonel Gregory

Three diamonds, the mark of an ROTC cadet colonel, rest on the shoulders of the military student adjudged to be the most outstanding junior officer, a title won this year by Noel Gregory. With this highest of cadet posts, goes the command of the ROTC regiment. The cadet colonel chooses the "Colonel's Lady," and with her leads the grand march of the annual military ball. Gregory is also captain of Pershing rifles, and captain of Scabbard and Blade.

Second in command is Lieutenant Colonel Harvey Howington. He is a member of Alpha Zeta, Blue Key, Scabbard and Blade, and Phi Eta Sigma.

Major Harry Shipley, Jr., adjutant and third in command, is president of Alpha Kappa Psi, and a member in the Commerce Guild, Blue Key, and Scabbard and Blade.

The number of battalion commanders was increased from three to four this year when the Signal Corps was created. Major Henry Hicks, AIChE, Tau Beta Pi, and Pi Mu Epsilon, was appointed as Signal Corps commander. Major Mark Brenke is student manager of the Student Union. Major Thomas E. Trawick, Scabbard and Blade, Blue Key, and Who's Who in American Colleges, is a member of the student senate. Major William R. Orton, president of YMCA, and a member of ODK, Phi Eta Sigma, and the War Council, was commander of the ill-fated third battalion, companies F and G, which was dissolved during the second semester.

MARY CROOM, the Colonel's Lady

The usual flurry of the Regimental Sponsor Campaign was abolished this year when, by a new ruling, Cadet Colonel Noel Gregory named Miss Mary Croom, Dardanelle, as the "Colonel's Lady."

Miss Croom, Chi Omega, graduated from the University in 1941. She was elected campus queen in 1940. As the "Colonel's Lady," she, with Colonel Gregory, led the grand march at the annual military ball in March. Miss Croom also ruled at the turn-over exercises and regimental inspection in the latter part of May.

The cadet staff sponsors this year were dominated by the Pi Phis who garnered four of the six staff sponsors.

Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Harvey Howington's sponsor was Mary Hercus, Pi Phi junior transfer, who wears a Sigma Nu badge along with her Pi Phi arrow. She is a music major and a bridge expert. Major Harry Shipley, who serves as Regimental Adjutant, has as his sponsor Eloise Stuckey, another Pi Phi, who also is pinned. She is a freshman and hails from Lepanto deep in the cotton country. Major Bill Orton chose as his sponsor a home town girl, Chio Nancy Hill, from Hope. Nancy is a repeater as she served as sponsor for Company C last year.

Ruth Bylander, Delta Gamma senior, is sponsor for Major Mark Brenke of the first battalion. Ruth and Mark have been "steadyin' " for four long years of college. She is a journalism major and active in social welfare work. Major Tom Trawick's sponsor is "Cissy" Moll, Pi Phi senior, who wears Tom's Sig Alph pin. Cissy is an assistant instructor in the business school and Trawick's assistant in dispensing free cigarettes. Major Henry Hicks of the Signal Corps had no other choice than to choose his wife whom he married last fall. She was the former Jeanne Marie Murphy.

MEN'S RIFLE TEAM

Front row—Kern, Rutledge, Mallory, Hay

Firing regulation .22-caliber army rifles loaded with ammunition provided by the government, the University Men's Rifle Team won the majority of its matches this year, and placed second in the Eighth Corps Area Intercollegiate match.

The fifteen members of the team, coached by Lieutenant J. C. Wilder, fired against university teams such as LSU, University of California, Montana State university, University of Maryland, and Clemson university. These matches are carried on by mail, as it were. The match is fired in the various schools, and the results are certified and mailed in.

Each year the team enters the William Randolph Hearst match, a contest in which a large number of colleges and universities throughout the United States compete. This match is also carried on by mail.

In a single match as much as 1,500–1,800 shells are fired by the team. Much more than this is fired in practice. On the rifle range beneath the Greek theater practice is held three times a week, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Saturday.

A hindrance to the rifle team this year was the fact that the army took a number of its members. It seemed as though as soon as a team was made up, one of its number would go into the service. Enough were left, however, to make up three teams.

Miscellaneous Organizations

"Doug" MacArthur was not a "joiner" of organizations but a creator and builder of them. Throughout his career his ability to organize stands out.

The painting on the opposite page showing General MacArthur taking the oath of office as the youngest chief-of-staff in the history of the nation is symbolic of his recognized ability to organize. Immediately upon assuming office he became known to Congress as a "treasury raider," because he demanded an increased armament program. Because of the depression and of the prevalence of isolationist sentiment, he was usually unsuccessful in obtaining funds. He was also the first high ranking American officer to advocate increased mechanism in military weapons, but here again his advice went largely unheeded. Had his wishes prevailed with Congress and with the War Department the first days of the war might have been far brighter ones for the American cause.

Of more far reaching consequence than his World War I achievements, his reorganization of West Point, his first stay in the Philippines, or his record as chief-of-staff was his organization of the defense of the Philippines and Bataan Peninsula. By this defense other points of future conflict were given time to prepare for the Nipponese invader.

Yes, General Douglas MacArthur was a super-organizer.

Despite the innovation of the quota system, the Chios succeeded in filling their quota by the pledging of twenty-six girls.

Their new pledges were honorees at a dinner dance given in the chapter house early in September. The pledges retaliated the Friday night of Homecoming with an informal party for the initiates. As usual, the Chios came through with a bang-up good formal, regardless of the scarcity of men on the campus. An open house for the trustees was held preceding the dance.

Wearing the horseshoe, along with a Mortar Board emblem and a Phi Beta Kappa key, is Traveler editor Helen Tidwell. "H. T." is also a member of Psi Chi and Lambda Tau. With equally as many journalistic grey hairs is assistant Traveler editor Carolyn Combs, whom the Men's Press club chose for Miss Arkansas Traveler.

Prexy Camille Cross is Mortar Board, member of Psi Chi and Phi Alpha Theta, and a Razorback beauty.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

The Delta girls jumped the gun and had the first sorority formal of the year November 20, using as a color scheme their colors blue and white.

Their first social function of the year was a sweater hop in the Union honoring their new pledges. An open house and buffet supper honoring the Razorbacks, the T. C. U. Mustangs, and their coaches was held the Saturday afternoon of Homecoming.

Tri Delt boasts BWOC Gail Smith, Danforth Award winner, WAA vice-president, Omicron Delta treasurer, Panhellenic representative, member of AWS Executive Board, and Mortar Board.

The Delta Shelter houses Shirley Smith, varsity cheer leader, member of Pix, and Orchesis; Dora Dean Johnson, AWS treasurer; and Mary Flo Henry, Phi Chi Alpha and Sophomore Council.

A trio of Tri Delt queens developed the first semester: Dream Girl of PiKA was Polly Harper; Commerce queen was president Betty Jo Vise; and Miss Rice was Marjolene Wilson, who was also Number 1 Razorback beauty.

The Dee Gees formally closed rush week with the pledging of nineteen girls. A sweater hop for the pledges at the chapter house December 5 was their initial campus social function. Their winter formal January 2 helped bring the campus to life again after a fortnight of Christmas dormancy.

Delta Gamma's society was, for the most part, in the chapter itself. The new pledges entertained the initiates with a skating party on Hallowe'en, the favor being returned by the initiates before the Christmas holidays when they held a dinner party for the pledges. The town girls entertained the chapter New Year's Eve with a Hell and Starvation party, refreshments consisting of crackers and hot water.

The chapter boasts Kappa Pi president, Jo Ethal Bryan; Julia Lee Irby, who serves on the AWS Executive Board; Margaret Hooper, Mortar Board and member of Phi Alpha Theta; and Bobette Williams, who edited the Pan Hellenic handbook for rushees.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

Starting the year the Kappas put the Sigma within the Delta pledge pin on twenty-one new girls. With the first whirl-wind days over, these pledges entertained the pledges of all the other sororities with a box supper served in the side yard.

When Reube Gene Shaw was crowned Homecoming Queen, she gave the Kappas the distinction of being the only sorority on the campus ever to have that honor for two consecutive years. Following the Homecoming game the Kappas entertained with a buffet supper at the house. The annual winter formal, which was held at Thanksgiving time this year, was followed by a party of fruit cake and coffee served at the Kappa house.

Thoma Kanis received the $25.00 War Bond from Mortar Board for the freshman girl with the highest grade point. Popular Mary Ella Crook was chosen Junior Interfraternity Queen and Ernestine Vinson followed this honor by copping the title of Theta Tau Sweetheart.

The Kappas did not forget their war efforts this year. Each girl chipped in to buy a War Bond, and the Kappas signed up almost 100% to roll Red Cross bandages.

To end the year successfully Reube Gene Shaw was chosen president of Pix, Caroline Jones, president of YWCA, and Merikay Johnson was elected treasurer of AWS.

Between fires, peeping Toms, and pins the Arrow girls had a very exciting year.

An informal tea dance at the Union honoring the new pledges headed the Pee Phee social calendar. Social chairman Eugenia Crawford followed this up with a very technically planned treasure hunt. The annual Christmas formal brought the Pi Phi social department to a close the first semester.

With the highest grade point on the campus for the past four years, a 3.25, Pi Phi retained the pledge scholarship cup awarded to last year's pledge class.

Frances Brigance and Betty Lou Kramer were two of the five women on the campus elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Two-year chapter president Brigance is Mortar Board, president of Mixed Chorus, member of SAI, and winner of the Henry Tovey Memorial award. Betty Lou is Guidon captain, Home Ec club president, and AWS War Effort chairman.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Arkansas Zetas found their house beautifully redecorated with blue predominating through the living room furniture, drapes, and rug, when they returned to school this fall. Minor improvements were made during the summer months to the upstairs rooms.

The four Zeta pledges opened their sorority's social calendar by entertaining the initiates with a backwards party. The hostesses welcomed the guests with "good bye" and shoved them out the door, upon termination of the function, with "hello." Ice cream and cake was served immediately after all the honorees had arrived.

Zeta celebrated its 44th national, its 37th local, anniversary with a banquet in the chapter house early in October. An initiation banquet was held in connection with their Christmas party immediately preceding the holidays. They exchanged inexpensive gifts, in addition to purchasing toys and articles of clothing for their community at Currin Valley, Virginia, a Zeta national project.

Zeta this year reclaimed the pledge scholarship trophy which they handed over to the Pi Phis last year, their pledges racking up a 3.5.

A most outstanding personality on the campus is Zeta president Betty Lou Welch, transfer from Kansas State, who took over the Pan Hellenic gavel this year. She served on the AWS Executive Council, and was secretary-treasurer of Psi Chi.

Ann Ledford, sister of the most musically inclined Margaret, reigned this year as Miss Texas at Little Rock.

Stoically, Pan Hellenic took a political stand. Bludgeoned organization mouthpiece Zeta Betty Lou Welch, "(Arkansas) elections are not held the way democratic elections should be held." Accompanying this startling contribution was the announcement that no member of Pan Hellenic could enter into any line-ups with any political party on queen elections.

Through Pan Hellenic, time immemorial rivals Pi Phi and Chi Omega got together. They furnished the only opposition to the quota system and the semi-annual change of rush rules. Finding themselves pitifully in the minority, however, they voted for the new "democratic" rush system, which abolished hot boxing, financial extravagance, and general rush week confusion; and the quota system, which prevented their supreme delight of safety, and fraternity progress, through numbers.

Pan Hellenic held its first retreat, a contribution of Oklahoma university, last spring. The purpose, President Welch said, was "to get away from our own social groups on the campus and to make the girls think in terms of Pan Hellenic instead of one group." Pan Hell representatives assured themselves and the groups to which they returned that it was most profitable and inspiring. Such topics as pledges, the ever present quota and rush systems, date calling, politics, and Pan Hellenic unity were directed by discussion leaders.

AGR kept their house open until the second semester when World War II proved to be too much competition. Even with the twenty boys who pledged first semester, it was impossible to continue. Moving in with several of the AGR's in their chapter house were the Midway Co-op boys, who had experienced similar wartime strain and stress.

Separation of the AGR's, however, didn't prevent holding their regular weekly meetings in the Student Union Blue Room and continuing their intramural program.

In the middle of October, AGR opened their social year with their annual hayride to Lake Weddington. Friday night dances were frequent occurrences at their chapter house during the semester.

Skipper of the sickle and sheath boys is Associated Students president, Harold "Buck" Lloyd. Lloyd is vice-president of Blue Key, is captain of ROTC Company F, is a member of Scabbard and Blade and Alpha Zeta. Another outstanding AGR is Ben McCollum, ADA manager, Blue Key, ROTC senior officer, and member of Alpha Zeta. Both have been active in New Dealers since the birth of the party some years ago.

Approximately 15 of the Alpha Iota boys left for the armed services during the year.

Founded at the University of Indiana and Ohio State university in 1904, Alpha Gamma Rho has now grown to a national fraternity of 30 chapters. All are established on campuses where schools of agriculture are found. The local wearers of the green and gold have been at the University of Arkansas for the past nine years.

AGR faculty brethern include Dr. D. F. Eveleth and Hilliard Jackson.

K. A. moved from their former habitat to 612 Storer after deciding that their fraternity would go on a wartime basis for the duration. This one void suit, however, didn't prevent ten boys from claiming the K. A. pledge pin first semester.

Taking over the K. A. chapter house, early last summer, were several CAA trainees. "After the war" K. A. will return to their former home.

Tommy Stanfield, one of the honor students of Engineering school, in addition to heading the Alpha Omicron boys, is president of Tau Beta Pi, a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, and Alpha Omicron Delta. Second semester, after receiving his engineering degree, he began instruction of the pre-radar trainees.

Only K. A. entertainment during the year were Sunday night dinners, sometimes stag, sometimes drag, which were given at the Mountain Inn. A deficient grade point, which incidentally became socially acceptable second semester, prevented further gaiety.

From LSU came K. A. pledge Buddy Ralph to help fill the vacancies made by the departure of twelve of the brethren at various times during the school year.

Though small in number the KA's were active in intramural activities. Dickie Gaines shone as a touchball player, boxer and wrestler. Walter Baker was one of the outstanding volleyball and basketball players to participate this year.

Mrs. W. H. Baggett is housemother.

True Southerners are the Kappa Alphas. Their fraternity was founded at Washington and Lee in 1865 under the direction of Robert E. Lee. No K. A. chapters can be found above the Mason-Dixon line. 1943 marked the 48th year that K. A. has been on the Arkansas campus.

"Gayest pinnings and best dinner dances on the campus," boast the Kappa Sigma brethren, who, since time immemorial, have taken immeasurable glee in offering their best wishes to abashed and blushing couples. As for the dinner dances, neither sex can overlook the spontaneous hospitality which is ever-present when the crescent and star boys entertain.

A Kay Zee tradition is the Christmas formal, at which time the house becomes a virtual forest of cedar. Hundreds of Christmas tree lights, woven in with the cedar bough, furnish the only illumination. In the den, cotton snow, covering the walls, provides a perfect background for the Greek letters of sororities in multi-colored lights.

Meredith "Cotton" Jones, three year letterman of the varsity football squad, is Blue Key, a cadet captain, and member of the Student Senate.

Cadet major Bill Orton wears an Omicron Delta Kappa emblem beside his crescent and star. Ex-president "Doc" Brown is Blue Key, senior class president, an R.O.T.C. officer, and a member of Scabbard and Blade.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Honorarily initiating governors of the state and national chamber of commerce presidents is an important part of the Lambda Chi program. This Homecoming, William Sheppard, national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was extended the fraternal mysteries and the emblem of Lambda Chi.

First function of their social calendar was a dinner dance, honoring the twenty-five new pledges. Turning the tables on the seasons, their annual black and white formal came up in January instead of the usual April. The Lambda Chis entertained at their annual Founder's Day banquet in March, and held their annual Christmas banquet this year at the Washington.

Lambda Chi has its share of military men. Carl Rutledge is captain of ROTC Company E, and Winston Purifoy and Glynn Hill are cadet first lieutenants. All are Blue Key, members of Scabbard and Blade and the Commerce Guild.

Bobby Gardener, new prexy of the chapter, is on the Commerce Guild Executive Board and is Lambda Chi's representative on the Interfraternity Council, along with Carl Rutledge.

PHI KAPPA THETA

Boasting the highest grade point of any fraternity for the three semesters that they have been on the campus, Phi Kappa Theta, after final tabulation at the end of the first semester, turned up with a 3.16 average.

The Catholic social fraternity has its outstanding members. Francis Donovan, first Arkansan to win the C. P. J. Mooney award, a four-year all-expense scholarship, is president of the Newman Club, is a member of Phi Alpha Delta, Tau Kappa Delta, Omicron Delta Kappa, and is a junior ROTC officer. He served as the fraternity's first president last year.

Otto Wasmer is secretary of the Newman Club, is a member of Phi Alpha Theta and Kappa Delta Phi. James Doyle is vice-president of the Newman Club, is on the Arkansas Engineer staff, a member of AIChE, and a junior ROTC officer.

Anthony Merlo, Alex Periowich, Leo Kaufman, Jorge Valdivieso, Otto Wasmer, and Francis Donovan have been on the honor roll consistently.

In ratio to the size of their fraternity, the Phi Kappa Thetas have probably more representatives in the armed forces than any other fraternity on the campus. Twenty-four former members now represent Delta Chapter in various divisions of the service. A service flag in the chapter house records Phi Kappa Theta departures.

The Reverend Bishop A. L. Fletcher of Little Rock, honorary member of the fraternity, assisted in the spring initiation.

Dean G. P. Stocker is faculty advisor of the group, and is province sponsor for the national fraternity.

Alpha Zeta chapter of PiKA, the first chapter to be established west of the Mississippi, got off to a good start this year by filling their quota.

Finishing the first semester with the highest grade point of the National Social fraternities, PiKA received a plaque from their National headquarters for this achievement.

On March 1 the boys celebrated the Diamond anniversary of their fraternity with a banquet at the Mountain Inn. Among their social activities of the year have been a hay ride, the annual sisters banquet, a Valentine party, and a dinner dance.

Regardless of Uncle Sam's reaching arm, PiKA still claims some of the BMOC. Dick Metcalf, social chairman, ABC president, and ROTC lieutenant, was selected for National Who's Who in Colleges and Universities; Louis Walter, editor of the Student Directory, ROTC lieutenant, and treasurer of ECHO, is president of ODK; and Gene Leggett, member of the Publication Board, and president of ASCE, is house manager of PiKA.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

For the fourth time in the last five years, Sig Alph again claimed ROTC cadet colonel. Early this fall, Noel Gregory took over where last year's chapter president, Rogers Hannon, left off by filling the top ranking military position as well as heading both Pershing Rifles and Scabbard and Blade. Most delicate assignment of the military year was the necessity for Colonel Gregory to choose his own "lady".

Besides three dinner dances, given at various times during the school year, Sig Alph entertained with an annual Christmas party which honored their freshmen; a New Year's dance, which was open to the campus; their annual Founder's Day banquet; their annual Honky Tonk party; and their spring formal.

To honor Arkansas Epsilon members who have given their lives in this war, a Neil G. Martin Memorial Lion will be erected on the Sig Alph front lawn during the summer months. The names of Jimmy Dubard, past chapter president, and Henry Bateman will appear on a plaque set in the memorial.

Taking over after Al Kopert's departure for the Army Air Corps in February was Walter "Sonny" Miles, Blue Key president, ROTC Company A captain, member of Phi Eta Sigma, and Beta Gamma Sigma.

At their spring formal, Louise "Bug" Atkinson, a Chi Omega, was crowned "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi".

Sigma Nu's white star last semester shone down for the 39th year on the Gamma Upsilon boys. However, even with its patronizing ways, Sigma Nu wasn't spared militaristically. Of the thirty-one initiates returning to school first semester, eight remained at the end of the school year.

A gay hay-ride opened the Sigma Nu social year. Later they entertained with a dinner dance in the house. Naturally, the Sigma Nu's had their Sadie Hawkins dance, held this year in the Field House. Anything went, and everyone had fun.

Harvey Howington, who served his second term as chapter president this last semester, is Blue Key, member of Phi Eta Sigma, and Scabbard and Blade in addition to being the second highest ranking ROTC cadet officer. Ex-president Billy Phillips is Blue Key, member of Commerce Guild, Alpha Kappa Psi, and Guild Ticker staff. No grass grew under the feet of the men sitting around the Interfraternity Council table. They backed the local community sing, they collected tin cans, they formulated the initial constitution of the group, and they screamed loud and long for and against the quota system.

Sig Alph, Kappa Sig, and Sigma Chi, pleading dissolution if their respective groups were held to the quota system, excused themselves from the council table soon after Christmas. Just the past spring, the council agreed that the forthcoming male element on the University campus would be doled out proportionately to the fraternities. The plan worked very successfully first semester. Second semester was another story.

Withdrawal of the turbulent trio will mean the death of the council until after the war.

For the first time since their organization, the Council drew up a constitution. Officers in the future will be rotated between the fraternities; all pledging will be in accordance with the quota system; one regular meeting will be held each month; and two members from each fraternity will sit on the council. Naturally, these major points of the constitution may be adjusted to fit the future council.

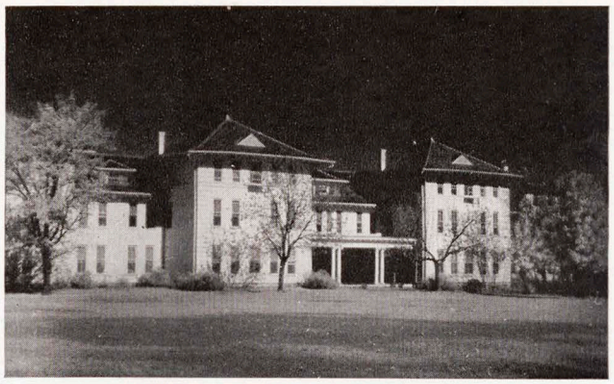
CARNALL HALL



Carnall Hall has had a long session this year, as it was opened early in September to house the rushees.

The hall was redecorated last year. Glass chandeliers, floor length mirrors, and period furniture give the downstairs the appearance of an old southern home. There is an attractive waiting room just off the entrance hall where housemother Emma Barnes is usually to be found.

Social activities at Carnall were frequent this year. There was a Hallowe'en party at the hall and a formal at the Union. There is a monthly vice-versa, and every few weeks the girls have pajama parties after dates.

Among the outstanding Carnallites is Mary Noice Moore, president last year, who is president of AWS, is in Kappa Delta Pi, Omicron Delta, and won the Hazel H. Briggs Award.

MEN'S 4-H HOUSE

Completing the year as the only strictly agricultural organized house on the campus, the Men's 4-H House has again had an active and eventful year.

Honors came their way. Wade Bishop, president of the house, is business manager of Arkansas Agriculturist, treasurer of Associated Students, and carries a Blue Key. Odie Stallcup edited the Arkansas Agriculturist, made Who's Who, and O.D.K. Robert Spitze is president of both Wesley Players and Wesley Foundation. Alpha Zeta claims twelve 4-H'ers, Pershing Rifles, Blue Key, and O.D.K. claim three each.

4-H was active in intramurals. Quentin Lynd and John Hubbard won boxing titles. Jesse Wilson is captain-elect of next year's basketball team.

The Men's 4-H House was first organized on the Arkansas campus in 1936, and at that time was the only one of its kind in the United States.

One hundred and twenty boys lived at Razorback hall until they received their orders to vacate for the Army Air Corps cadets who arrived in March.

Razorback Hall was outstanding in its success in intramurals this year. The boys won the championship in touch football, defeating Sigma Chi in the finals. The star of the team was Henry Frantz, supported by Bob Williamson and Auten Chitwood.

The Dorm boys went to the finals of basketball and volleyball. Kenneth Theis won the ping pong championship, and Henry Frantz and Manuel Rios went to the semi-finals in doubles.

Tom Trawick was housemanager and "dunned the boys for their rent money". Jack West was the most popular boy in the dorm twice each day, for he distributed the mail.

This year the West Section, long known for its rowdiness, surrendered its title to the center section, where paint was thrown and fires were built in the halls. In spite of this atmosphere, James Crenshaw, Lester Redmond, and Robert Maurer made Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary society, and Harry Boyce was selected as outstanding first year law man.

For the first time in its history the Dorm had a social function—a scavenger hunt, followed by dancing and refreshments in the dorm cafeteria. Led by Wallace Moore, the boys also put on their first serenade this year also.

Theta Tau furnished the Air Corps with 12 men, but came through with 23 active members, 11 pledges, and one of the largest chapters it has ever had on the Arkansas campus.

The slide rule boys who belong to Theta Tau were moved from their abode on Leverett street when the Air Corps moved into Davis Hall and the girls from there were shifted to the Theta Tau house. It is rumored that the Davis Hall girls had a gay time with the pictures, books, etc., that the Theta Tau lads left in their hasty departure.

Outstanding in many ways are Theta Tau men. President of the house is Wallace Hunton, who is also president of AIChE and a member of Engineering Council. Tom Logan edits the Arkansas Engineer, is a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, Engineering Council, and O.D.K. Joe "St. Pat" Weisiger is chief ad-chaser of Arkansas Engineer, a member of Blue Key and Engineering Council. And the offices of vice-president of house, president of AIChE, and treasurer of Engineering Council Belong to Gene Leggett.

Theta Tau was proud of its pledges. Three freshmen made Phi Eta Sigma.

And social events were not lacking. There was a Christmas Dance at the house. A Formal in the Ballroom opened the second semester activities. Pretty Ernestine Vinson, who was selected Sweetheart of

THETA TAU

Theta Tau is a national engineering fraternity with membership not based upon scholarship. It was founded at the University of Minnesota in 1904. Upsilon chapter at Arkansas was founded in 1928.

Theta Tau, was presented a bouquet of dark red roses at this dance by President Hunton. And then came one of Theta Tau's famous beer busts for their "off to the Air Corps" brothers.

Problem of the year: to convert second semester Mother Kate (who had been with A.G.R. 10 years) from an agri to an engineer.

In spite of losing over fifty per cent of its members to the armed forces during the first semester, Midway Co-op came through the year still a strong organization—with a better located house, and money in its treasury.

A desire for better room and board at lower prices was responsible for its founding in 1940. A group of students got together and pooled expenses—result was Midway. Located on Leverette the first semester, the organization moved on February 1st to University street.

President William Fish is also president of B.S.U., Y.M.C.A. Cabinet member, and A.I.O. representative. Durben Miller is house manager, A.I.O. president, Senator, and circulation manager of Arkansas Engineer. Other organizations Midway participates in are Alpha Zeta, AIChE, Mixed Chorus, ASME, AIEE, Traveler, RAZORBACK, Agriculturist, and Wesley Players.

DAVIS HALL

Early in March the girls at Mary Ann Davis Hall packed their bags and moved, leaving the hall to be used by the Army trainees on the campus.

Davis Hall was only completed in July, 1942. When the girls lived there they did the housework and Commissary Manager Mary Maxie Holt planned the meals.

Social activities were not overlooked. November 7, the hall, named for a former teacher at the University, was dedicated, and there followed an all day open house and a luncheon with Governor Adkins and President Harding as guests. Several parties were given this year, but the favorites of the girls were pajama parties.

The Davis Hall girls have christened their new home, located at 537 Leverett street, "Victory Hall," and their slogan at present is "The best girls of all go to Victory Hall."

Politically, the lady 4-H'ers are all out for New Deal and they take their share of honors. President of the house is Janive Segraves, who is also assistant editor of Arkansas Agriculturist, and historian of the Home Ec. Club. Eugenia Swearingen is secretary of Associated Students and a member of A.W.S. executive board. House manager Mildred Starnes is also secretary of A.I.O. President of Y.W.A. is Helen Wells. Martha Lou Foreman "secreteks" for Wesley Foundation and the Home Ec. Club. She also won the Danforth Scholarship for being high-point freshman girl in agri school last year.

Marjorie Evans is treasurer of Coterie and vice-president of University 4-H Club. President-elect of Rootin' Rubes is Tracy Lee Nicks, who is also vice-president of junior class. Mildred Riggs serves as vice-president of sophomore class and on the executive board of WAA. Lois Cooper is assistant A.D.A. manager.

The girls "shooed" their buddy-buddies from the boys' 4-H out long enough to roll up the rugs and get ready for social affairs. First came open house in October. Decorations were in fall colors. The Christmas party was for the girls only and climaxed a week of "Pollyannas". Then came the Valentine party with dates. And a spring formal brought the social activities to a close.

WOMEN'S 4-H HOUSE

The University of Arkansas Women's 4-H House was the first of its kind in the nation, first coöperative house on this campus and is now in its eleventh year.

Biggest event of the year: the marriage of Johnnie Trawick to Everett Horton.

Mrs. Caswell McRae, who has been on the campus 19 years, has been with the Girls' 4-H for four years.

Sponsors of the organization are Miss Sue Marshall, state extension specialist in clothing, and Mrs. John White, a former Home Demonstration Agent.

F F A HOUSE

War conditions forced the FFA's to reduce their membership to thirty-nine members, and to occupy one house at 717 W. Dickson. To become a member of the house one must be recommended by a member of the Agri College, or by business men in their home town.

Membership in the house is regulated, and only the most promising boys in leadership, character, and ability are chosen. Usually there are about twice as many applicants seeking admittance. Although 75 per cent of the members are in the College of Agriculture, the rest are scattered through all the other colleges. Room and board cost the boys about $20.00 per month. Dr. Keith L. Holloway is faculty adviser.

FFA HOUSE

Although the loss of Big-Boy Millard Hardin was felt, the house carried on strictly New Deal as usual. Sam Stewart, George Lusk, and Harold Shewmaker held student senate seats. Lusk was also a member of Blue Key and Stewart secretary of Y.M.C.A. David Andrews, Melvin Tucker, and T. F. Whittington are members of Phi Eta Sigma. Mannon Gallegly was on the social committee and Alpha Zeta. Laird Flake and Robert Baker were members of board of publication and "Corporal" Gallegly was treasurer of the freshman class.

FFA was active in intramurals, placing Sam Stewart and A. B. Bradley on the all-star touchball team. Bradley also held an active position on the varsity basketball team, and was winner of the free throw contest.

Organized in 1939, ECHO (short for Engineers Co-operative Housing Organization) is now in its fourth year of existence at the corner of Arkansas Avenue and Maple.

Up to twenty-five per cent of ECHO'S members are allowed to be non-engineers. But this year only one is not an engineer. You won't believe it but last year two agri students were members.

Outstanding among social events this year was the annual Christmas party. ECHO was also active in all intramural sports.

Sam Thompson, who heads ECHO, is also president of Engineering Council, and is listed in Who's Who. Another Who's Whoer is Louie Walter, house treasurer and president of O.D.K. Joe Weisiger is vice-president of the house, business manager of Arkansas Engineer, and was St. Patrick himself. House manager is Clifford Koger.

SCOTT HOUSE

The blue and white colonial frame house of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, 608 Storer, is the home of girls from all over the United States.

Mrs. Scott has had a home for girls for the past thirteen years, the last five of which have been spent at the present location. Several of the girls have spent from two to three years with Mrs. Scott.

Due to the war, the girls at Scott house voted to discontinue their social activities at the house this year. In the past however they have entertained with Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Valentine, and Easter dinners. Scott house is noted for its fine cooking.

About twenty per cent of the girls in the house are affiliated with sororities, and eighty per cent are otherwise. They are in schools ranging from Home Ec. to Law.

Several of the Scott house girls are outstanding on the campus. Lucy Belle Bledsoe is a six pointer, and she was recently initiated into Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity. Nell Powell is a senior in Law school; she is president of Scott house and is also house manager.

PUBLICATIONS

RAZORBACK

Many changes are featured in the 1943 RAZORBACK—some will like them and some won't but the aim to have a different type of book has been accomplished.

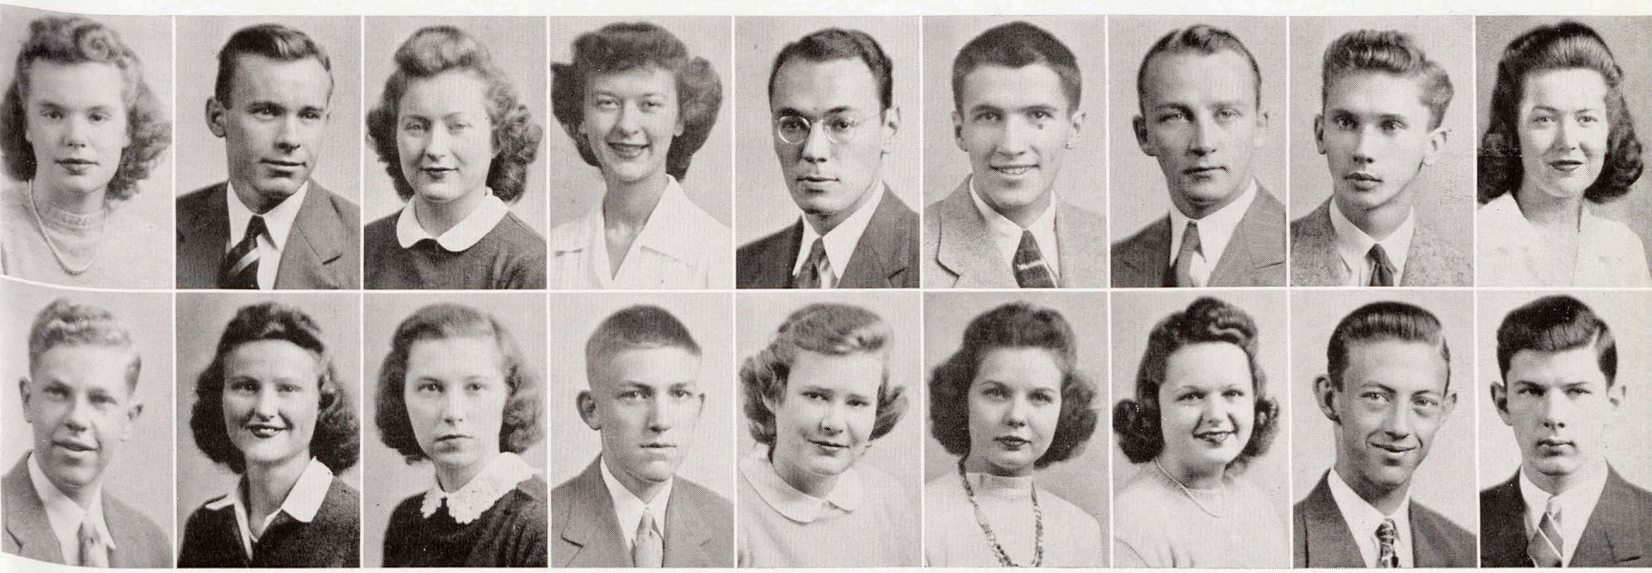
For the first time the RAZORBACK was dedicated to an individual, General Douglas A. MacArthur, World War II hero and native of Arkansas. The paintings of MacArthur were done by a California artist named Metcalf, whose father attended the University of Arkansas many years ago. We were indeed fortunate in getting Mr. Metcalf as he has done portraits of many famous personages. He painted the life size painting of Will Rogers that is in the Oklahoma state capitol.

Photography was the big problem this year with shortages on supplies and the impossibility of keeping a cameraman. George Kayer started out the year but joined the air corps after a couple of months. Most of the pictures were done by Ralph Stewart whose percentage of good pictures was amazing but he failed to return to school the second semester. The editor was pressed into service a good deal of the time and student contributions helped.

The book was published this year with the smallest staff in years but those who worked did so tirelessly and faithfully. From start to finish Joan Dorris labored doing all kinds of jobs from typing to assembling the copy and generally giving good advice. Caroline Roberts worked consistently the first semester on classes and making up panels for the engravers. Marjorie Dildy, now Mrs. G. Webb, had charge of getting all membership lists in and did a thorough job of it.

The editor at work—cigar and all

Business Manager Duncan struggled to get the $600



Bill Heerwagen did the cartoons and Theron Raines, Virginia Arnold, and Jess Covington wrote pages of excellent copy. V. J. Wilkins was re-write editor and checked all copy for errors. Joan Ticknor was very valuable the final months doing all kinds of work and spending several hours a day in the office. Anne Marie Singletary was chief typist the first semester but left school to take aeronautical engineering at Purdue.

Photographs of the classes were done by Green, McClure did the beauties, Southwestern Engraving Company of Tulsa did the engraving and Economy Advertising Company of Iowa City, Iowa, the printing. Total cost of the book was between nine and ten "grand".

TRAVELER

This was what might be called a "woman's year" on the Arkansas Traveler, as there was a woman editor, assistant editor, and all women managing editors. On the combined editorial and business staffs the women outnumbered the men two to one, but despite the man shortage, the paper did not overwork the feminine angle.

The Traveler felt the effects of war when it dropped from a bi-weekly to a weekly publication the second semester. Due to a decreased enrollment and a lack of news, the Board of Publications thought such action necessary and the staff agreed. When the paper became a weekly, the practice of having managing editors was also dropped, putting more work into the lap of the editor and her assistant.

The Traveler was of much assistance to Pi Kappa, women's honorary journalism society, in its drive to send the Traveler to former University of Arkansas students now in the armed forces. Publicity was given the drive in both the editorial and news columns of the paper. The result of this campaign was action taken by the Student Senate to obtain money from the Student Publication Loan Fund to use in defraying the expense of printing and mailing the paper.

Two new columns appeared in the Traveler the first semester, "The Fifth Column," by former editor Bill Penix, and "Free Mail Excerpts". In the latter, excerpts from letters of former students now in the army appeared as well as news of their promotions and addresses. The Traveler also had a column entitled "Men in the Armed Forces" which kept the Enlisted Reserves posted on changes in the Army and Navy Reserve programs.

Charlie Rice and his business staff had to work hard to secure ads this year, as national advertising was somewhat lower due to the war. WAAC and WAVE advertisements were not infrequent in the paper.

H. T. beat the New Deal in the spring and razzed them all year

Charles Rice found that the job of Business Manager was one of headaches.

Third row—Raines, Rice, Russell, Singletary, Sloan, Smith, Stuck, Theis, Tidwell, Vargas, Wahl, Woods.

The Traveler is the main medium of expression of the journalism department. All students in the news writing classes contribute to it and are required to have a certain number of column inches in print each semester. The policy of the paper was to present the news fairly and impartially, showing no political, fraternity, or sorority partiality.

Special issues of the paper this year were the six-page Engineers and Agri editions, the Honors' Day edition, and the April Fool issue, which was written by the Men's Press Club and Pi Kappa. April's Fool Day might well be termed "editor's holiday," as it is the one day of the year that the editor can sit back and not have to worry about the paper.

AGRICULTURIST

The Arkansas Agriculturist is the official publication of the students of the College of Agriculture. March of this year marked the nineteenth milestone of the publication, it having been first published in March of 1924. It has always been a monthly publication.

Next to the Traveler it is the most frequently issued publication on the campus. Due to this fact it has a very large staff. The editor, associate editor, and the business manager head the staff. These officials are elected from the students of the college. They in turn select their co-workers from the student body.

The editor used the same general plan for the magazine as was used last year. The theme was, however, radically changed. The theme was, to quote the editor, "to portray a cross section of the activities, thoughts, and outlook of the students and faculty of the college in light of the present national emergency and in preparation for the future." The cover pictures portrayed students and faculty engaged in activities which represent the many phases of college life, and of the contribution which the college is making to the war effort and agriculture in general.

The magazine carried in its contents a balance of news, editorials, and articles pertaining to various activities. One page in each issue is devoted to a message to the students from Dr. W. R. Horlacher, dean of the college. Another page is devoted to editorials by the editor which Odie said was hard to fill due to "lack of soap." Other articles in the magazine were written by students and dealt with research carried on by the various departments, student activities, agricultural news, and other items of general interest.

Editor Odie Stallcup had many other jobs to do also

Business Manager Wade Bishop sold more ads than ever before

Third row—R. Smith, Spitze, Springfield, Swearingen, Trawick, Washington, Wells, J. Wilson, N. Wilson, Segraves, Stallcup, Taylor, Wepfer.

The Agriculturist not only serves the students of the college, but has a rather wide circulation, being sent to colleges, high schools, farmers, and agricultural workers throughout the state. A special issue is prepared for Agri Day each year. It contains a picture of all the organizations and of the Agri Queen, as well as the outstanding students of the college.

Odie Talmadge Stallcup served as editor for this year. Bert Crow, associate editor-elect transferred to the engineering school and was replaced by Loyde Hudson, who proved to be a valuable member of the staff. A. Wade Bishop served as business manager and proved to be one of the best in the history of the magazine.

ENGINEER

Again this year the Arkansas Engineer, official quarterly publication of the College of Engineering, boasted one of the largest staffs in its thirty-one years of publication. Heading this year's staff were Editor Tom R. Logan of Prescott, and Business Manager Joe Weisiger of Little Rock.

Most of the articles this year were devoted to the correlation of engineering and the war effort. The best seminar papers from each of the departments were again printed in the Engineers' Day edition. These papers, selected by the department heads, were prepared by Alex Weir, James Carter, Boyd Purifoy, and a joint E. E. paper prepared by Thomas Stanfield and Francis Strabala.

Many of the regular features of last year were carried over this year while many new ones were added. Engine House News Record, a two-page spread devoted to news coverage among the various engineering organizations, was written by Tom C. Wheat, junior Ch.E. Two new features introduced this year were the Dean's Page and the Hawg Waller. The Dean's Page consisted of an editorial prepared by Dean Stocker on any timely topic he might choose. The Hawg Waller, a glorified gossip column, was written by Lewis Efrem.

Due to laxity of censorship (or none at all) Cracked Retorts, renowned joke column, again came into its own. By far the most widely read section in the magazine, Cracked Retorts became increasingly more popular as time went on.

Missing this year too was the age old Editor-Business Manager feud. Screams and curses occasionally wafted down from the Union's third floor, but apparently neither Tom nor Joe suffered more than minor abrasions on such occasions. No reflection on Joe's abilities as Business Manager was the outcome of an all expense-paid trip to Lafayette, Indiana, to a national Engineering College Magazine Association convention. Evidently either Joe or Tom overshot the alloted financial aid. Result—the pair hitch-hiked from St. Louis home with enough ready cash between them for one hamburger.

Third row—Robinson, Sanders, Sims, Sisson, Strabala, Terrell, Thompson, Toler, Walker, Weisiger, Wheat, White. Wilkes. Wilson.

Key charms in the form of slide rules containing the initials A. E. were awarded the ten most outstanding men on the staff. These keys were presented at the Engineer's banquet, and went to Jimmie Brown, Fred Sims, Ray Toler, Evan King, Jim Doyle, Irwin Burks, Tom Wheat, Dee Patterson, Carlos Hendrickson, and Durbin Miller.

GUILD TICKER

The Guild Ticker, official magazine of the College of Business Administration, is published twice each year by an all-student staff. Kenneth Theis, senior, who took over the editorship second semester of last year, had the position again this year and handled the job like a veteran. Jim Stackable, senior from Fort Smith, was business manager, and he did a fine job of securing money for the expense of the magazine.

The first issue, sporting a green cover, came off the press in January and was largely devoted to the effect the world conflict has had upon various economic subjects. These articles concerned such topics as: "Women at War," "America's Rubber Problem," and "The 1942 Revenue Bill." An article from Dean Karl M. Scott told how the University of Arkansas business school was revising its curricula to meet the increasing need for trained men and women in industry and in the armed services. There was also an article praising four outstanding business students: Harry Shipley, Jim Stackable, Walter Morris, and Kirby Lee Hill. This year the magazine broke an old Ticker tradition by publishing a joke page in the first issue entitled "Ticker Ticklers." Johnny Gage received all the blame, or credit, for this feature. Only criticism heard on the page was that it carried too many "nice" jokes.

Chief assistance for Editor Theis in trying to make something readable of the articles turned in came from Bill Hunt and Billy Phillips. Major worry during the year was wondering when most of the staff would be called to the army, leaving navy-men Theis and Stackable to do their own work for a change. Keeping a check on the radical ideas that pop up among the staff from time to time is the faculty advisory board composed of Dr. George E. Hunsberger, Dr. Pearce C. Kelley, and Rutledge Vining, all of the business school.

First row—Bowden, Carroll, Gage, Hughey, Hunt, McCollum, McGill, Massey, Phillips, Purifoy.
Second row—Puryear, Robinson, Scurlock, Shipley, Stackable, Stinner, Theis, Thomas, Walter, Webb, Vise.

Business Manager Stackable generaled his staff of demon ad-salesmen with huge success. Winston Purifoy and Charles Massey talked the local merchants into submission while Guilford Webb waged a correspondence campaign with national advertisers. Ticker keys were awarded for the first time in several years to the hardest working staff members. Students receiving keys were the Editor and Business Manager, Billy Phillips, Bill Hunt, Louie Walter, Guilford Webb, and Winston Purifoy.

The blue-covered second issue of the Ticker, distributed on Commerce Day, featured the who's who of senior students. The editor and business manager, chosen by outgoing officers, the Commerce Guild Executive Council, and the faculty committee, had not been selected for the coming year, but would likely be girls due to the shortage of men among the students.

HONORARY ORGANIZATIONS

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

First row—Cook, Davidson, Foreman, Graham, Gray, Greer, Henderson, Hallenbeck.

Second row—Kanis, Kramer, MacChesney, McCollum, Miller, Moore, Nichols, Oliver.

Third row—Pattillo, Roberts, Spies, Stockley, Taylor, Werthiem, Wright, Yarrington.

This spring Alpha Lambda Delta culminates the first year of its existence on this campus. The local chapter was installed through the efforts of Dean Scudder in the interests of promoting high scholastic attainment among freshman women students.

Alpha Lambda Delta is a national fraternity having forty-seven chapters in twenty-seven states. The society was founded at the University of Illinois in 1924, and two years later when the second chapter was installed at Purdue University, it became a national organization.

The group is a sister fraternity to Phi Eta Sigma. Freshman women who make a five-point grade average in either semester of their first year are eligible to membership.

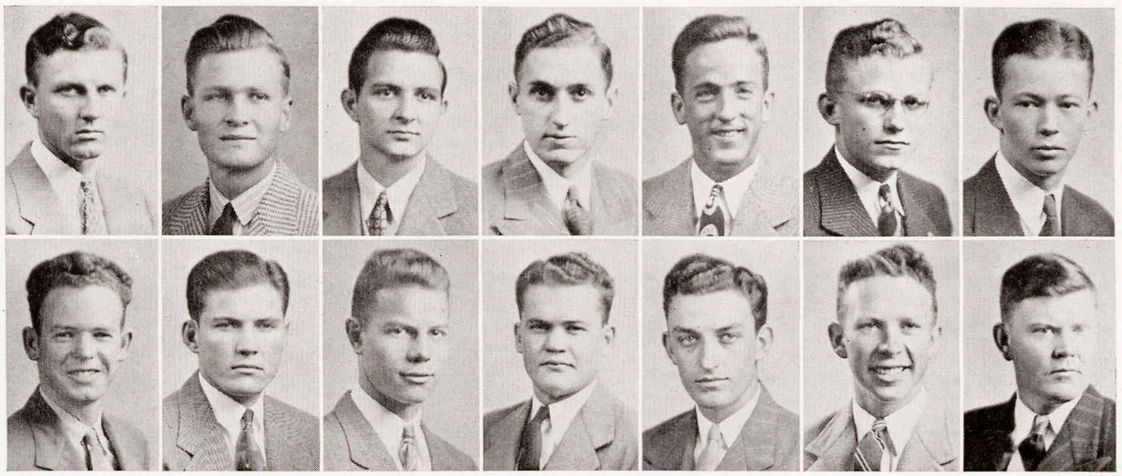
ALPHA ZETA



First row—Bauer, Bishop, Dyess, Ferguson, Howington, Hudson, Hubbard.

Second row—Lancaster, Lloyd, Lynd, McCollum, Smith, Spitze, Stallcup.

Twice a year figures in sad dilapidated overalls, decorated with flashy bandana hankies, and carrying foreboding looking paddles, baskets of luscious apples, and shoe shine equipment, darken the UA campus. These specimens are the Alpha Zeta neophytes, and they are kept busy during their week of pledging by presenting apples to the members' favorite ladies, polishing their naturally already spotless saddles, and performing numerous other niceties.

At the Dutch Feed and annual banquet the Alpha Zetas entertain their dates and faculty members who are also in the honorary agriculture scholastic fraternity, and entertain themselves at their annual smoker, which is a general get-together for all the male students in the college of Agriculture.

Composed of upper classmen in the upper two-fifths of their class, the organization promotes the agriculture profession, and develops and fosters high standards of scholarship.

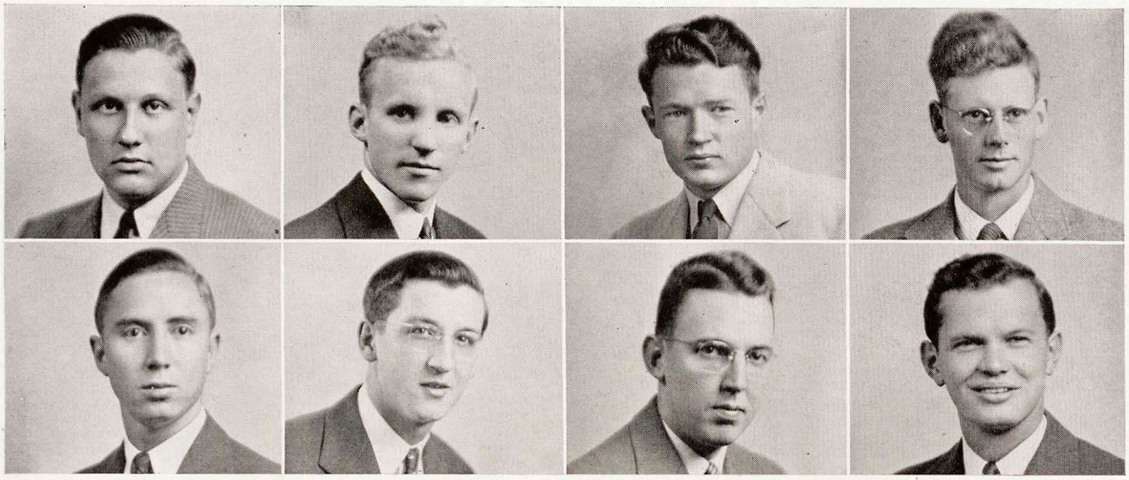
BETA GAMMA SIGMA



Blass, Bridgeman, Miles, Moore.

Morris, Rice, Rogers, Shipley.

Beta Gamma Sigma, the Phi Beta Kappa of the Business School, is the end-all and be-all of the school.

Members are usually seniors, chosen from the upper ten per cent of the class. This year two of those chosen, Gus Blass and Thomas Bridgeman, were members of the junior class. This is the first time in many years that any juniors have been elected to membership in the organization.

Other new members were Walter Miles, Walter Morris, Charles Rice, Lewis Moore, and Harry Shipley, seniors, and Margaret Backman, a graduate student. John Rogers is the only hold over member from last year.

Until this year a prominent business man of the state has been chosen to be an honorary member of Arkansas Alpha. Honorary members from other years include C. F. Byrnes, James Penick, Marion Wasson, Louis Albert Watkins, Benjamin Wooten, and the late Harvey C. Couch, and the late Dr. J. C. Futrall.

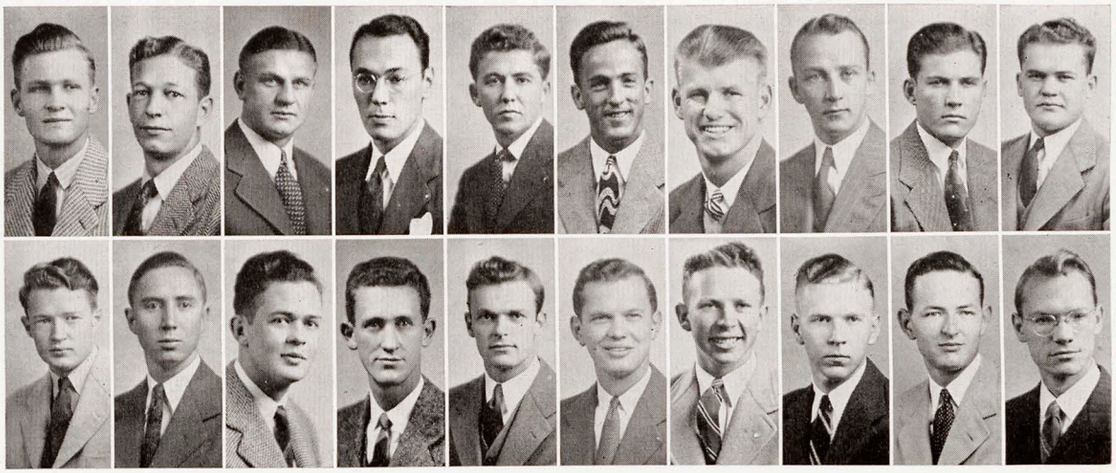
BLUE KEY



First row—Bishop, Brown, Cialone, Duncan, Hill, Howington, Jones, Lewis, Lloyd, McCollum.

Second row—Miles, Morris, Penix, Purifoy, Rutledge, Shipley, Spitze, Trawick, Trimble, West.

A man displaying the Blue Key has to be a leader. Leadership is the prime prerequisite for membership in Blue Key, honorary fraternity for men. It is an organization for recognizing achievement and requires a grade point higher than the average for men. Membership is limited to thirty-five.

Every other Sunday night the Arkansas chapter meets at the Washington hotel for dinner and a discussion. Some of the discussions this year have been on "Post War Economics," "How the University Operates," and "What's Wrong with Freshman English."

Dean J. C. Jordan, national president of Blue Key, is sponsor of the local chapter, which joined the national organization in 1929. It had existed previously as The Marble Arch, being founded by Dr. Jordan in 1924.

Pledges are taken each semester. Mortar Board women are guests at a Blue Key dinner each year.

KAPPA DELTA PI

First row—Allen, Barnes, Dildy, Hays, Hill, Hurst, Jones, Moore, Pate, Phelps.

Second row—Roberts, Sisson, Stover, Stroud, Swearingen, Taylor, Wasmer, Willard, Williams, Wilson.

Future expounders of the three R's who have a cumulative four point average make up the membership of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity. Also necessary for entrance are good personal qualities and a specified number of hours in the College of Education.

Each year Kappa Delta Pi presents a scholarship award to the high-ranking junior in the College of Education.

Meetings are held each month in the Student Union, when problems of education are discussed. Founded in 1911 at the University of Illinois, Kappa Delta Pi came to this campus in 1924 when a petition was granted to the Education Club. Miss Helen Graham is sponsor of the organization.

Initiation is held at the beginning of each semester, and pledges are required to provide the program for the initiation banquet.

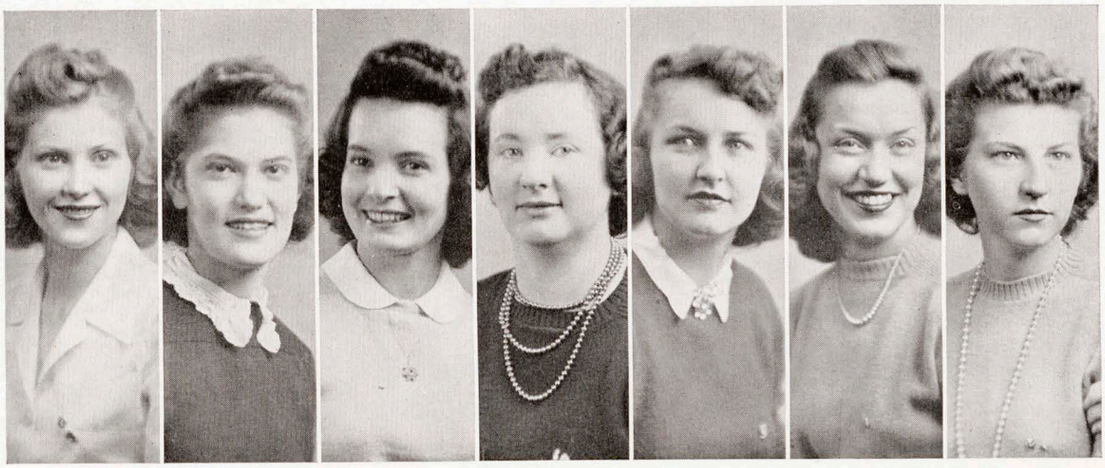
KAPPA PI



Baggett, Blair, Bollinger, Bryan, Castling, Sherman, Smith.

An organization of would-be Michelangelos and da Vincis was founded here three years ago for the future painters and sculptors in the university. Organized under the name Brush and Palette, in 1941 the society became the Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Pi, honorary art fraternity founded in 1919.

A new project this year is an exhibit and sale of the work of members, which includes craftwork, work in clay, novelties, and jewelry. At Christmas Kappa Pi sold block print Christmas cards made by the members. In the spring it sponsors an exhibition of student work and offers prizes for the best entries.

Pledges, taken each semester, must have four semesters of art or the equivalent in an art school, at least one semester at the university, and a 3.5 grade in art with a three point in all other work. Ralph Hudson is sponsor.

Dale Nichols, designer of tuberculosis Christmas seals, and Helen Finger, resident of Fayetteville, who illustrates children's books, are honorary members.

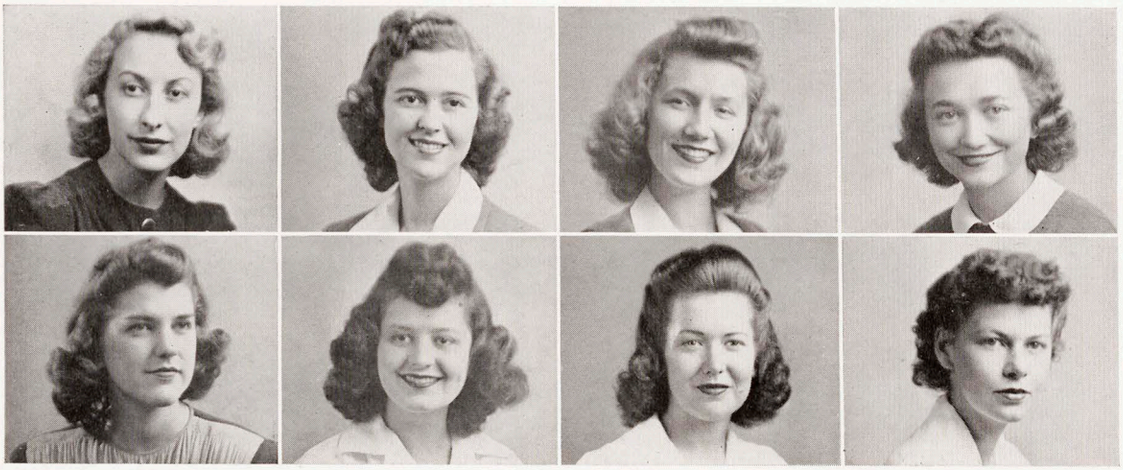
LAMBDA TAU



First row—Brooks, Gray, Hooper, Kramer.

Second row—MacChesney, McCollum, Patillo, Tidwell.

Lambda Tau, an honorary literary society for aspiring young authoresses, has its only remaining chapter on this campus. Founded at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio, Lambda Tau was organized here in 1913 by Miss Jobelle Holcombe, present sponsor. The Arkansas chapter is the only active one left.

Each spring Lambda Tau holds a contest in some field of literary writing, offering cash prizes. The contest this year is short story writing. Last year a poetry contest was held, in which Max Quertermous won first place with his poem, "Two Songs." Betty Jane Brooks was second with "Once in a Dream."

Limited to fifteen, membership in Lambda Tau requires a four point average in English courses and a three point average in other work; also, the applicant must have sufficient literary interest and must have proved herself worthy. Pledges must present original literary compositions at the initiation banquet in the spring. Rosa Marinoni, Fayetteville poetess, is an honorary member.

Mortar Board went all out for the war effort this year. Each girl pledged three hours of war work weekly, either in the Red Cross classes or in the surgical dressing rooms.

Early in the fall the members met at the home of Dean Jeanette Scudder and held a discussion on "Women in the War." A twenty-five dollar War Bond was the prize they awarded to the freshman woman with the highest grade point. Thoma Kanis received the award this year. Mortar Board members hope to make the award an annual project.

Mortar Board gave a helping hand in orientating transfer women in the fall, and published a guidebook, "Co-ed's Code," for all new women students. They helped with the party for freshman and transfer women at the beginning of the year, and continued to sponsor the Sophomore Council.

OMICRON DELTA

First row—Barlow, Bourne, Castling, Edwards, Horne, Jones, Kice, McBride.

Second row—Moore, Pate, Smith, Swearingen, Taylor, Thorne, Wilson.

To "go national" has long been the hope of Omicron Delta, and it was realized this year when, in April, it became affiiliated with Phi Epsilon Omicron, national honorary home-ec society, becoming the Alpha Gamma chapter.

Sixteen junior and senior braintrusts in home-ec who have exceptional leadership abilities, outstanding personalities, and an interest in home-ec professionally, are the members.

Social activities included a tea and party for the freshmen and transfers which they, with the Home Ec Club, sponsored.

Every year Omicron Delta gives an award to the freshman making the highest grade point. Last year the winner was Caroline Roberts and this year Martha Lou Foreman.

Mrs. Warren Gifford is the fraternity sponsor.

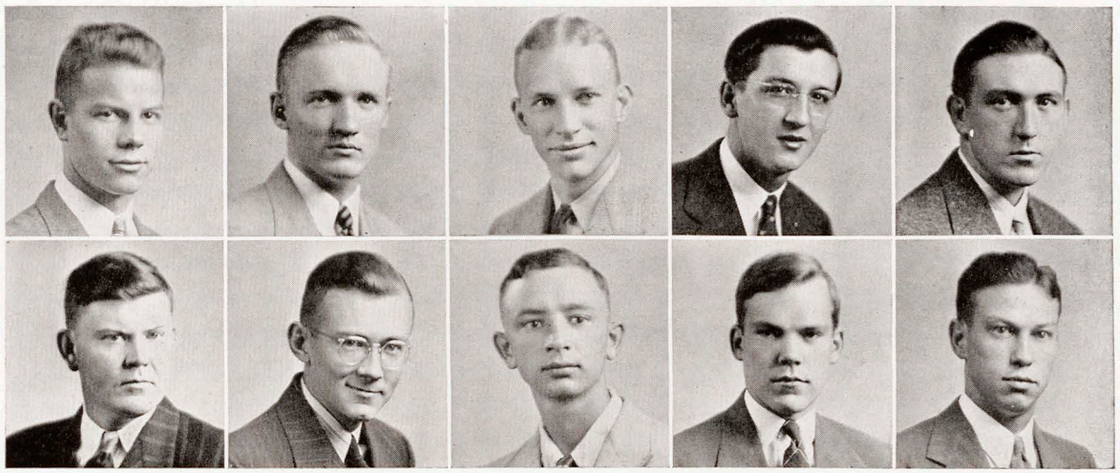
OMICRON DELTA KAPPA



First row—Lynd, McCrary, Orton, Rice, Romans.

Second row—Stallcup, Stanfield, Strabala, Theis, Walter.

With important positions such as Traveler or RAZORBACK editor counting only three points, it takes a "big man on the campus" to accumulate the 15–20 points in activities necessary for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa. Points are given on the basis of scholastic ability as well as for achievements in religious, journalistic, cultural, and athletic fields. Membership is limited to juniors and seniors. Initiation is held each semester with fall and spring banquets.

Among the 18 student and 10 faculty members of ODK there are members of Phi Beta Kappa, Tau Beta Pi, Alpha Kappa Psi, Alpha Zeta, and similar honorary organizations. Annually they award a graduate scholarship to one of their members.

The ODK's still advertise their barbecue pit southeast of Razorback stadium as "the best place on the campus to have a picnic."

The original leadership fraternity, ODK was founded at Washington and Lee university in 1914, and was organized here four years ago.

Navy, and Judge Minor Millwee of DeQueen. Recently appointed to the United States Supreme Court is Judge Rutledge, a Phi Alpha Delta member.

Membership is restricted to law students making a grade point of three for the first semester, and maintaining a high scholastic rating while a law student. The purpose of the organization is to advance the best interests of the Law School.

Harry Boise was presented a copy of Dr. Robert Leflar's book "The Arkansas Law of Conflicts of Law" for being the top ranking freshman student in a contest sponsored by the group. Social functions included a dinner at Tontitown in February.

Phi Alpha Theta, national honorary history fraternity, celebrated its 22nd birthday March 14, 1943. The fraternity was founded on this campus in 1921, and has since expanded to include chapters all over the country. The Founders' Day Banquet, which was held at the Mountain Inn this year, is always an especially important occasion for the Arkansas chapter, since it is the Alpha chapter.

Three faculty members, Dr. W. C. Askew, Dr. Dorsey D. Jones, and Dr. A. L. Venable, joined Phi Alpha Theta during the first semester thus bringing the entire history faculty into the fraternity. Dr. F. H. Harrington was already a member. An article by Dr. Jones was featured in the fall issue of The Historian, national fraternity publication. Phi Alpha Theta has full membership in the newly organized Council of Honor Societies. Round table discussions featured the programs throughout the year.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Twice each year super-intelligent students in the College of Arts and Sciences are presented with the coveted Phi Beta Kappa key for their outstanding character, attainments, and grade points.

The minimum grade point average for a prospective member is a four point, but it seldom runs lower than a four point five.

In the fall of this year, four students were selected for Phi Beta Kappa. They were Elizabeth Jessup Bilheimer, Katherine P. Brumfield, Reba Gray, and Helen Tidwell. Freeland Romans, who was elected to membership last year, was still in school this year.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded at the College of William and Mary on December 5, 1776, and was installed at the University of Arkansas on April 4, 1932, when the Alpha chapter was founded.

Founded for a single purpose, Phi Eta Sigma, honorary fraternity for freshman men, at the beginning of each school year urges incoming freshmen to start their college life right by doing their best from the very beginning.

Phi Eta Sigma has a single requirement: a five point average for the first semester or a five point average for the year. But only ten or twelve each year make the grade.

To contact the better students personally, at the first of the year Phi Eta Sigma entertains the forty boys who placed highest on the psychology tests with an informal party. Initiation is held at the beginning of the second semester, and if necessary at the beginning of the fall semester. The national organization offers a first year graduate scholarship to its members each year in national competition.

Founded in 1923 at the University of Illinois, Phi Eta Sigma was organized here in 1931 by the late Dean G. E. Ripley, and is now sponsored by Dean Allan S. Humphreys.

If it is mathematicians with plenty of gray matter and who "know what the score is" that Uncle Sam wants, he will certainly find good material among Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics organization. Requirements are a four point average in all math courses, a three point in all other subjects, and members must have had a course in integral calculus. (And that ain't hay.) At the beginning of the year a list of all members, both past and present, was sent to the National Roster of Scientific Personal at their request.

Initiation is held twice a year, at the beginning of each semester, at one of the hotels. A banquet always follows the initiation ceremony. Other social functions include a picnic in the spring.

The local chapter was organized in 1931. Sponsor of the organization is Dr. V. W. Adkisson, professor of mathematics.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

First row — Brigance, Dickson, Farmer, Garrett, Hercus.

Second row— Johnson, Ledford, Nelson, Russell, Taylor.

Sigma Omicron chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota contributed its small part in the present war effort through its national and chapter Victory Program, the sale of defense bonds and stamps at Student Affairs concerts, and individual participation.

To become a member of this national professional music fraternity, a girl must show exceptional musical ability, be a major or minor in music, and possess a high scholastic rating. The organization was this year admitted to the Honors Council on the campus.

Activities for this year included one musical each month, several socials, an Incorporation Day banquet on December 1, and a dinner honoring Miss Annelle Chandler, Zeta Province President from Tulsa, Oklahoma, during her April visit. A vacant room in the music building was also fixed up for a regular chapter room. Member Frances Brigance, contralto, won the Henry Tovey Memorial Award of a hundred dollar scholarship presented by the Arkansas Music Association each year.

SOPHOMORE COUNCIL

First row — Blair, Dietterich, Dumph, Foreman, Hathcoat, Henry, High, Hill, Houston, Huxtable.

Second row—Jarvis, Johnson, Kanis, McCollum, McNair, Moore, Pattillo, Spies, Wertheim, Wilson.

The purpose of the Sophomore Council is to help freshman girls to solve their scholastic, social, and personal problems while away from home. Over cokes in the Union, councilers welcome their freshmen to the University and give out with the ole advice about studying, dress, etc.

Late in October Mortar Board and Sophomore Council entertained freshman girls and transfers at a Hallowe'en party in the Student Union ball room. Honorees put on paper-sack hats, played games, and bobbed for apples. Thoma Kanis was presented a $25 defense bond for having made the highest grade point in last year's freshman class. Reba Gray, President of Mortar Board, made the award.

Freshman girls are appointed to Sophomore Council each spring at the annual AWS Banquet. They are selected by Mortar Board on the basis of leadership, character, and a high scholastic average. Dean Scudder is sponsor of the organization.

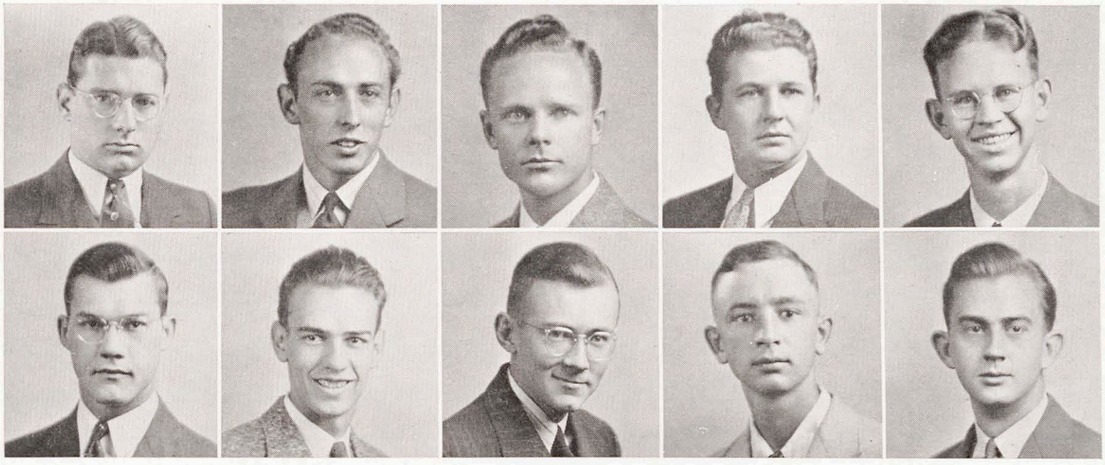
TAU BETA PI



First row—Bragg, Bryant, Dougherty, Hicks, Maupin.

Second row—Oxford, Smith, Stanfield, Strabala, Thompson.

Twice a year a carefully selected group of outstanding junior and senior engineering students are initiated into Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity. Requirements are stiff. To become a member a person must be a male student enrolled in a regular engineering course. He must have attended the university one year and must be a junior in the upper eighth of his class or a senior in the upper fifth of his class.

Other requirements include writing a 500 word theme and passing a 12 hour written examination. A walnut "bent" or key with seven Greek letters inlaid in white maple (with dimensions correct to one thirty second of an inch) must also be made.

Each year Tau Beta Pi awards a slide rule to the honor freshman engineer and a handbook to the runner-up.

FAMOUS QUOTATIONS OF GENERAL MAC ARTHUR

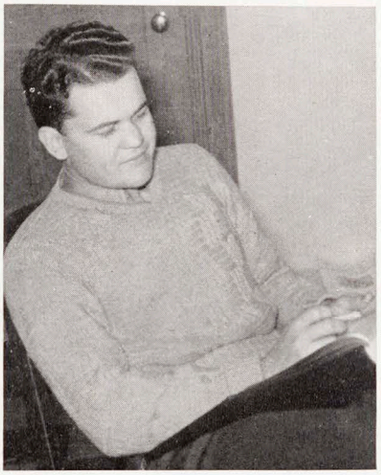
"Upon the fields of friendly strife are sown the seeds that upon other fields, in other days, will bear the fruits of victory."

"However horrible the incidents of war may be, the soldier who is called upon to offer and give his life for his country is one of the noblest developments of mankind. I do not know the dignity of his birth, but I do know the glory of his death."

"I'd get down on my hands and knees and pray . . . then I'd go out and fight like hell."

MISCELLANEOUS ORGANIZATIONS

AGRI DAY ASSOCIATION



The war made Ben's work simpler.

OFFICERS

Ben McCollum	ADA Manager
Lois Cooper	Assistant Manager
Hazel Taylor	Secretary
Braudus Ferguson	Treasurer
A. B. Bradley	Publicity Manager

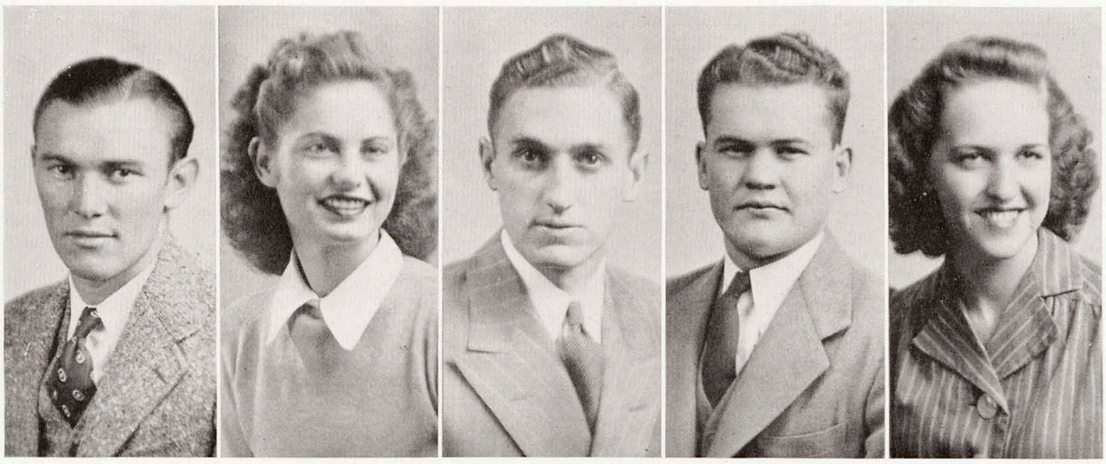
A convocation with the crowning of the queen, a picnic at the farm and a farmer's formal were the principal attractions of "Agri Day" of 1943. The activities of the day were restricted because of the war conditions.

"Agri Day" was organized twenty-eight years ago for the purpose of giving the College of Agriculture some publicity, for the uniting of the students of the College of Agriculture more completely, and for a bigger and better Agri Day. A. D. A. has been very successful in carrying out all these purposes.

In 1942, after feeling the touch of war, the students of the college thought it best to eliminate the parade from Agri Day activities for the duration. In doing this they spent more of their time and money on exhibits and the livestock show at the farm. However, this year conditions were even worse and the students felt that it would be patriotic to eliminate the exhibits as well, since they required materials essential to the war effort.

For 1943 the students of the college chose Mary Colen Ethridge as their Queen, the most beautiful in the field of candidates. Mary Colen is vice-president of Carnall Hall, publicity chairman for the B. S. U. council, secretary of Y. W. C. A., treasurer for the Home Ec. club, and president of Coterie.

AGRI DAY ASSOCIATION

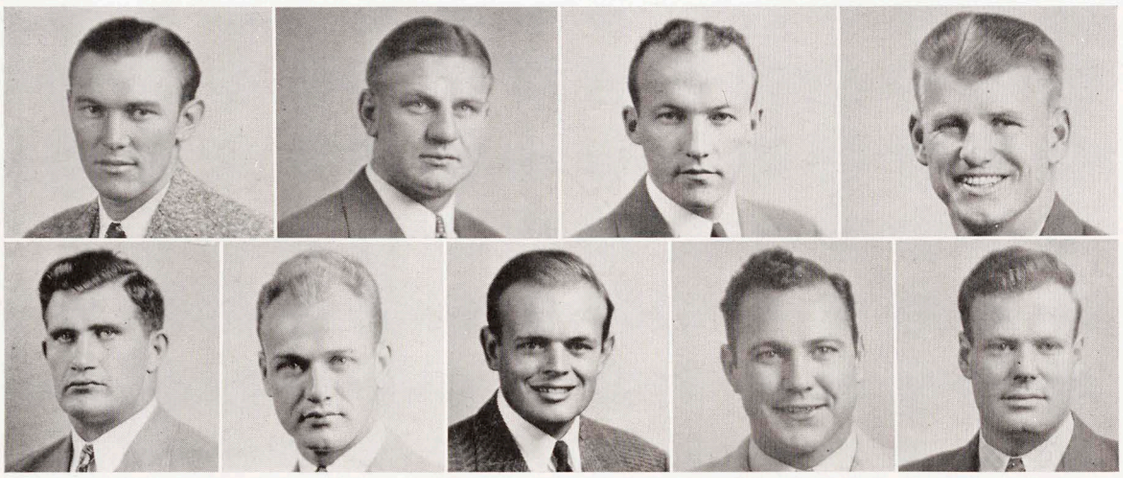


Bradley, Cooper, Ferguson, McCollum, Taylor.

The activities of the year started with the get-acquainted dance, at which the Agri's dressed in their farmer formals, overalls and gingham dresses. And of course the big day of the year was Agri Day itself. The entire day was used for the entertainment and enjoyment of all the agri students. Those in whose hands the responsibility of the activities of the day fell were: Ben McCollum, manager; Lois Cooper, assistant manager; Hazel Taylor, secretary; Braudus Ferguson, treasurer; and A. B. Bradley, publicity manager. The year's activities ended with the spring picnic.

As has been true in the years past the Agri's anxiously awaited the announcement of the college's who's who, chosen by a committee composed of three faculty members and two students. The choice for this year were: Odie Talmadge Stallcup, chancellor of Alpha Zeta and editor of the Arkansas Agriculturist; Wade Bishop, business manager of Arkansas Agriculturist and president of Men's 4-H House; Harvey Howington, president of Sigma Nu, Lt. Col. in R. O. T. C.; Ben McCollum, A. D. A. manager; Mary Noice Moore, president of A. W. S. and president of Omicron Delta; Hazel Taylor, secretary of A. D. A.; Gayle Smith, Danforth winner and vice-president of Delta Delta Delta; and Addie Barlow, vice-president of Omicron Delta.

A CLUB



The requirement for membership into the A. Club is to receive a varsity letter in any major sport . . . whether it be track, basketball, tennis, or on the gridiron, this organization is for all those who have won the red and white letter.

With only a few members, the A. Club was founded in 1922 . . . John C. Futrall, a former University president, was one of the founders of the club and ex-president W. J. Fulbright, another member. Today the membership of the club exceeds 40. The only woman ever elected to the club is Goldie Jones who is an honorary member and secretary of the department.

Every spring the A. Club holds an annual dance and old members from over the state come to watch and enter into the fun.

ARKANSAS BOOSTERS CLUB

First row—Atwood, Baldwin, Barber, Barton, Bland, Blanks, Blass, Boone, Bowden, Brannen, Branting, Brown, Carroll, Chambers, Clemmons, Denman.

Second row—Denton, Duncan, Dyess, Frazer, Freeling, Gardner, Gist, Hawkins, Hefley, Hiller, Holt, Howington, Isgrig, Ivy, Jett, D. Jones.

Third row—J. Jones, King, Lambert, Lewis, Lloyd, Metcalf, Myers, Nelson, Olsen, Pence, Petersen, Phillips, H. Prewitt, J. Prewitt, Pruitt, Purifoy.
Fourth row—Ratcliffe, Robinson, Rosen, Rye, Schreit, Shackleford, Smith, Stevenson, Stovall, Stuckey, Thomas, Vaughn, Wallace, Walter, Wilmoth, Wilson, Wood, Woods.

The Arkansas Booster Club is, in conjunction with Rootin' Rubes, the source of organized school spirit at the University. Their aim is to foster pep at all school sports events. In red and white jackets, they are the traditional "Rah-rah" boys at any game.

ABC membership is composed of a certain equal quota from each organized group of boys on the campus. The groups select their own representatives, who are put through the annual spectacular initiation, which, with girls' hats, make-up, multi-colored clothes, unmated shoes, and other grotesque accoutrements, is the most original initiation on the campus.

The cheerleaders are selected each year by ABC, and their trips to accompany the team are paid for by that group. ABC also rents the "mike" and loud speakers present at every football game to aid the cheering.

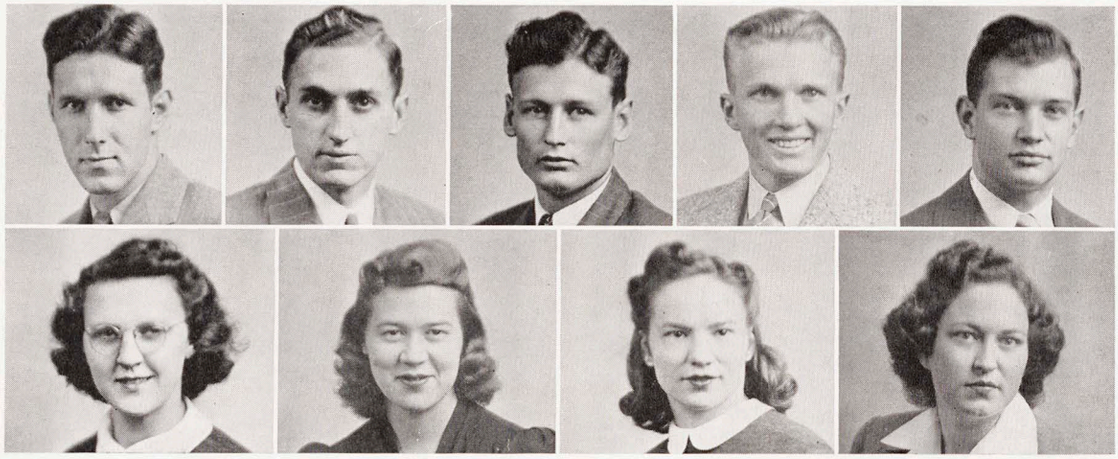
AIO



First row—Fish, Ferguson, Gallegly, Horton, Miller.

Second row—Patterson, Segraves, Starnes, Welch.

Formed two years ago for the purpose of uniting coöperative houses on the campus, the Association of Independent Organizations began its third year as a member of the National Independent Student Association, which has 50 chapters in colleges throughout the United States. Five houses were represented in AIO this year, Midway, Men's 4-H, Women's 4-H, FFA, and a newcomer, Davis Hall.

Midway's Durben Miller was elected AIO president. Each house has two representatives on the council. Dr. T. R. Hedges and Paul Hudson were faculty sponsors again this year.

AIO's third annual carnival was held last fall in the Student Union, complete with an all-evening bingo game and a contest between the houses for the best side-show. Davis Hall and Women's 4-H tied for top honors this year and received jointly the gold trophy cup, on which their names were inscribed. It seems that a new organization can start a tradition if it doesn't already have one!

Third row—Northington, Oxford, Reynolds, Rosen, Smith, Terrell, Ware, Weir, Wetzel, Wheat, Williams.

The student branch of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers is a professional organization dedicated to the advancement of chemistry and to bringing men together with similar ideals and ambitions. The local branch was founded in 1935 by Dr. Harrison Hale, and is one of the largest and most influential engineering organizations on the campus. The only requirement for membership in AIChE is enrollment as a chemical engineer.

Meeting every other Wednesday night, AIChE members were treated to talks, motion pictures, and socials throughout the year. Due to war conditions the chemicals did not take their usual inspection trip this year.

Each year the organization awards a pin to the junior chemical engineer attaining the highest scholastic standing. Tom C. Wheat won the award this year. Clifford Koger was junior representative to the Engineering Council. Faculty advisors are Dr. Hale and Mr. Jenkins.

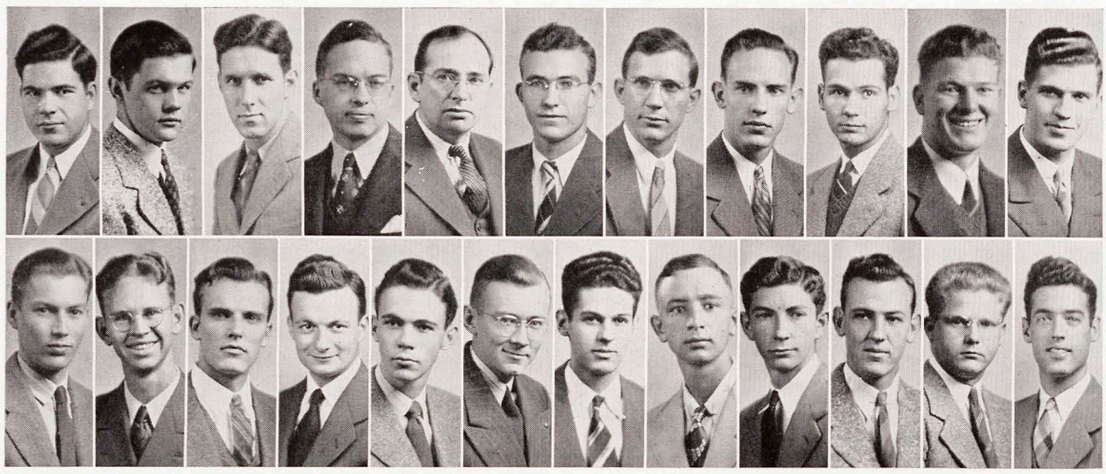
AIEE



First row — Brandon, Downer, Fish, Grant, Hawkins, Heckman, Irby, Jones, Logan, Lyle, Mallett.

The student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, like the other professional organizations on the campus, is designed to acquaint the engineer with recent developments in his particular branch of engineering and to bring him into closer contact with men who have achieved success in that field.

Meeting bi-monthly in the dynamo laboratory, AIEE members enjoyed motion pictures, talks, and socials. Late in October Mr. Mahood of Bell Telephone Co. spoke to the group. Later Francis Strabala and Thomas Stanfield gave an account of their trip to Camden, New Jersey, where they were interviewed by R. C. A. as prospective employees.

AIEE had the usual number of smokers highlighted with cider, doughnuts, jokes, and the ever popular "stogies." Due to war conditions, annual industrial inspection trips were canceled. Faculty advisors are A. S. Brown and W. B. Stelzner.

Third row—Love, Moore, B. Murphy, I. Murphy, Nelson, Segraves, Spitze, Stephens, Taylor, Tyler, Wahl, Watson, Wilson.

Though Wesley Players is sponsored by the Methodist Church, its membership includes all college students who are interested in studying and presenting religious drama. The organization has as its aim to promote an interest for the advancement of religious drama. Kappa chapter was established on Arkansas campus in 1931. The national organization was founded in 1924 by a group of Methodist students on the University of Illinois campus.

Four one-act plays were presented during the year. They were: "The Unlighted Candle," given at church service, "Snowbound," Christmas play, "Dawn in the West," China relief drive play, "The Symbol of the Cross," Easter play. The two groups of pledges also presented plays.

At the bi-monthly meetings studies in some phases of drama were given by various members of the organization.

Second row—Hicks, Hunt, Kaufman, Kern, King, Koger, Mills, Northington, Oxford, Romans, Rosen.

Third row—Rutledge, Smith, Suttle, Terrell, Thompson, Ware, Wheat, White, Whittington, Williams.

Coffee served in casseroles, salad in evaporating dishes, hamburgers fried over Bunsen burners, and bread heated in a drying oven constituted the two annual laboratory banquets held this year by Alpha Chi Sigma, professional chemistry fraternity.

The Alpha Chi Sigmas make an award of membership in the American Chemical Society each year to the outstanding senior student in chemistry or chemical engineering.

As a yearly project the Alpha Chi Sigmas sponsor a free tutoring service for chemistry students.

Alpha Chi Sigma—the local chapter was formerly called Gamma Chi—was organized in 1902 at the University of Wisconsin. The local chapter was founded by Dr. L. E. Porter, A. S. Humphreys, and Dr. Edgar Wertheim. The annual Founders' Day banquet was held on May 1 this year.

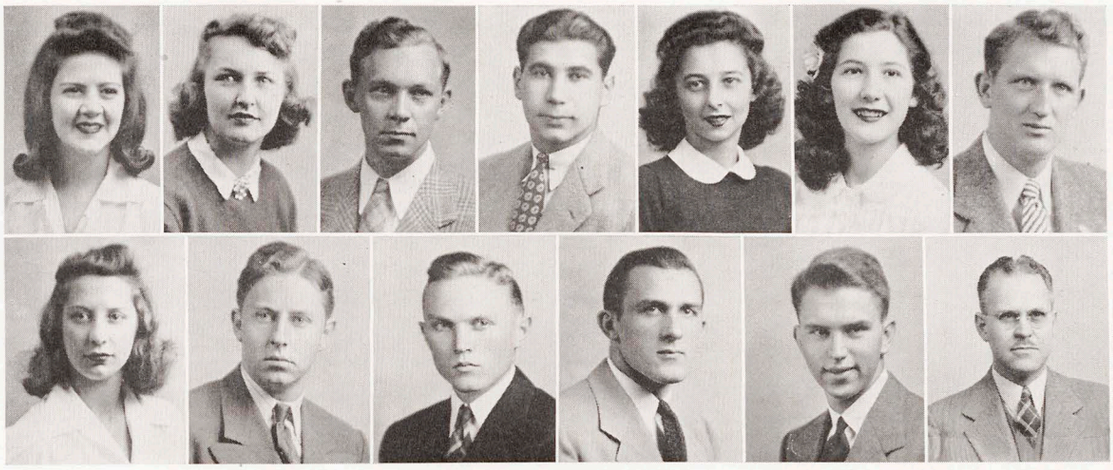
ALPHA EPSILON DELTA



First row—Ackerman, Castling, Felts, Frankenstein, Gresham, Jarvis, Myers.

Second row—Nemec, Nolen, Simpson, Walt, Watkins, Steinbach.

The war has curtailed the activities of A. E. D. very little. In November the members toured the Arkansas Medical School and saw how blood is prepared and stored for the Red Cross Blood Banks. In March the group toured the Veterans Hospital.

Although Arkansas Alpha was installed in 1938, the fraternity can already boast that Dr. W. H. Steinbach, sponsor, is National President.

The social program began with a smoker at Dr. Steinbach's home and ended with the annual picnic. Dr. Delbert Swartz spoke at the fall initiation banquet.

Pledges must have a 3 point grade average and read an original paper on a subject of medicine at one of the monthly dinners. The object of A. E. D. is to encourage excellence in pre-medical study and bridge the gap between the spirit of Pre-Medical work and that of the medical school. Character, general ability, and personality are considered carefully in the selection of each member.

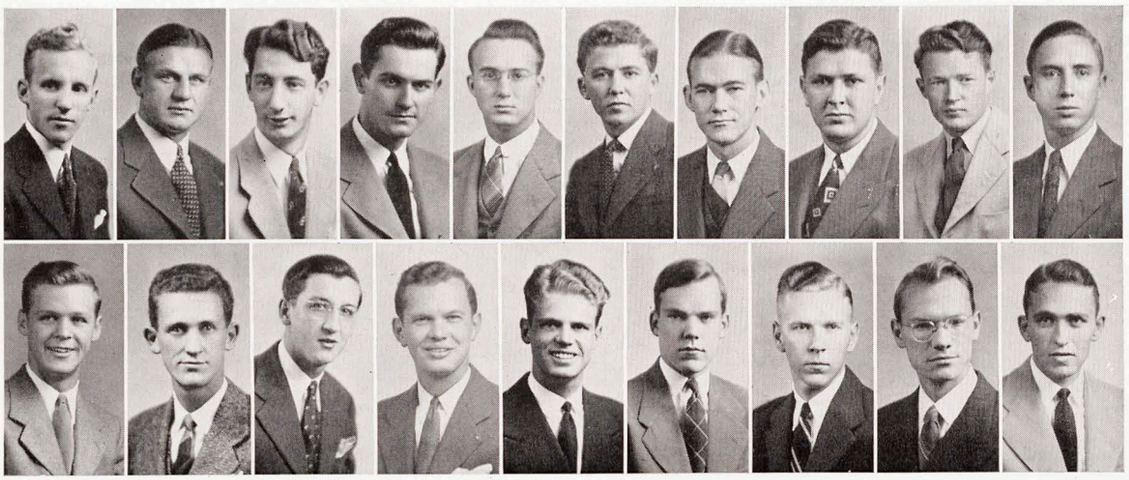
ALPHA KAPPA PSI



First row—Bridgeman, Cialone, Clay, Curl, Gage, Hill, Hunt, Lewis, Miles, Morris.

Second row—Phillips, Purifoy, Rice, Shipley, Stackable, Theis, Trawick, West, Williams.

Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, is composed of students in the College of Business Administration who make at least average grades, and who are active in business and professional interests. The organization was quite fortunate this year in having so many capable officers. Harry Shipley presided as president while Tom Trawick was vice-president; Glynn Hill, secretary; and Billy Phillips, treasurer.

Beta Zeta, Arkansas' chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, was installed November 10, 1928, and has grown until today it is one of the leading chapters in the United States. Every school year, Beta Zeta Chapter sponsors some survey or research work in the field of Commerce, and its findings prove to be a great benefit to its members and to the School of Business Administration as a whole. The members enjoy lectures by various faculty members of the University and by guest speakers. They sponsor several smokers a year and hold many discussion circles on important problems of the American Businessman.

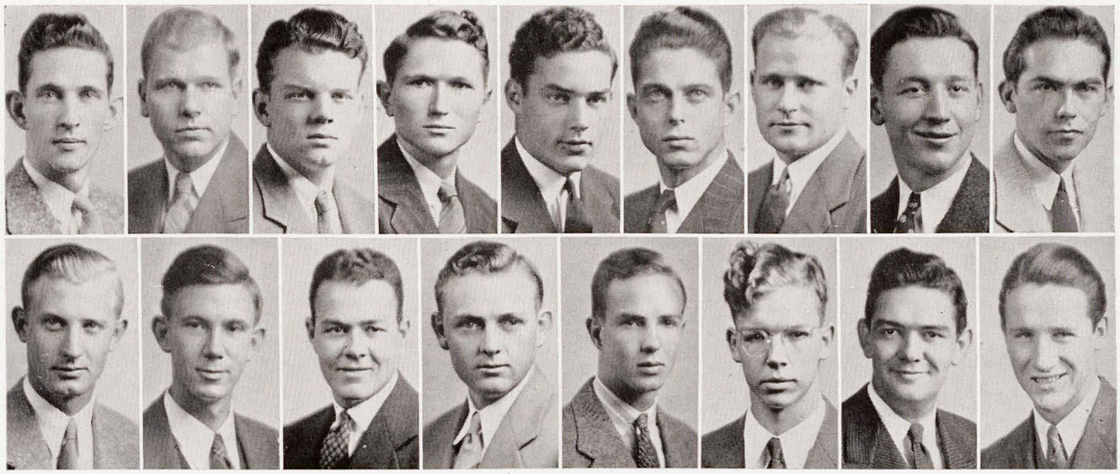
ASCE



First row — Allison, Bruton, Buchanan, Carter, Cook, Frauenthal, Gregory, Johnson, Leggett.

Second row— Leth, Oates, G. Smith, N. Smith, Walker, Warrick, Whitthorne, Wilkinson.

The American Society of Civil Engineers, meeting every other Wednesday night, has enjoyed a very productive year. Due to the hour credit allowed its members, the meetings were well-attended.

Some of the interesting speeches, resulting from research on seminar papers, were "Construction of Airport Runways," by Robert Oats; "Aerial Photography," by James Carter; and "Alaskan Canadian Highways," by Burton Walker. In addition to the regular seminar talks, talks on news of current interest were also presented.

ASCE was also privileged in having a number of guest speakers throughout the year. Among these were Mr. A. L. Saunders of the U. S. Geodetic Survey; Lt. W. S. Hardie of the Military Department; and Billy Dunkle, ASCE '41, a former member of the student chapter.

Faculty advisors are Mr. R. C. Wray and Mr. W. R. Spencer.

ASME

First row—Adams, Bacher, Berry, Callaway, Dodson, Dougherty, Duncan, Grant, Hendrickson, Hester, Holmes, Hutcheson, Jacks.

Second row—Johnson, LaDue, McDonough, Miller, Nelson, Owen, Peterson, Prater, Purifoy, Rabeneck, Sims, Tardy, Teal.

To quote the by-laws of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, its primary purpose is to —quote—"help the mechanical engineering students develop professional contacts and instincts"—unquote. Only prerequisite for membership into ASME is that of being a junior mechanical engineer.

Meetings were held twice monthly, and were highlighted by interesting speeches given by members as well as guest speakers. Early in the year Mr. Rutledge Vining of the business school talked to the group on economic results of the war.

No engineering organization is complete without an occasional smoker. ASME is no exception. Particularly successful was the December smoker held at the ECHO house. After cider, jokes of dubious character, and plain "bull" had flowed freely, the meeting was given a somewhat sobering touch by two talks —"Binary Cycles in Steam Turbines," by E. S. Hutchison, and "Fluid Drive," by Garnet Rabeneck. Mr. Paddock is the faculty sponsor.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

First row—Barnes, Brewer, Ethridge, Fish, Gardner, Glenn, Harris.

Second row—Hudson, Johnson, Sellers, Sisson, Thomas, Wells, Whiteside.

The purpose of the Baptist Student Union is to direct the religious activities of Baptists on the campus. Two social activities were sponsored before the fall registration. Last May, a banquet was given to install new council members, and just before the opening of school, a retreat was held at White Rock with Miss Mary Nance Daniels, a southwide worker, as director.

Among the other social events the spotlight hits the formal receptions, one each semester, for new students, the annual Thanksgiving breakfast, with Dr. Harrison Hale speaker, various picnics, skating parties, and not-to-be-forgotten fellowships every Sunday night after the evening services. Besides the weekly meetings of the council, the members took part in weekly campus devotions and daily Morning Watches for Baptists, all under the capable leadership of President William Fish.

Boots and Spur, an organization for women interested in horsemanship, was organized on the University of Arkansas campus in 1938. The membership has grown from only a small group of women to the largest in the club's history this year. Under the guidance of the sponsor, Mrs. Joy Markam, Boots and Spur has created interest in horsemanship to a great degree.

The requirements for membership in the organization consist of attaining a certain degree of excellence in riding, determined by Mrs. Markam, and a majority vote of the members.

In the fall, Boots and Spur entertained with a steak supper for the new members and their dates at the home of Mrs. Markam. Another social function was a spaghetti supper after initiation. A moonlight ride is a highlight of the spring semester to which all members look forward with delight.

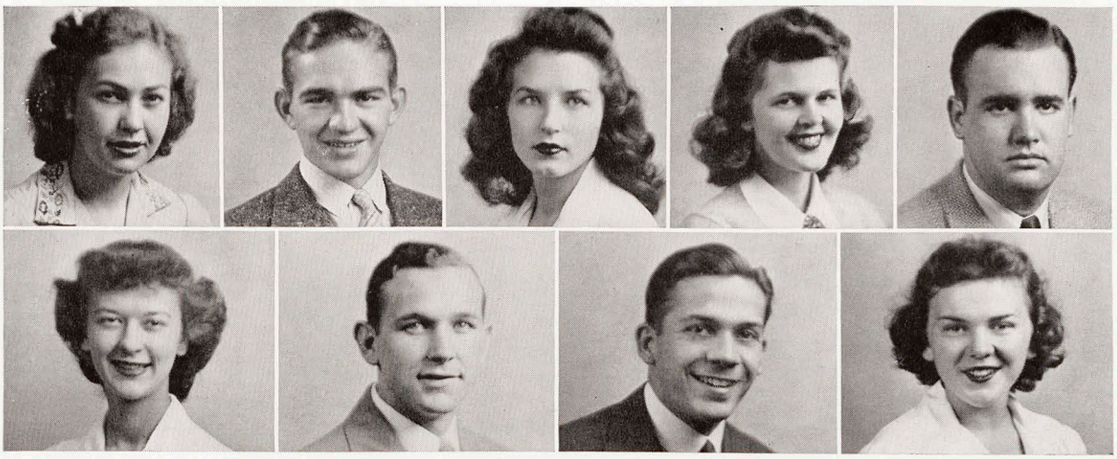
BRANNER GEOLOGY CLUB



First row—Barton, Brannen, Bryant, Burke, Cook.

Second row—Dorris, Hamilton, Murphy, Sedwick.

The Branner Geology Club is both a social and educational organization. At the monthly meetings, the aspiring young geologists discuss everything from rock formations to politics, often digressing upon the subject of blondes.

At each meeting two or more papers are given on subjects pertaining to geology. Members then carry on the discussion, led by the sponsor, Dr. V. G. Sleight, and the faculty members, Dr. Giles and Dr. Tansey.

The club was formed in 1925 and was named in honor of John C. Branner, who was former state geologist for Arkansas.

Since it is a selective organization, only majors and minors in geology are eligible for membership. Formerly a strictly male society, several girls have been asked to join in the past few years.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN MEN'S CLASS

Now in its twenty-fifth year, the University Men's Bible Class has become one of the largest Sunday school classes in the state. In the fall the University Women's class was reorganized and now both the men's and women's classes meet jointly at the Central Presbyterian Church. With the new enrollment of the girls the average attendance reached an all-time high of 129 during the fall semester.

Plaques were won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the fall for having the most students at the class for any one Sunday and for having the highest total number of points. Alpha Gamma Rho received a plaque for having the best percentage of members attending the class. Dr. Harrison Hale, who founded the class in 1918, is the present teacher.

CHEER LEADERS

First row—Thomas, Coldron, Pitcock, Atherton, Weis, Barber.

Second row—Wilmoth, Toland, Atkinson, Lanahan, Lee, Ivy.

"Come on, now, let's call the Hogs"— the mournful plea of the cheerleaders — was heard throughout the year. Whether on the home front, in Little Rock, Tulsa, or Memphis representatives of the squad could be seen trying to pull yells out of the throats of the student body, tooth and toe-nail. Few, besides those who have tried it, know what a hopeless and thankless task cheerleading is.

At the first of the year there was a full squad of fourteen boys and girls jumping around, but as in every organization on the campus, the males were drawn off by Uncle Sam, leaving at the end of the basketball season practically an all girl group. However, judging from the whistles that arose from the stands the remaining males didn't mind too much.

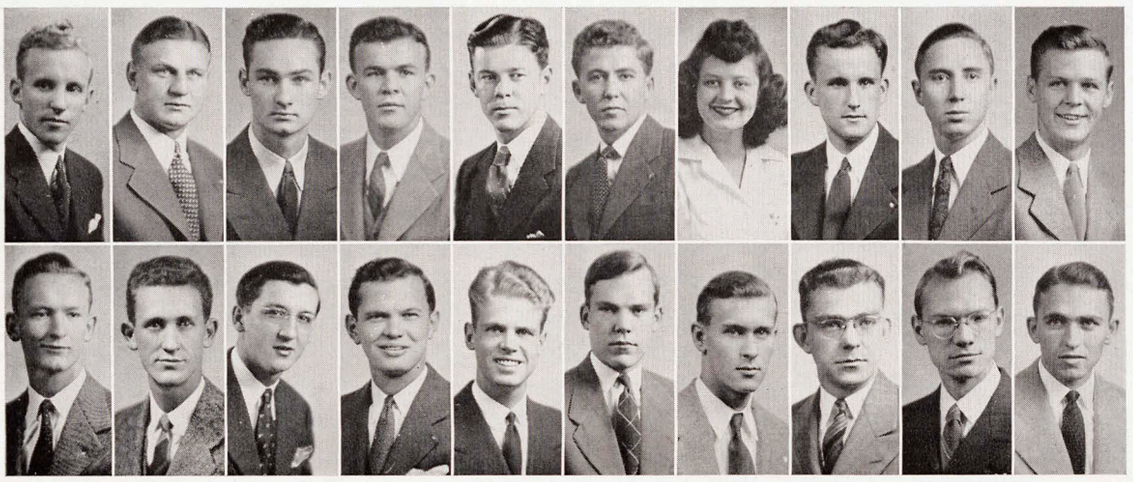
COMMERCE GUILD



First row — Bridgeman, Cialone, Crawford, Gaines, Gardner, Hill, McCollum, Massey, Morris, Phillips.

Second row — P. Purifoy, W. Purifoy, Rice, Shipley, Stackable, Theis, Thorpe, Webb, West, Williams.

Outstanding in the activities of the Commerce Guild was the dance sponsored by the Guild in January. At the dance Betty Joe Vise reigned as queen, winning the election after a heated campaign.

President Walter Morris headed the Guild this year and was assisted by Harry Shipley, Jr., as vice-president; Felice Cialone, secretary; and Richard Lee, treasurer.

The Commerce Guild is an organization of all students enrolled in the College of Business Administration. Membership in the group is voluntary, but each year the members compose a large proportion of the school's enrollment. The Guild sponsors the Annual Commerce Day festivities, made up of the Commerce Guild dance, banquet and speaker, and then the crowning of the Queen of the Commerce School.

COTERIE

First row — Aldridge, Barnes, Bennett, Bollinger, Brown, Crum, J. Edwards, V. Edwards, Etheridge, Evans, Foreman.

Second row—Harrison, High, Johnston, Jordan, King, Segraves, Smith, Swearingen, Thorne, Torrans, Welch, Wilson.

Coterie is a social organization for outstanding non-affiliated women on the campus. The local organization was founded on this campus in 1939 by eight girls. Coterie has now reached its full limit of thirty members.

Under the direction of Mary Colen Etheridge, president, and Mrs. J. R. Tatum, sponsor, Coterie has met once each week this year, and has planned parties, picnics, and other socials. Besides their meeting each week, members of Coterie try to have one outstanding social each month.

Special activities this year have included their Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Valentine parties. For Valentine they had a vice-versa in the Union game room. During the year they have had two picnics, and in May they had their annual banquet. Once a month they attend church in a body. Again this year Coterie sponsored a dancing class every Friday afternoon in the Union.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL

Biggest Engineer BMOC Thompson finds time to dance.

OFFICERS

Sam Thompson	President
Dee Patterson	Vice-President
Nolan Allison	Secretary
Gene Leggett	Treasurer

The Engineering Council reigns as the chief governing body of the College of Engineering, with its prime duty the planning and executing of Engineers' Day. The fifteen-man Council is composed of: two representatives from each engineering department, the editor-in-chief and the business manager of the Engineer, the Engineering representative to the Student Senate, and four members from the College at large.

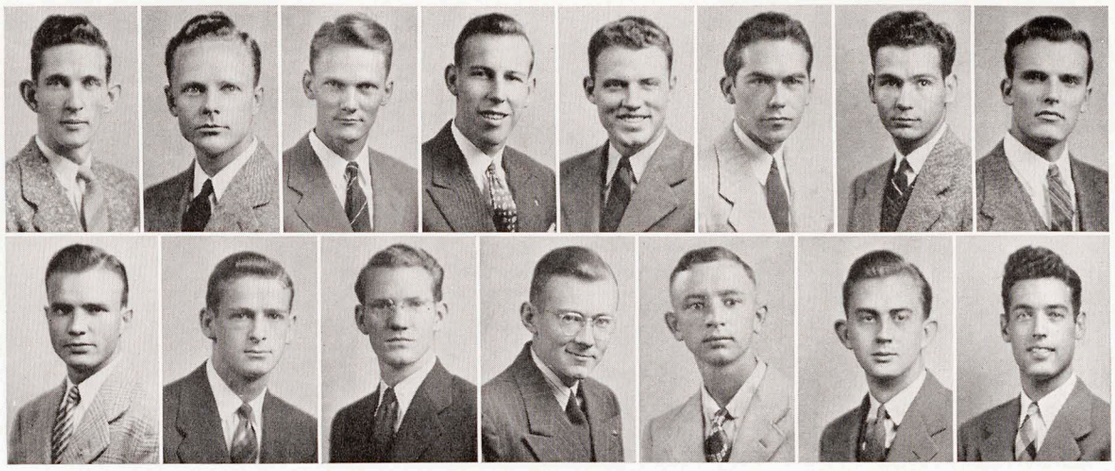
With a record Engineering enrollment and little organized resistance, the slide-rule boys found themselves blitzed by no one but the watch dog of the University treasury, and celebrated Engineers' Day in the usual successful manner.

Festivities began on March 18 with a banquet at the Washington Hotel, where members of the Engineer staff received keys for their work. The torchlight parade and bonfire gave way this year to "Facts and Fatalities," a quiz show modeled after "Truth or Consequences," with war stamps being given as prizes. Other events at this time included the announcement of the Engineering royalty and the settlement of the beard question. Joe Weisiger from the ECHO House was revealed as St. Patrick, and Sara Housley, Pi Beta Phi, was proclaimed as St. Patricia. "Hirsute Hiram" Brandon was judged as possessing the longest and thickest beard by the candidates for St. Patricia, and kissed the queen as his well-earned reward.

After the quiz show, the Engineers painted the campus green with shamrocks, raised their shamrock banners above most of the buildings on the campus, sang below sorority windows. During these activities, certain resolute individuals, apparently Aggies barricaded themselves in the Agri Building and kept a lonely vigil throughout the night, but the Engine boys did not attack. The Aggies only kept themselves from classes until noon of the following day when all the doors became jammed.

On Friday, official Engineers' Day, the men emerged from behind their beards, ate breakfast together in the Student Union, and received the special edition of the Engineer.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL



First row — Allison, Dougherty, Hendrickson, Hunton, Koger, Leggett, Logan, Patterson.

Second row— Rabeneck, Rosen, Sanders, Stanfield, Strabala, Thompson, Weisiger.

St. Pat Weisiger and Queen Housley led the procession of graduating seniors to convocation at ten o'clock. Following the traditional rites of the Engineers, each graduating senior was knighted by St. Patrick and kissed the Blarney Stone. Maj. General E. L. Compere, chairman of the State Selective Service, spoke to the Engineers at the convocation on the subject of the engineer's place in the war effort, and emphasized the importance of technicians remaining employed within their own professions.

Friday afternoon the Engineers and their dates attended the Uark. The annual ball climaxed the celebration. Here Saints Patrick and Patricia reigned, and the Knights of St. Pat and their dates led the grand march.

The celebration of Engineers' Day has become a nation-wide campus event, since the first celebration at Missouri University in 1903.

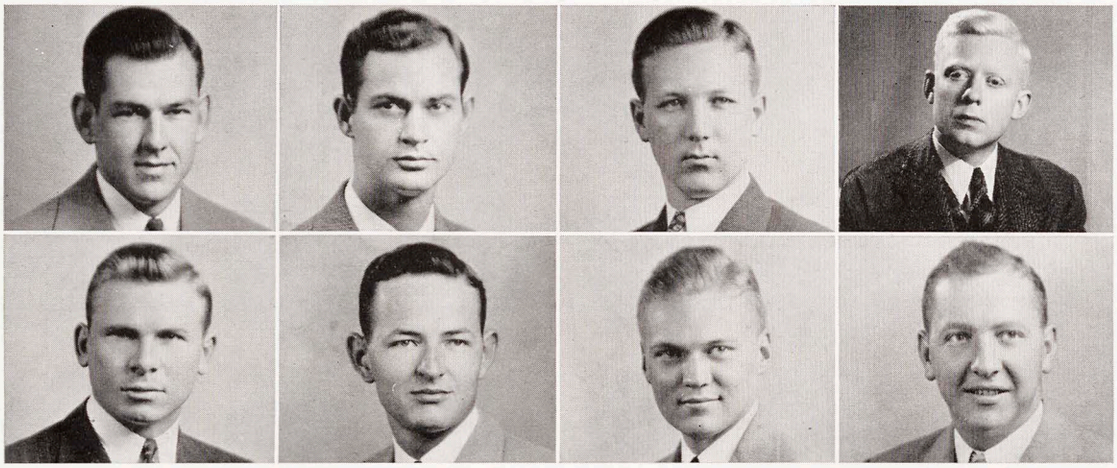
DELTA THETA PHI



First row—Friday, Hall, Lusk, Orto.

Second row—Shelton, Trimble, Wimberly, Yocum.

Delta Theta Phi was organized because of a desire on the part of its charter members that there should be a law society on the campus, membership to which is not based specifically on a grade-point basis but instead would bring together men who are active in campus affairs as well as Law School activities.

It was first organized as the Joseph T. Robinson Law Society on February 25, 1941. Shortly after its organization, Delta Theta Phi became a member of the National Law Society. The national president, Horace L. Lohnes of Washington, D. C., presided at this ceremony.

Since its organization it has had a total membership of twenty-six, seven of which are yet in law school. The other nineteen, to a man, are now members of some branch of the armed forces. Membership is based primarily on the legalite's prospects of becoming a successful lawyer and standards upholder of the law profession.

GUIDON

First row—Arnold, Baken, Best, Bushow, Clement, Combs, Estes, Felton, Fox, Gammill, Griffin, Hurst.

Second row—Kramer, Ledford, McAllister, Patton, Piercy, Shamel, Shaw, Vise, Washington, Watson, Williams, Wilson, Wyatt.

Holding open house for soldiers, visiting the local United Service Organization, rolling bandages, marching at Homecoming, and sponsoring a drive for the Red Cross—these have been the major activities of the members of Guidon, women's military organization, this year.

Known as "The Guards" until it petitioned Guidon in 1934, the group is a national auxiliary of Scabbard and Blade. The organization was originated at South Dakota university, and Company D of Arkansas keeps in step with national, with its similar purposes of upholding policies of our nation in times of peace and war.

Meetings are held twice a month, on the first and third Tuesdays, in the Blue Room of the Student Union. New members are taken into the organization twice a year, in the spring and fall. Five girls from each organized house are eligible for membership, and the houses represented by girls elected to major offices, are entitled to an additional member.

Officers of the group are: Anne Lawson, captain; Catherine Patton, first lieutenant; Marion Fox, second lieutenant; Jean Williams, guidon bearer; Anne Ledford, sergeant, and Reube Gene Shaw, company clerk.

HOME EC CLUB

First row — Abston, Adams, Aldridge, Anders, Barham, Barlow, Barrett, Baughn, Bitely, Bollinger, Bourne, Bryant, Cash.

Second row— Castling, Clement, Coleman, Cooper, Cox, Crawford, Crum, Deffenbaugh, Dickinson, E. N. Edwards, J. Edwards, V. Edwards, Etheridge.

Third row — B. Evans, M. Evans, Ewing, Farish, Fitzgerald, Faley, Foreman, Garrett, Goughan, Giles, Gustafson, Harrington, Harris.

Fourth row—Harrison, Hazel, Hearnsberger, Heath, Horne, Houston, Hudgins, Irby, J. Johnson, M. Johnson, C. Jones, H. Jones, Kice.

While an amused faculty looked on, eight unabashed students, garbed in appropriate costumes, and effecting suitable mannerisms, exhibited their talents as imitators as they portrayed the Home Ec teachers as they appeared to them. Fun had by all, even the enlightened facultyites.

Other outstanding meetings consisted of a get-together with Omicron Delta in September, a baked bean supper honoring the new members where the oldsters exhibited to the neophytes their exceptional cooking ability, a formal tea for the faculty and mothers, a roundtable discussion of vocational field open to Home Ec students, and in the spring, an installation banquet for new officers, and a breakfast.

The Betty Lamp, official publication of the club, occupies two pages in the Agriculturist. It is written by the Home Ec journalism classes, and deals with their activities and interests.

Answering the call to do their bit for victory, under the direction of president Betty Lou Kramer they met one night a week to sew for the Red Cross, and are credited with 50 over seas kits.

Fourth row—Taylor, Thorne, Trawick, Tyler, Walden, Washington, Watson, Welch, H. Wells, M. Wells, Wepfer, Wilson, Yocham.

All girls enrolled in Home Ec courses are eligible for membership in the Home Ec club, which meets every second Wednesday in the Home Ec living room with Miss Helen Cannon as sponsor. Over 100 girls are banded together to promote fellowship among students, and between students and faculty.

In the spring the club sponsored a war stamp drive which netted Uncle Sam profitable amounts. They were also interested in leisure reading, and book reviews of best sellers were given at their meetings, accompanied by excellent desserts concocted by these kitchen artists.

Two officers took top scholarship honors when president Betty Lou won the Hazel Briggs award, which is given annually to the junior woman in the College of Agriculture who is most outstanding for scholarship and journalism. Caroline Roberts was the winner of the American Association of University Women prize of $50 for her high scholarship and leadership ability.

Other officers are Irma Murphy, vice-president; Martha Lou Foreman, secretary; Mary Colen Etheridge, treasurer; Genevieve Seagraves, historian; and Mary Alice Wepfer, editor of Betty Lamp. Caroline served as reporter for the group, and Nina Mae Wilson acted as social chairman.

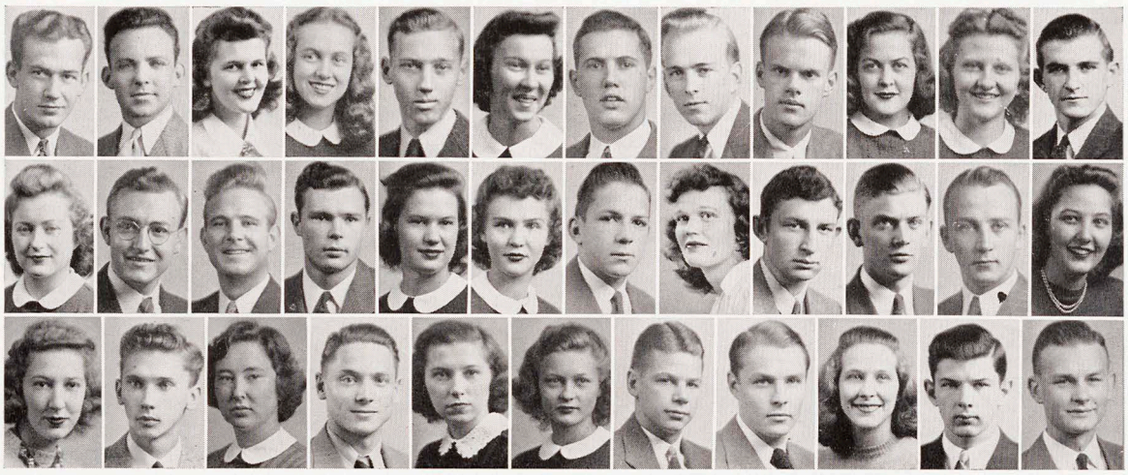
INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB



First row—Beach, Bonds, Burke, Caldwell, Clark, Collier, Conditt, Cook, Corl, Crawford, Davis, Deacon.

Third row—McWilliams, Oglesby, Ponder, Putnam, Singletary, Smith, Thomas, Tolson, Wacker, Woods, Wright.

Students who were interested in the world situation met twice a month in the Blue Room of the Student Union and held discussions of world problems. This group, which is the International Relations Club, has had very heated discussions since the entrance of the United States into the war.

Founded in California before the outbreak of World War I as the International Polity Club, the IRC now has chapters in every state in the Union and in most of the possessions of the United States. Two-thirds of these chapters are in colleges and universities.

A faculty member or some other distinguished speaker discusses a timely international problem at some of the meetings. Open discussion among the members follow these speeches. Forums have been held this year too, and the topics discussed were Russia, the Post War World, and the Peace Terms. Dr. Henry M. Alexander is sponsor.

The annual regional conference of the IRC was not held this year due to transportation difficulties.

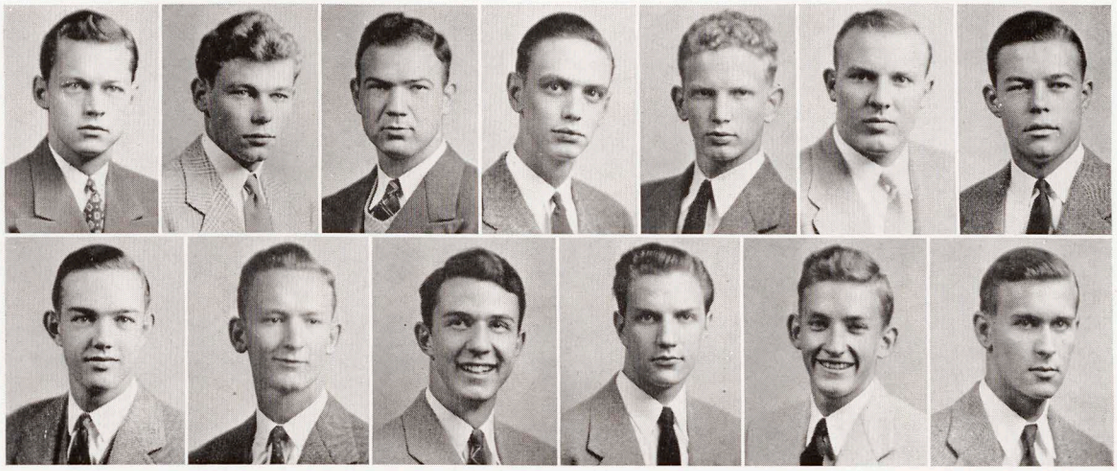
JUNIOR INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL



First row — Burroughs, Campbell, Dobbs, Hefley, Isgrig, Melton, Murry.

Second row—Prewitt, Purifoy, Rule, Schreidt, Smith, Thorpe.

The main event on the Jr. Interfraternity Council calendar is a dance sponsored jointly with the senior council. Preceding the Interfraternity dance, Jr. Queen, Kappa Mary Ella Crook, was crowned at a banquet to which all the pledges on the campus were invited. Dean Jordan was speaker.

The Jr. Councilers meet one Wednesday a month at the Union. The pledge president and another representative make up the membership of the council. Their object is to promote good feeling among the fraternities and to develop leaders among the pledges. Dean Humphries is the sponsor.

A constitution was written and adopted this year patterned after the senior constitution. Jack Rule was chairman of the "drafting committee."

For the first time, Jr. Interfraternity Council awarded a plaque to the pledge class making the highest grade point.

MIXED CHORUS

"Anyone can learn to sing!" is the motto of Harry E. Shultz, head of the music department, and director of the University Mixed Chorus; and he tries to convince each member of the Chorus of this fact at the weekly meetings every Tuesday night in the Student Union ballroom.

The University Mixed Chorus has been in existence on the campus for four years, and membership is open to University men and women who (1) can somewhat read music (2) can carry a singing part (3) possess an interest in music and singing; and (4) will attend practice sessions regularly.

Officers to lead the group were elected at the beginning of the year, but due to the call of the army and also because of semester changes, several revisions have been made since then.

Bobby Wilson was first elected president, and acted in that capacity for first semester; but Uncle Sam called, and Frances Brigance, who was vice-president. took over the gavel. Bob Hall was then elected vice-president to succeed Frances. Martha Pickens, who was elected secretary, left school at semester, and Annette Collier replaced her. Bill Orton has served as treasurer all year.

New members may join the group at semester, and, if they desire, may register and receive one hour's credit for each semester's work.

The chorus presented its annual Christmas concert this year in the Union ballroom on December 5. A black and white color scheme was carried out in the costumes worn—the girls attired in white evening dresses, and the boys all wearing tuxedoes. Following the concert, a party was held upstairs in the Union game room, with dancing and refreshments. The spring concert was held during Music Week.

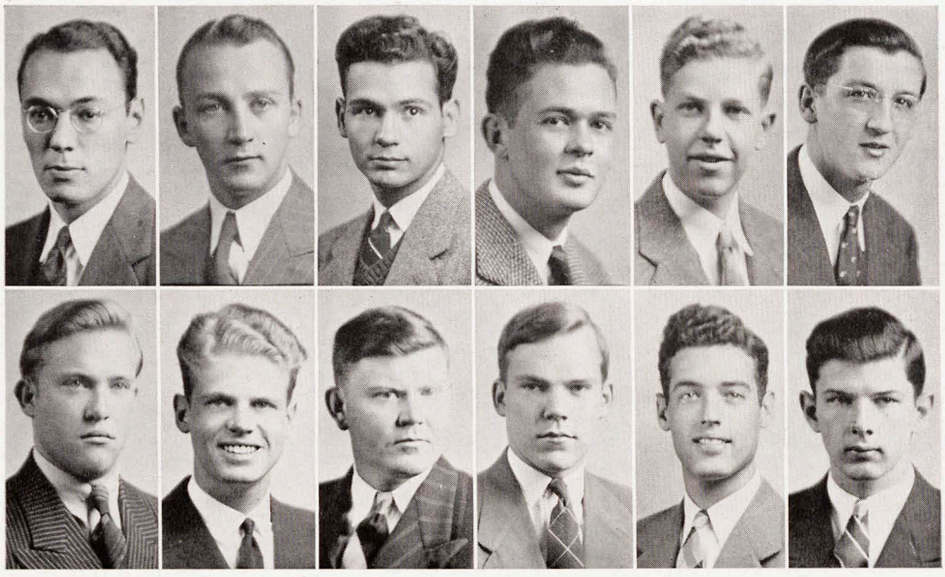
MEN'S PRESS CLUB



First row—Duncan, Lewis, Logan, Penix, Raines, Rice.

Second row—Spence, Stackable, Stallcup, Theis, Weisiger, Woods.

Men's Press Club is the organization on the campus made up of journalism majors and editors and business managers of the different student publications.

With only a nucleus of four members remaining from last year's group the club initiated eleven men. The traditional initiation was held at the Northwest Arkansas Times office with each new member writing a humorous paper on an assigned subject. Outstanding papers were written by Kenneth Theis, editor of the Guild Ticker, on a basketball game between the men and women members of the faculty, and Tom Logan's subject was a supposed interview with a Latin-American student on the coöperation of university women in furthering the good-will policy. All papers would have been too heavily censored to be printed.

The club's activities included a joint beer-bust with Pi Kappa, female journalists, a student poll, and aided in publication of the April Fool Edition of the Traveler.

PAN-AMERICANA LEAGUE

First row—Bethel, Brown, Garcia, Gibson, Guerrero, Hutcheson, Loyola, Luigi, MacChesney, Miller

Second row—Mollica, Nelson, Nichols, Putman, Sample, Sisson, Valdivieso, Vargas, Whittington, Yarrington.

The Pan American League was formed three years ago on the Arkansas campus by T. B. Whittington and was called the Spanish Club. This year, however, the club, having changed its name to Pan Americana, decided to broaden its scope to include a serious study of the customs and national characteristics of the people of the Americas. Shortly after the second semester the club became affiliated with the National Pan American League.

At the meetings, which are held twice a month, various programs are presented alternately in English and Spanish. The Spanish members of the organization contribute much to these programs through their personal knowledge of Spanish customs. Second semester meetings were centered around discussions of post war adjustments in the Americas based on addresses by visiting speakers from the history department. Mr. O. W. McMillen is the club's sponsor.

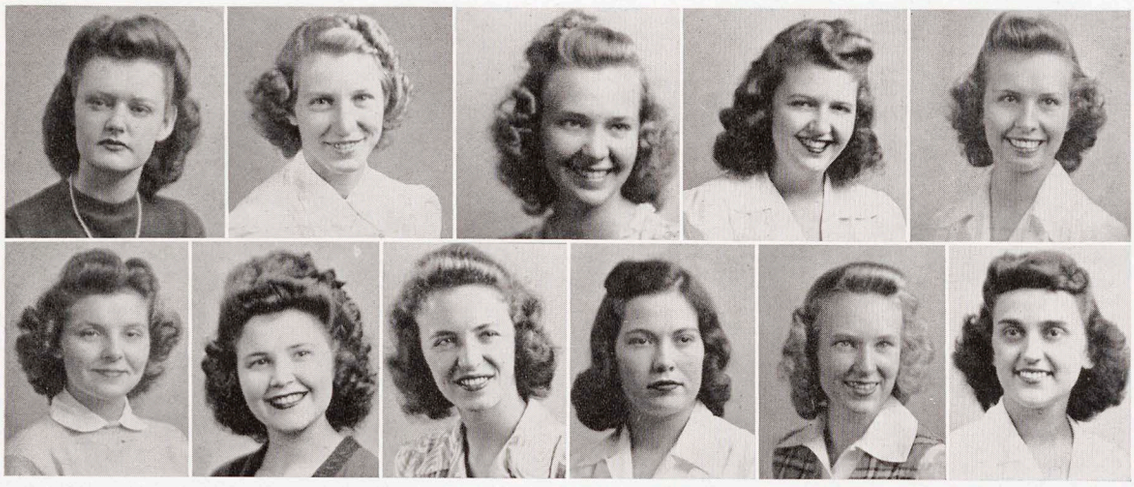
PHI CHI ALPHA



First row — Booe, Brown, Greer, Henry, Henson.

Second row — High, Hill, McNair, Overby, Shamel, Vise.

One of the most recent organizations in the College of Business Administration is Phi Chi Alpha, women's professional business fraternity. Phi Chi Alpha was organized in April, 1942 under the leadership of Helen Price. There were thirteen charter members, all interested in the furtherance of business and professional activities among the women students of the University of Arkansas. The purpose of Phi Chi Alpha is primarily to encourage scholarship among women students in the College of Business Administration. Candidates for membership are selected by invitation on a basis of scholarship, leadership, and personality.

Social functions of this organization have included breakfasts, luncheons, and teas, attended by both members and sponsors.

The present officers are: Kirby Lee Hill, Chairman of the Governing Council; Marjorie Jane Booe, Chairman of Membership and Finance; Zana Bell High, Chairman of Program and Social Activities; Lucretia Overby, Chairman of Publicity.

PI KAPPA

First row—Bylander, Carrol, Combs, Crawford, Edwards, Garcia, Gray.

Second row—Greer, Hughey, Overby, Patrick, Stuck, Tidwell, Willis.

Sending copies of the Traveler to ex-students of the University now in the armed forces has been the main activity of Pi Kappa, honorary journalistic sorority for women, this year.

Through the aid of a drive last fall, many donations of money were made, which enabled the girls to send the paper to every fighting former student.

New members are taken into this group twice a year, limited only by the following requirements: a four-point average in journalism work; an interest in journalism as a profession; and also, each candidate for membership must be approved by each of the active members. Members taken at the beginning of second semester were: Eugenia Crawford, Sue Clay Hughey, Eula Nell Edwards, and Jean Carroll.

At the beginning of the school year, Pi Kappa sponsored a stag smoker in the office of the Traveler, in order to acquaint new students with the organization.

Pi Kappa and her brother organization, the Press club—for men journalists—coöperated this year, as before, in putting out the April Fool edition of the Traveler. In addition, the two groups plan to have at least one social function together before the end of the school year.

PIX

First row—Arnold, Baker, Caldwell, Carl Lee, Canby, Coffman, Crook, Cypert, Dew, Dietrich, Graham, Greer, Helstern.

Second row—B. Hendrix, R. Hendrix, Lawson, Lee, Lide, McCollum, McNew, Oliver, Pate, Piercy, Smith, Stockley, Toland.

In 1930 seven girls, representing four sororities, banded together and organized a social group called Swastika. However, in 1942, due to Hitler's usurpation of their four-armed emblem they were forced to change their name and their pin and are now known as Pix. By this time, too, the membership had increased until finally a quota of twenty-nine members was set.

Their function is purely social, intended to foster friendliness and coöperation between the sororities. Their get-togethers include bridge parties, dances, and initiation banquets held twice yearly, in addition to regular meetings held the first and third Wednesday of each month.

Pix members of 1943 are most proud of the Victory Stamp and Bond drive, sponsored by them early in March which netted well over $700 for Uncle Sam.

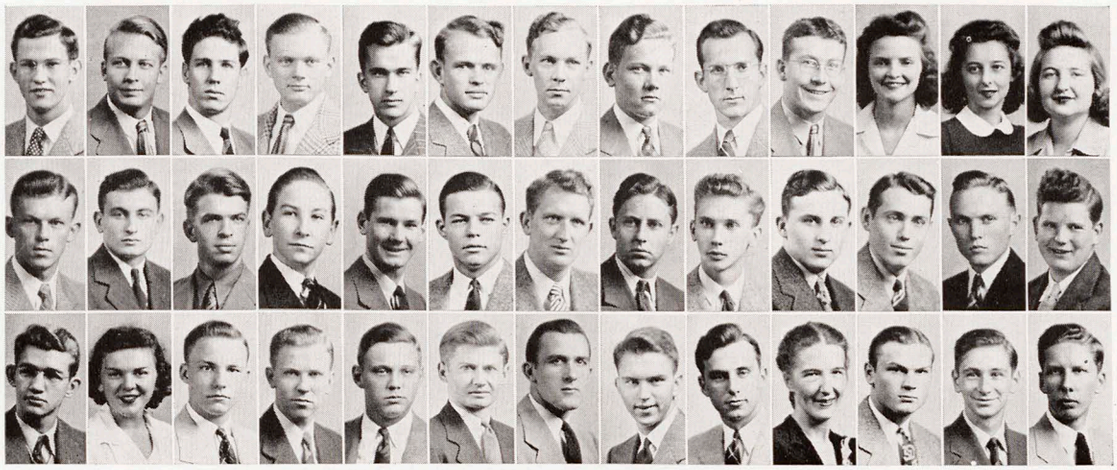
PRE-MED SOCIETY



First row—Beard, Boswell, Brown, Calcote, Doherty, Dunbar, Felts, Gardener, Gosdin, Harris, Hill, Huxtable, Jenkins.

Second row—Kauffman, Kirksey, McCartney, Mashburn, May, Murray, Myers, Nolen, Oglesby, Parker, Patton, Pruitt, Robinson.

Third row—Rodda, Sedwick, Sims, Smith, Spivey, Threlkeld, Walt, Watkins, Wood, Wortham, Wren, Yanowitz, Young.

Twice a month the pre-medics on the Arkansas campus get together to be informed on subjects which are of medical interest to them. For definite information in specialized fields the club invites members of the faculty to speak at these meetings, and occasionally guest speakers from out of town attend. The members themselves often compose research papers for group discussion on a particular topic of their choosing. Special movies also provide interesting material for meetings.

The annual spring tour of the Veterans Hospital was not neglected this year, nor was the spring banquet, which is the highlight of the year.

The club is composed of all pre-medic students who are interested in problems and developments in medicine. This year they promoted study for the Medical Aptitude Test, which all pre-med students must pass before going to med-school.

PSI CHI

First row—Cross, Gray, Kellett, Lewis, Patridge.

Second row—Smith, Taylor, Tidwell, Welsh, West.

Members of Psi Chi, national honorary for psychology, meet monthly on Sunday night to hear reports and debates, and to discuss the latest developments in their field.

Programs for this year have included a "psychology quiz" at the first meeting, a talk on "Psychotherapy" by Bob McDonald and Mary Lou Willard, a report on "Psychosurgery" by Reba Gray, one on "Formal Discipline" by Helen Tidwell, and a paper on "Experimental Neurosis" by Mary Lewis and Betty Lou Welch. At a special meeting at the home of Mrs. Louise Seamster Chenery, the group heard talks on "Psychology After the War" by Mrs. Chenery and Bill West.

The group voted to award a prize to the best talk given at a meeting during the year, beginning in 1943-44.

Fifth row—Riggs, Robins, Scurlock, Stafford, Swearingen, Taylor, Todd, Trawick, Welch, Wherley, Williams.

Two decades ago the Rootin' Rubes organization was formed at the University of Arkansas to provide a nucleus of enthusiasm toward athletics within the student body, to represent the ideals of sportsmanship and fair play, and to show loyalty to the Alma Mater.

Two projects were carried out this year. The bronze football placed at the entrance to the old football field when the Razorbacks won the conference in '36 was moved from its secluded spot to the entrance of the Razorback Stadium. The annual project of presenting the senior lettermen with Razorback blankets was carried out. Complimentary blankets were presented to Mrs. Goldie Jones and Coach George Cole.

In appreciation for the support given them this year, the A. Club presented all members of Rootin' Rubes with gold Razorback lapel pins.

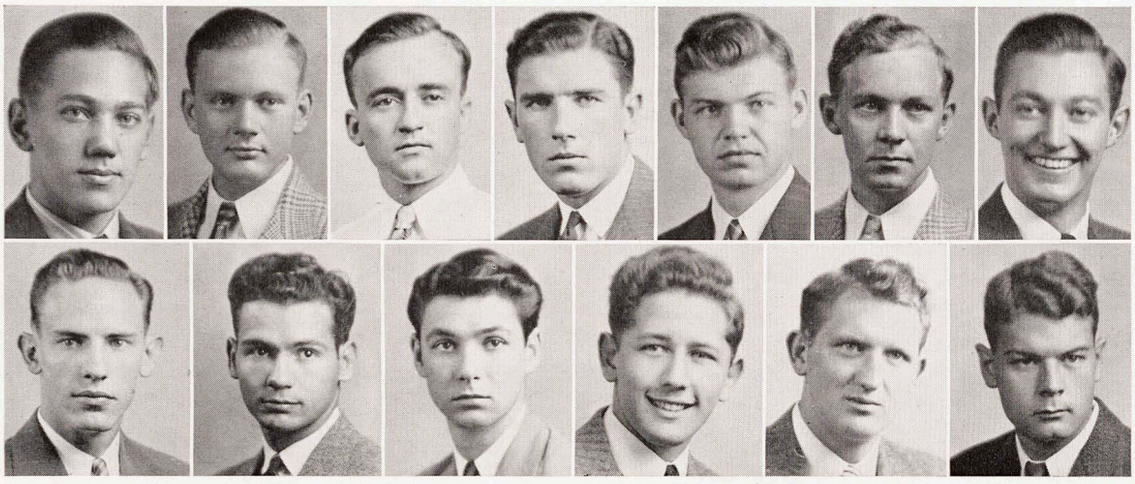
SADDLE AND BRIDLE



Top row—Barton, Calcote, Collins, Demoret, Doerphinghaus, Felts, Gannaway.

Second row—Jones, Logan, Mabray, Miller, Myers, Woods.

New among campus organizations is the Saddle and Bridle Club, horsemanship organization for university men. Male counterpart of Boots and Spur, Saddle and Bridle offers opportunity for university men to learn the proper care of horses as well as to master the finer points of horse-back riding.

Horses are furnished the club by Mrs. Joy Markham from Hilltop Stables. Only requirement for admission into Saddle and Bridle is a genuine interest in horsemanship and the attainment of a certain standard of riding ability.

Organized the first semester by Tom Logan and three charter members, Saddle and Bridle, under capable guidance of Mrs. Markham and sponsors, Dr. Adkisson and Dr. Roy, is rapidly spreading a desire for equestrian mastery among campus men.

UNIVERSITY 4-H CLUB

First row — Alter, Bedwell, Bitely, Bishop, Blanchard, Bostain, Bowden, Boyd, Bryant, Cash, Cooper, J. Edwards, V. Edwards, Evans, Ewing, Ferguson, Foreman, Foresee, Fowler.

Second row— Franklin, Gallegly, B. Gibb, J. Gibbs, Giles, Harris, Hearnsberger, Horton, Hubbard, Huneycutt, Keeling, Kendrick, Lancaster, Lynd, Marshall, Nicks, Owens, Pemberton, Riggs.

Third row—D. Segraves, J. Segraves, Shumate, H. Simmons, J. Simmons, C. Smith, M. Smith, R. Smith, Spitze, Stallcup, Starnes, Swearingen, Taylor, Trawick, Tyree, H. Wells, M. Wells, Wilson, Yocham.

With the view of continuing the 4-H activities of pre-college days, progressive agris got together a few years ago and organized the University 4-H club. Since then it has grown to be one of the largest organizations in the Agri College. Both educational and entertaining programs are featured at the regular bi-monthly meetings. Prominent agricultural workers speak from time to time throughout the year, and entertainment is furnished in the form of group singing, games, and special programs. An annual Spring picnic and a banquet constitute the major social events of the year.

The chief purposes of the organization are to promote acquaintances among the students in the College of Agriculture, and to develop a better idea of 4-H activities for members who plan to work in the Agricultural Extension Service, and who will be dealing with 4-H work.

W A A

First row—Bacon, Barlow, Cox, Dickerson, Dickson, Cook, Gibson, Hardin.

Second row—Houston, Hutcheson, Jones, Lewis, Riggs, K. Smith, R. Smith, Todd.

WAA started out the year with a picnic for freshmen at Harmon play field. About eighty attended, and the officers of the association were introduced, and the freshmen were told about WAA.

Carnall Hall and Town won most of the tournaments this year—they tied for the hockey tournament, Carnall won first and Town second in the softball tournament, and Carnall was first in the basketball tournament. Kathleen Smith was the winner in the badminton tournament, and Marguerite Dickson won at pingpong.

Miss June Paulson is the sponsor of WAA, and she helps the girls conduct their meetings and organize intramural athletics for all the women on the campus. Award letters are given and new members are taken in at the spring picnic.

The organization is a member of NAFOCW—namely the National Athletic Federation of College Women. It even has its own publication, The Spotlight.

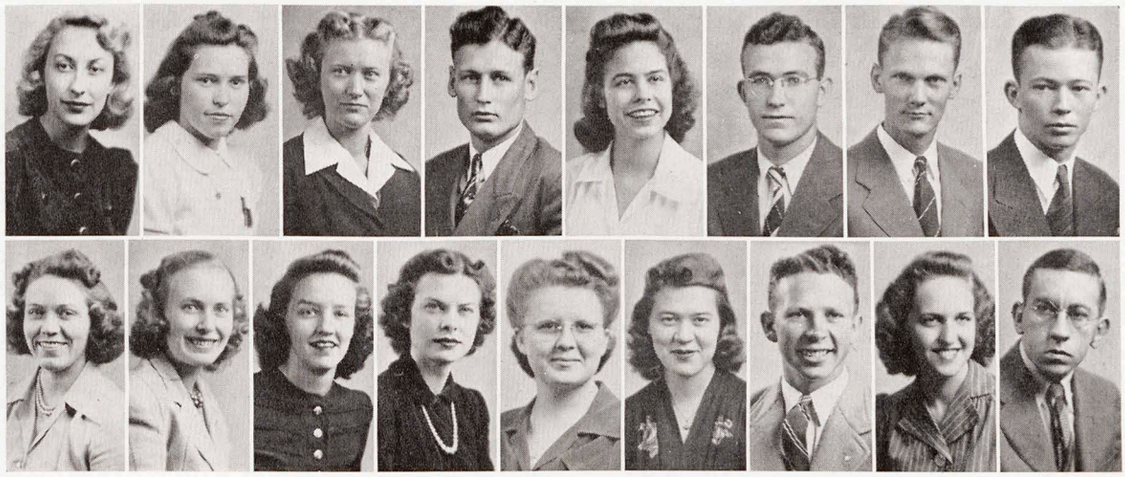
WESLEY FOUNDATION



First row—Brooks, Evans, Foreman, Galleghey, Garcia, Heckman, Hendrickson, J. Hubbard.

Second row—Jones, Kleine, Moore, Murphy, Nelson, Segraves, Spitze, H. Taylor, J. Taylor.

For the 19th year Wesley Foundation, a national organization for college Methodist students, has brought together students and faculty in a well planned religious program to meet the spiritual needs of the students.

Social functions started with a reception for all students at the first of the year. Parties of varied types were held each month thereafter.

For the first time Wesley Foundation has had the service of Miss Ruth L. Beyer, director of Youth Division of the Central Methodist Church.

Another new feature of the year's program was the selection of interesting courses taught in ten week periods. Teachers were selected who had particular training in each field taught.

Helen Kleine, Hazel Taylor, and Robert Spitze were delegates to the National Methodist Youth Fellowship Convocation at Oxford, Ohio. Carlos Hendrickson served as vice-president of Arkansas Methodist Students, a state wide organization.

YWCA

First row—Adams, Aldridge, Barlow, Etheridge, Hays, Hill, Irby, C. Jones.

Second row—H. Jones, McAllister, Nelson, Pattillo, Smith, Sullivant, Wilson.

Parties, discussions, lectures, conferences, devotionals, and war work—these various activities make up the calendar of the Y. W. C. A.

Starting things off early in the school year, the Y's entertained freshmen with an informal get-acquainted party in the Student Union. Over 200 lads and lassies danced, played folk-games, and competed in contests. Three other socials were held during the year to which all students were invited.

The Y. W. C. A. meets twice a month, usually having one of these meetings with the Y. M. C. A. Their programs included lectures, picture shows, quiz programs, and discussions planned by Addie Barlow.

The Y. W. C. A. had its beginning in England during the Industrial Revolution in the form of a boarding house for girls who worked in the factories. The idea spread to this country and, in 1906, became known as the Y. W. C. A. of the United States.

The trying conditions which we face cannot defeat the age-honored traditions of the great American family. Let us keep it and all that it stands for held high, ever remembering our obligations to our loved ones.

Reddy Kilowatt is Busy as a Beaver These Days!

Plenty of Power for War Industries Without Curtailing Your Home Use!

Reddy Kilowatt is busy as a beaver these days furnishing power for America's war industries. He was ready to start supplying power for these war plants as soon as they were built, too. There has been no delay in war production because of lack of electric power. Despite the tremendous increase in the demand for power there is still plenty of electricity for your home use . . . and at the same low rates. Use all the electricity you need but don't waste it.
